AVERT CHICAGO GAS STRIKE

M'Arthur Reports to People: Japanese Army Abolished

WORKERS GET PAY RAISE IN COMPROMISE

Tieup for Million Users Avoided

A threatened gas strike in Chicago and suburbs was averted at midnight last night—the dead line—when officials of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Gas Workers' union [AFL] reached agreement on a wage and hour dispute.

As a result, more than 1,000,000 home users of gas and thousands of businesses and industries were spared an unprecedented problem from the shutting off of gas. As a further result, the company's record of uninterrupted service since 1851, unbroken either by strike or disaster, was maintained.

Pay Raised 15 Per Cent

Under the agreement, as announced early this morning, the 1,500 members of the union will receive a 15 per cent wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1. The union had demanded a flat 20 per cent boost and the company had offered 12 per cent. In addition, men working Saturdays and Sundays will receive time and one-half pay.

The strike threat came to a head yesterday after a series of negotiations begun Sept. 17. The union in June had voted strike authorization under federal law.

At 1:10 p. m. yesterday the union served notice on George A. Ranney, company chairman, that it would strike at midnight unless its demands were met. Ranney asserted a strike would be illegal. Company officials and union spokesmen met soon afterward and resumed their conference at 8 p. m. with Jesse E. Jacobson, federal conciliator, in the conciliation offices at 222 Adams st.

Stewards Await Word

Until the last minute it appeared the strike threat might be carried out. Twenty-five union stewards were awaiting word in their near-by headquarters. Then at 12 midnight, sharp, it was announced that wage and hour differences had been composed and the strike threat had been withdrawn.

Present at the conference for the company were K. B. Nagler, vice president; J. J. Novy, executive engineer, and E. F. Schuldt, assistant general superintendent. Present for the union were James E. Fitzpatrick, business manager; William D. Dowd, president; James Sweeney, recording secretary, and Harry E. O'Reilly, AFL midwestern director. Also attending was Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail.

'Battle for Coal' Won by Belgium, Premier Asserts

LONDON, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—Achille Van Acker, Belgian prime minister, today said Belgium had won its "battle for coal," the Brussels radio reported. "During the last week the daily average coal production has risen to 65,000 tons," Van Acker stated.

Bay State Bus Strike Break Seen by Union

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16 [Tuesday]—[Special]—Altho defiance of Gov. Maurice J. Tobin's order that members returns to work continued this morning a union spokesman early today predicted that buses of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway would roll in most of the affected communities later today.

About 1,800 drivers and mechanics, members of the AFL Almalgamated Association of Street, Electric and Motor Coach Operators union, have been on strike since Saturday, leaving approximately 1,000,000 persons in the suburban Boston and eastern Massachusetts area without transportation.

Gov. Tobin issued his return to work order Sunday night under special war time emergency powers after seizing the company on behalf of the state and appointing Frank J. Murray, Boston attorney, as administrator of the company.

Predicts Service Today

Russell Withrow, chairman of the AFL union's joint conference committee said "I honestly believe that we'll have service in the morning."

Earlier, Withrow had disputed figures which Murray had issued purporting to show that members of four locals of the union had voted to return to work.

First break in the strike came at midnight when both the union local president and the company superintendent at the Lowell division announced that the buses would move on schedule today.

A 1942 act of the Massachusetts legislature confers war time emergency powers on the governor to take over any company and order the strikers back to work where the "situation constitutes a grave threat to the peace and safety of the commonwealth."

Held Defiance of State

Tobin viewed the bus walkout as a strike against the state rather than against the company and termed his measure "necessary and expedient" for meeting the emergency of the existing need for industrial reconversion. Under the act any violator of the governor's order faces a penalty not to exceed a year in jail or a fine of not more than $500 or both.

Ten of the union's 11 locals with the Eastern Massachusetts system are on strike, affecting 71 communities including Haverhill, Lynn, Lowell, Lawrence, Peabody, Taunton, and Fall River.

Drivers are asking a boost from 97 cents an hour to $1.35 for a 40 hour week, and mechanics are seeking a 40 per cent increase in their present scale of 75 cents to $1.05 an hour, and a 40 hour week.

12 ON FACULTY AT LOUISIANA STATE RESIGN

New Orleans, La., Oct. 15 (AP)—Twelve faculty members resigned from Louisiana State university's medical school today in protest against faculty shakeup methods as "undemocratic."

The twelve sent letters of resignation to the dean, Dr. Wilbur C. Smith. Three others previously had resigned. There are 128 faculty members. One of those to leave was Dr. B. I. Burns, former dean, who was replaced by Dr. Smith last Sept. 4. Dr. Burns had been retained as professor of anatomy.

Dr. Samuel W. Nelken, spokesman for the resigned professors, declared in an interview that the positions of college dean and departmental heads were being "changed at the pleasure of the board of supervisors and the president of the university."

U. S. to Hang 3 Nazis; Hard Labor for Four

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 15 (AP)—An American military tribunal tonight condemned three men to death and sentenced three other men and one woman to long prison terms for the murder of more than 400 Russians and Poles at Hadamar insane asylum.

Condemned to die were Alfons Klein, former administrative head of the murder asylum and a former member of both the S. A. [storm troopers] and Nazi party; Heinrich Ruoff, and Karl Willig, asylum attendants who admitted administering deadly doses of morphine to hundreds of victims.

Life for Medical Man

Adolf Wahlmann, chief medical officer at the institution was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor. Adolf Merkle, who admitted falsifying death certificates to make it appear that the victims died of lung diseases, received a prison sentence of 39 years, and Philipp Blum, the institution's undertaker, got 30 years, both at hard labor.

Irmgard Huber, chief nurse at the asylum and only woman defendant, was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

The courtroom was jammed with Germans as the six man commission, headed by Col. John L. Dicks, filed in to pronounce the judgment.

Woman Pale, Trembling

There was a low gasp as Dicks, in a firm voice, pronounced death by hanging for Klein, the hard faced Nazi who ran the asylum. Klein, his hands folded in front of him, swayed slightly as the German translator read the verdict, but he quickly regained composure.

Only the elderly woman nurse showed any emotion. She was pale and trembling as she came before the court for sentencing. She leaned heavily on a guard as she walked out.

The prisoners were hurried away in army trucks before the spectators were allowed to leave the courtroom.

GUARD CALLED KIND

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 15—Two German girls who were in the concentration camp at Ravensbrueck for a year and a half because "they cracked jokes against the Nazis, had English dance records, and visited a Jewish friend," testified in the war crimes trial today. They came to speak in favor of SS [elite guard] supervisor Hertha Ehlert.

"She was very good to us," said 24 year old Jutta Madlung from Hamburg. "She was the only supervisor who did not beat us, and when my sister was sick she gave me some apples and bread." Here Ehlert broke down and wept. Her tears ran even more copiously when 25 year old Onga Madlung said, "Ehlert told me several times she hated to see prisoners ill treated. All the supervisors and camp policewomen beat the prisoners in Ravensbrueck. Ehlert was the only exception."

Just Slapped Prisoners

Ehlert spent a day on the stand, trying to convince the court she merely slapped prisoners.

Earlier in the day a documentary film which the Russians took at Auschwitz, when they seized that camp, was shown in court. There were piles of dead, and mass graves filled with men and women who had been starved to death, the same as at Belsen and Buchenwald.

Sends Eisenhower Last V-Mail Letter from N. Y.

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The last V-mail letter to be mailed from the New York port of embarkation—No. 338,824,081—was sent today to Gen. Eisenhower by Maj. Gen. Clarence H. Kells, commanding officer of the port. In the letter Gen. Kells notified Gen. Eisenhower of the termination of V-mail service from New York.

GERMAN RATION CUT TO 1,345 CALORIES BY U. S. MILITARY

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 15 (AP)—The American military government trimmed the average German civilian ration tonight for the next four weeks to 1,345 calories. The average civilian ration in September was 1,480 to 1,800 calories daily. Normal minimum health requirements are 2,000 calories a day.

Finds Conditions "Damnable"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 15—Charging conditions under which displaced refugees living in the British sector in Berlin are "damnable," Norman Dodds, Labor member of parliament, just back from Berlin, said today that except for the gas chambers, he believes the refugee camps are worse than the former German camp at Belsen.

Dodds said there is a large percentage of children and babies among the camp occupants in the British sector living in misery. When he visited the camp they were freezing, he said. There was no light or sanitary arrangements in most rooms, and when the refugees went in at night they had to stay until the following morning. They are given only one meal a day, a plate of soup and a piece of bread.

Harbor Roars Welcome to Fleet, Halsey

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 15 (AP)—Adm. Halsey and his dungareed seamen scorned ceremonial dignity to wave an enthusiastic greeting to crowds high above as his homecoming 3d fleet flagship steamed beneath the Golden Gate bridge today.

At first he stood rigid, silent and alone on the veranda deck of the battleship South Dakota. Planes and dirigibles wheeled overhead, and the bridge loomed nearer. The admiral turned his head for a twinkling aside to his staff:

"They used to throw pop bottles off there. . . ."

Halsey Waves to Crowd

Then, as the cheers of the waiting throng became audible, his gold braided arm swept aloft in reply. Down at the quarter deck rail, a seaman burst forth with: "To hell with this standing at attention!" and he and his shipmates waved, too.

Steamers and small craft all over the harbor tied down whistle cords, and air raid sirens swelled the clamor as the South Dakota steamed in at the head of the 3d fleet column which brought in 10,000 navy, coast guard, and marine personnel for discharge.

Following were six submarines, the Puffer, Baya, Kraken, Loggerhead, Pilotfish, and Stickelback; the destroyers De Haven, Samuel N. Moore, and Blue; the cruiser Vicksburg, and the battleships Alabama, Wisconsin, and Colorado.

Calls Nazis Greater Menace

In a news conference a little earlier the admiral said: "This is what we have dreamed of, hoped for, fought for, and prayed for—to return home again. . . . We want to stay for all time to come."

He said that Germany was a greater menace than Japan "because there are more brains in Germany."

Discussing American peace time plans, Halsey proposed that young officers of the navy, army, and air forces be trained as the nucleus of a general staff in lieu of creating a unified department of national defense."

HOUSE GROUP REPORTS REDS LOOT BALKANS

Meddling in Other Nations Charged

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 [Special]—Two groups of congressmen, home from investigation tours abroad, gave warnings today concerning Russia's activities.

1. A committee of 11 told the house it had found strong evidence of Russian looting in Balkan countries and a soviet threat to grab Iran to obtain a Persian gulf port.

2. Two other congressmen reported that Russia "obviously and energetically" is extending her economic, political, and military influence into every nation on her border with the exception of Turkey.

Loot Clogs Roads

The looting charge was made by a special committee, composed of six Democrats and five Republicans and representing 11 house committees, which was the first congressional group to visit the soviet union since the war. It was headed by Rep. Wickersham [D., Okla.].

Their report asserted that the members had noted in many Balkan countries "literally thousands of Russian soldiers driving horses, wagons, and cattle along the roads to Russia."

"Citizens of these countries claim their property is being taken away as loot," the committee said.

Claims It's Theirs

It is the claim of the Russians, the congressman added, that the "disputed goods or animals are Russian property being retaken, or German property being taken as reparations."

Discussing Iran, the committee told the house that anxiety is mounting steadily over that country's independence, as guaranteed at Tehran. Iranians are particularly concerned, the committee said, over the possibility "that the Russians might start a movement to separate the northern part of Iran from the southeastern section."

The report said Russia wants access to a warm water port on the Persian gulf and that "it is becoming difficult for some Iranians to believe the Russians are not digging in both politically and economically, as if they intend to stay."

Army of 10 Million

Urging that certain fundamental agreements be reached with Russia, the committee estimated that the U. S. S. R. has an army of 10 million men and commented:

"Many army and state department officials feel that members of

JAP OFFICER TELLS OF HITLER PLEA FOR HELP TO FLEE REICH

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo tonight said a former Japanese navy staff officer had "told details of a plan for Hitler to escape to Japan with Eva Braun." The officer attended a "secret meeting in Tokyo on March 3, 1945, when final arrangements were made." The dispatch added:

"Hitler had promised the Japanese that if they provided a safe refuge for himself and Eva Braun he would give them plans which he guaranteed would win the war in the Pacific, the officer said. Hitler also asked for and was given an assurance by the Japanese imperial staff that after the Japanese had conquered Australia and America they would help him regain control of Europe so that Germany and Japan could rule the world."

The officer said that at Hitler's request a Japanese submarine was sent to pick him up. "The submarine left Yokohama March 5 and headed for Hamburg. It never reached its destination and its fate is still unknown," the dispatch said.

[The British government has no conclusive proof whether Hitler is dead or alive, and still is investigating the mystery, the house of commons was told yesterday.]

General Gives High Praise to Yank Troops

TOKYO, Oct. 16 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur triumphantly announced today the demobilization of Japan's once great army and navy had been completed, praised "magnificent conduct" of American troops, and spoke strongly for a unified American military command.

The allied commander in a world-wide broadcast added that defeated and devastated Japan would need much time and great patience from the entire world to "restore the dignity and freedom of the common man" in the island empire.

"New Thoughts and Ideas"

MacArthur said that for the first time American soldiers of the occupation forces had given the Japanese people an insight into "a free man's way of life in actual action, and it stunned them into new thoughts and new ideas."

MacArthur's broadcast was described at headquarters as a discussion of the military phases of the occupation. It also was interpreted here as an answer to critics who have charged the supreme commander has been too soft in handling the Japanese. Its text follows:

"Today the Japanese armed forces thruout Japan completed their demobilization and ceased to exist as such. These forces are now completely abolished.

No Longer a Power

"I know of no demobilization in history either in war or peace by our own or by any other country that has been accomplished so rapidly or so frictionlessly. Everything military, naval, or air is forbidden to Japan. This ends its military might and its military influence in international affairs. It no longers reckons as a world power either large or small. Its path in the future, if it is to survive, must be confined to the ways of peace. Approximately 7,000,000 armed men, including those in the outlying theaters, have laid down their weapons.

"In the accomplishment of the extraordinarily difficult and dangerous surrender in Japan, unique in the annals of history, not a shot was necessary, not a drop of allied blood was shed.

Servility and Fear

"The vindication of the great decision of Potsdam is complete. Nothing could exceed the abjectness, the humiliation and the finality of this surrender. It is not only physically thoro, but has been equally destructive on Japanese spirit. From swaggering arrogance, the former Japanese military have passed to servility and fear. They are thoroly beaten and cowed, and tremble before the terrible retribution the surrender terms impose upon their country in punishment for its great sins.

"Again I wish to pay tribute to the magnificent conduct of our troops. With a few exceptions, they could well be taken as a model for all time as a conquering army. No historian in later years, when passions cool, can arraign their conduct. They could so easily and understandably have emulated the ruthlessness which their enemy freely practiced when conditions were reversed. But their perfect

BERLIN PAPERS ROW OVER 'SLANDER' OF REDS BY A BRITON

BERLIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Russian controlled Berlin newspaper Tagliche Rundschau today accused the American licensed newspaper Tagesspiegel of printing "slanderous remarks against the Russian people."

Rundschau criticized Tagesspiegel for printing excerpts from the published memoirs of the late Viscount d'Abernon, British ambassador to Germany [1920-'26], in which he said Germans liked Americans but regarded Russians as "dishonest."

D'Abernon, whom Tagesspiegel called a "wise observer," was quoted as writing that "the German finds the Frenchman too logical and precise, the Englishman too indeterminate, the Italian too subtle, and the Russian too dishonest. But the German regards the American as practical and convincing."

JEWS SING DIRGE FOR DEAD, THEN LASH ENGLAND

Stadium Speakers Ask Homeland

Mournful cadences of the ages old chant for the dead welled from thousands of throats in the Chicago Stadium last night, beat against the rafters, and then subsided into poignant silence as Jews of the Chicago area gathered to protest Britain's exclusion policy for Palestine, the Jewish homeland.

The chant was for the 6,000,000 members of the race estimated to have perished during years of persecution in European concentration camps and gas chambers. At one side of the stage sat a hundred bearded black hatted rabbis, clothed in the serene dignity of a people inured to fortitude and resignation.

Speakers Call for Justice

But the speeches which followed were resonant with the determination of an oppressed minority to demand and receive justice before the court of world opinion.

The speakers repeatedly denounced England for its attitude toward the Jews in Palestine and its refusal to keep faith with its solemn agreement under the Balfour declaration.

Chief speaker of the evening was Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], who asserted that "the plight of the Jews cries out for the opening of Palestine doors."

Barkley Tells U. S. Stand

After reviewing the history of the Balfour declaration in 1916, and its virtual nullification by the White Paper in 1939, Sen. Barkley said that "now the President of the United States, the American people, and, I believe, the majority of the English people have denounced the White Paper.

"When President Truman asked the British prime minister to let 100,000 Jews move into Palestine, he meant exactly what he said. With the support of the American people, I believe the President will be able to persuade the British government to permit that movement."

The huge gathering approved a resolution directed to Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain demanding that England redeem her pledge given the Jewish people. Thousands of post cards were addressed to President Truman.

Breach of Trust Charged

Judge Harry M. Fisher, who presided, charged Great Britain with "breach of a sacred trust."

Max Bressler, chairman of the Committee for Justice, which arranged the meeting, said: "We come here to remind our ally, the British government, that we, the American people, will not allow a contract to be broken to which we are a party in interest."

Rabbi Samuel Goldman of Anshe Emet synagogue said: "The Jews have been taught for generations that Palestine belongs to the Jewish people. The whole world has known it for 57 centuries. Palestine owes its renown to the Jews, not to the Arabs. What have the British contributed? A White Paper as black as night."

Describes Their Struggle

Lt. Gov. Hugh Cross described the struggle of the Jews for their homeland as "the historic battle of humanity versus the imperialistic policy of the British empire."

"In a free world the Jew must be free," said Mayor Kelly, who, still weak from a recent illness, was helped to the platform by Sheriff Michael Mulcahy.

During the traditional Kaddish prayer for the dead lights in the giant auditorium were lowered.

ARAB KING PROTESTS

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—A Cairo, Egypt, report to the Jaffa Arabic paper Al Difaa stated today that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia has protested to Washington, D. C., that he will publish the minutes of his talk with the late President Roosevelt if the United States "persists in supporting Zionism."

The Cairo report said that Mr.

Roosevelt had given Ibn Saud a solemn undertaking not to support Zionism against the Arabs when he visited Saud last February on his way home from the Yalta conference.

BLAMES BRITISH POLICY

New York, Oct. 15 [Special]—Charging that the source of Arab agitation against the Jews in Palestine lies in British imperialistic politics, and that "Britain could stop this agitation within 24 hours," Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] said today that "Palestine is the spot where the next war may originate."

Sen. Brewster was the chief speaker at a luncheon meeting of 300 Christian clergymen, held under the sponsorship of the American Christian Palestine committee, as part of a three day conference on Palestine.

Sen. Brewster said "funds to support the Arab agitation unquestionably came from American and British sources." He described King Ibn Saud of Arabia as "a petty despot before whose threats America and Britain were growing pale," and declared Saud had been loaned $20,000,000 by the British, and had been promised $12,000,000 by President Roosevelt. Sen. Brewster added that "President Truman said he finds no record of the promise by President Roosevelt."

INDIAN ARABS OFFER AID

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 15 (AP)—Moslem leaders and newspapers declared today that Moslems of India would rally stanchly behind the Arabs in Palestine if the Arabs should fight Britain over the immigration of Jews.

I. I. Chundrigar, president of the Bombay province Moslem league, said that if the Arabs considered it necessary to fight, Moslem reinforcements would arrive in Palestine from India.

"Where there's a will there's a way," he said in reference to travel difficulties.

M. Y. Nurie, president of the Bombay province branch of the All-India Moslem league, said that if Indian Moslems were too far from the scene to fight "we know how to use other means."

Call United States Hostile

The newspaper Dawn, organ of the All-India Moslem league, said that any attempt to "give Palestine away to the Jews will inevitably result in a holy war, atom bomb or no atom bomb."

"Americans, if they are honest, should throw their own country open to the Jews," the newspaper said.

"The American attitude towards Arabs, taken in conjunction with their attitude towards the aspirations of Indian Moslems, is creating an impression that the United States is rapidly aligning itself as a nation hostile to the Moslem world," the paper added.

SAILOR'S KISS DIDN'T MEAN A THING, HE SAYS

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—The Bridgeport, O., girl who fell in love—at first kiss—with a sailor on a bus en route thru Hagerstown is in for a disappointment. She loved him but he didn't love back.

"I don't go around kissing people just for a habit," the girl wrote to the Hagerstown Herald, "but this looks like the real thing. Please, Mr. Editor, won't you put something in the paper that will help me find him?" She said the sailor got off the bus at Hagerstown while she went on to Wheeling, W. Va.

Charles W. Mason, 28, discharged and a resident of Cumberland, Md., went to the editor for the girl's address so he could explain that it was "just an innocent kiss" and that he is in love with another girl.

The editor also got an air mail letter from two Lena, Ill., girls who read the story in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. "It is impossible for us to eat or sleep, we are so concerned over the terrible plight of the girl. Please let us know the outcome. We are unable to concentrate on anything else," they said.

Reverse Ruling to Rehire Former Park Employes

The Appellate court yesterday, in an opinion written by Justice Philip J. Finnegan, reversed a decision of Superior Judge John C. Lewe which ordered the Chicago Park district to reinstate 10 former employes of the old park districts before they were consolidated into the present system in 1934. The opinion held that the former employes, who did not file their suit until eight years later, were negligent in acting on their rights.

RUSSIA TO USE TANK PLANTS TO BUILD TRANSPORT

MOSCOW, Oct. 15 (AP)—A government decree disclosed today that the soviet tank industry had been turned over to a new commissariat charged with the task of building a mighty transport system to serve the vast reaches of Russia.

Thousands of workers from the tank factories will built locomotives, frate cars, passenger coaches and motor buses and other equipment for the war crippled transport system.

Foreign observers speculated whether the move might not constitute a partial Russian answer as to how far the soviety union planned to go in its demilitarization plans. The action, disclosed in a decree of the praesidium of the supreme soviet, was regarded as second only to the recent announcement on demobilization plans for the Red army.

U. S. Loan May Be Affected

Informed sources said that the action also might have some bearing on the soviet request for a loan of $6,000,000,000 from the United States. There have been queries from some United States congressmen as to whether Russia would use such a loan for peace time or military purposes.

The new commissariat will be headed by Col. Gen. V. A. Malishev, what was at the reins of the tank industry. He directed the employment of thousands of persons in factories that stretched from the western areas of the soviet union into central Siberia, with headquarters in the Ural mountains.

Plane Plants Make Electric Cars

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said a part of the aviation industry had started making electric cars of two tons each. Five models have been produced and it is hoped several hundred will be manufactured next year.

The same section of the aviation industry is turning out tractor parts, pails, spoons, and cans, Pravda added. The industry is continuing to turn out planes for civilian production.

VFW BONUS PLAN COST ESTIMATED AT 30 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—An official of the Veterans of Foreign Wars estimated today that an adjusted service pay proposal sponsored by the organization "could cost as much as 30 billion dollars."

Omar B. Ketchum, national legislative representative of the V. F. W., told a news conference the amount "is only a drop in the bucket" compared with other government war expenditures.

Ketchum said the plan, designed to bring service men to financial equality with war workers, calls for payments of $3 a day for service in this country and $4 a day for overseas service, with maxima of $3,500 for domestic service and $4,500 for a combination of domestic and overseas service. An additional $500 would be added for combat disability.

The service pay proposal was one of the points in the V. F. W. legislative program presented to President Truman today by Joseph M. Stack of Pittsburgh, new commander in chief of the organization, and Ketchum.

7 Polio Cases in County; No New Ones in Chicago

Seven new cases of infantile paralysis were reported over the week-end to Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, Cook county health director, in the county area outside Chicago. No new cases were reported within the city. Since Jan. 1 there have been 82 cases, three of which have proved fatal, in the county outside Chicago, compared with 77 cases and five deaths for the corresponding 1944 period. The count for Chicago proper since Jan. 1 stands at 207 cases and 17 deaths, compared with 144 cases and six deaths to date last year.

Jon Hall Gets Medical Discharge from Army

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 15 (AP)—Actor Jon Hall, inducted into the army last May, has been given a medical discharge and today rejoined his wife, Singer Frances Langford. Except for a brief period of basic training, Hall spent nearly all his army stay in hospitals at Camp Roberts and Ford Ord, Cal., undergoing treatments for a gall bladder ailment.

BILL TO HELP OVERSEAS BRIDES PASSES HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—The house passed unanimously today legislation permitting America's women soldiers and sailors, who married abroad, to bring home their foreign born husbands.

The measure, which now goes to the senate, also would facilitate the entry into this country of thousands of wives of service men who married while serving overseas. The children of such unions would be permitted entry with their parents.

Under the bill, by Rep. Dickstein [D., N. Y.], women members of the fighting forces during the war would be given the same privilege in bringing their husbands into the United States under a nonquota status as is granted the male members of the forces in bringing home their wives. For both husbands and wives of service people the legislation would speed entry into this country by removing formalities required in obtaining entry of an alien on a nonquota status.

AN UNCROWNED KING TO DIE AS BELGIAN TRAITOR

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—A special war tribunal today confirmed the death sentence of Dr. August Borms, 67, collaborator, who was found hiding some weeks ago in Berlin by a girl volunteer of the Belgian Red Cross.

Borms was also condemned to death after the first World war on a charge of collaboration with the Germans, but the sentence was commuted to a term of imprisonment. He was used by the Germans in both wars to try to split the Flemish and Walloon sections of the Belgian people. He was known by his followers as the "uncrowned king of Flanders."

Borms became president of the "indemnity commission" which voted him a sum of more than $200,000 as damages for his imprisonment after the first World war.

POLAND SIGNS ALLIED CHARTER WITH PROTEST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Polish Foreign Minister Wincenty Rzymowski signed the allied nations charter today but protested the exclusion of Poland from the San Francisco conference which produced that document.

The Polish signing completed the roster of original members of the organization.

Altho Poland was excluded from the San Francisco conference, the conference steering committee unanimously agreed to leave a place open in the document for Poland to sign.

'RAPE OF DANZIG' BY RED TROOPS TOLD BY VICTIMS

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 15—The rape of Danzig—literally the violation of its women and young girls by the Russians—was described here tonight by two sisters, 15 and 17 years old. Their brother, 20, their parents, and an uncle contributed other details of the barbarism which they said has not ended. They are members of a Swiss family that recently escaped from the Polish corridor and are en route to their homeland.

The 15 year old girl nonchalently told of brutal sex attacks upon her classmates, of sex murder by soviet soldiers in an air raid shelter, and of an almost flippant attitude toward such crimes under Russian rule.

"It is so commonplace in Danzig now that a girl's screams attract little attention," the mother added, as if to explain her daughter's failure to blush.

Chum Returns and Falls Dead

"There were about 200 of us, mostly women and children, in a shelter when Russian soldiers came in," the girl said. "The Russians took my 14 year old chum, blonde and pretty. She cried and shrieked. The mothers protested and the Russians pointed their guns at the crowd and told them to shut up.

"My chum's father, a German, interceded. 'Better go with them, darling,' he said, 'before they kill all of us.'

"She went. About four hours later she came back. She walked into the shelter and fell dead.

"We spent much time in the shelters in those first weeks of Russian occupation because they had about the only roofs left in Danzig. Soldiers finding us there barred the exit and used the shelter office for rape. We could hear screams as the soldiers took turns with the victim. They would come in and take out one girl at a time.

Girl Returned Unconscious

"One day another school chum, 15 years old, was taken into the office about a dozen times and I could hear her crying. The last time she was thrown into the shelter unconscious."

The mother said an 18 year old girl who lived with the Swiss was repeatedly ravaged by the Russians, who forced their way into their house in the day time as well as at night. The father added that his daughters, after early narrow escapes, were kept to their home and were hidden in feather beds as soldiers hunting women, liquor and accidental loot made repeated searches.

Soldiers Are the Police

"What do the police do when they hear calls for help?" the group was asked.

The 17 year old replied with a parable.

"Men stealing apples from an orchard were told by the farmer to get out or he would call the police," she said. "The men answered, 'We are the police.'"

The father added:

"And that is just the way that it is with rape in Danzig today."

The uncle said that the announced withdrawal of Russian troops from Danzig this fall was followed by the appearance of soldiers wearing Polish uniforms but speaking Russian. The city is commanded by a Russian and many of the officers wear soviet uniforms.

American's Wife Attacked

Another of several of the rape stories told by the Swiss involved the wife of an American engineer who had been employed in Stettin at the outbreak of war. The woman, German born but claiming American citizenship by virtue of her marriage, was assaulted in her home, which flew the Stars and Stripes over the front door. The Swiss said she recently left for America by way of Berlin, an invalid.

The Swiss father and the uncle, one a cheese manufacturer and the other a poultry and egg farmer, had lived in Danzig since 1908. They protested against publication of their names, saying they feared the Russian secret police even in Sweden and Switzerland.

ITALIAN PROBLEMS UNDERSTOOD BY U. S., TRUMAN TELLS ROME

ROME, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—Prime Minister Ferruccio Parris tonight made public a letter from President Truman saying in part:

"Anxieties and worries of the Italian government and people are at this moment clearly understood. We are all well aware that the first peace treaty to be concluded in Europe must attain a high degree of reality, justice, and wisdom in facing post-war problems in Europe.

"The United States delegation does not consider in any way the problems confronting the foreign ministers council in London with a narrow spirit of compensation or punishment. Their criterion is simply this: What will best promote the creation of lasting and stable peace among freedom loving peoples and what will best serve at the same time in the interests of the United States, Europe, and the whole world."

ALLIES TO SET UP FOOD AND FARM ADVISORY BOARD

Delegates in Quebec to Sign Constitution

BY GAIL COMPTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

QUEBEC, Oct. 15—Representatives of more than 34 nations were gathering here today to begin the work of setting up the first permanent body of the allies: the food and agriculture organization.

The FAO will come into formal existence tomorrow with the signing of a constitution drawn up after a year's work by an interim committee. More than 20 nations already have indicated acceptance of the constitution. French delegates flew here in the transport plane President Truman gave to Gen. de Gaulle. As delegates assembled, however, officials of the FAO did not yet know whether Russia or Argentina would participate in the signing or attend merely as observers.

Will Furnish Advice

The job of the FAO will be to serve as a world clearing house of information to aid coöperating nations in raising the standard of living and eating among their peoples and improve agricultural production and distribution.

Often confused with the United Nations relief and Rehabilitation administration, the FAO is a permanent body seeking to prevent famine, poor crops, and low standards of living. The UNRRA is a temporary organization concerned with immediate relief of distressed nations. The FAO will take over many of the functions of UNRRA when it is disbanded.

Officials today held high hopes for the work of the FAO as it is getting under way when nations are turning from war to peace and many need technical advice and guidance in reëstablishing their agriculture and nutritional standards.

Each Nation Has One Vote

The policy making body of the organization is composed of one representative from each nation. Each nation has one vote in the conference and will meet at least once a year. An executive committee of nine to 15 members will act for the conference between sessions. In accepting the FAO constitution member governments agree to report periodically to each other on the progress made in achieving the organization's aims. A director general will be appointed by the conference to head the organization.

The FAO will operate on a budget of approximately 5 million dollars a year. The first year, however, it will run with a small staff with 2½ million dollars. No one nation will be asked to pay more than 25 per cent of the yearly cost. The first year the United States is scheduled to pay the full 25 per cent; England, 15 per cent; Russia, 8 per cent; China, 6.5 per cent; France, 5.69 per cent, and Canada, 5.06 per cent. The contribution of liberated nations is scaled down as a measure of temporary financial relief.

Invitations to attend the conference were sent out on the Japan surrendered. Heading the American delegates is Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

RUSSIANS LOOT BALKANS, HOUSE GROUP REPORTS

the united nations should approach the soviet union immediately on the problem of disarmament or a great reduction in Russia's armed services."

While the report generally lauded Dictator Stalin's efforts to improve living conditions in the soviet union, the committee said the lack of churches is "very noticeable" and that the Russians' "lack of knowledge or belief in God is shocking to a church believer."

Urge Firm U. S. Stand

The other report was made by Representatives Mundt [R., S. D.] and Bolton [R., O.], members of a house foreign affairs subcommittee. They called upon the administration to end its "double standard of political and diplomatic morality" toward Russia.

American dealings with the soviets, they said, should be on a friendly but firm basis, with the United States extending only the courtesies and considerations given by Russia, and no more.

Warning of Russia's steady extention of her influence into near-by nations, the congressmen said that the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, and France should decide immediately whether the world is to be divided into spheres of influence.

Criticize UNRRA Operations

They disclosed that they found the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration to be operating with "far less efficiency than the needs require" in every country except Greece. In some offices, they said, the UNRRA administrative head is a national of a country which contributes nothing to the relief supplies being distributed, so that his country is not affected by "any waste or extravagance which occurs."

"What actually appears to be happening," they related, "is that UNRRA has become a great experiment in international administration, but no matter how noble its objectives, it is operating so awkwardly and the mastering of the inevitable difficulties attaching themselves to so cumbersome an experiment is so slow that this experiment is today being paid for in human misery, in suffering, disease, and in actual starvation in the liberated areas."

Russians Friendly

In their tour of Russia, the congressmen reported, they found the average Russian friendly toward the United States but they found no indications that Russia is moving away from communism.

"There seems little more likelihood of Russia adopting the methods of our free enterprise system than there is of our adopting the techniques of Russian communism," they reported.

Their most striking reaction of the countries they visited, they said, was the "almost total confidence they have in America's good intentions and their vast expectations for our economic assistance and our political and military leadership."

Describing this "almost childlike faith in the capacity of the United States to produce miracles" as a bit terrifying, the congressmen urged that our leaders make it clear that "our good intentions and our earnest desires to be helpful must, after all, be limited to our financial capacities."

LITTLE TO CRITICIZE AT 6 CAMPS; BUT FINDS 7TH 'LAMENTABLE'

PARIS, Oct. 15 (AP)—Harvey D. Gibson, former American Red Cross commissioner to Britain and western France, today said he found "little to criticize" in American controled camps for displaced persons in Germany. However, he added that conditions at one camp were "lamentable."

Gibson investigated seven camps in the United States' 3d and 7th army occupation areas for three days at the request of Gen. Eisenhower after Earl G. Harrison, United States immigration commissioner, said he had found displaced persons, principally Jews, in unsanitary camps surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by United States troops.

Gibson said that four of the camps he visited in the reich were occupied entirely by Jews and that the other three were filled with persons of mixed nationalities. The only camp he said was unsatisfactory was at Ludwigshohe, and this one was being closed. Sanitary conditions there were unsatisfactory, he said.

POLICE WOMAN'S MEMORY PUTS A BRUNETTE IN JAIL

Mrs. Doris Johnson, 713 N. Clark st., was a brunette last night when she called at the Chicago av. police station with a basket lunch for her husband, Paul, 25, held for possession of a revolver stolen from an automobile.

As Sgt. Joseph Mooney wrote out Mrs. Johnson's visiting permit, Parole Officer Mae Hannum entered. She looked at Mrs. Johnson and said, "Hello!" Then the parole officer arrested Mrs. Johnson for violation of parole since her release several years ago from the Geneva State Training School for Girls.

"I never forget a face," said the parole officer, "and I remembered that Doris was a redhead the last time I saw her."

MANDEL BROTHERS

SUPPORT GROWS FOR FREE PRESS LEVER ON UNRRA

Congress May Require It to Obtain Funds

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15—The world press freedom amendment proposed by Rep. Brown [R., O.] to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration appropriation bill suddenly took the spotlight today as a development of far reaching international significance.

If congress attaches the amendment to the bill appropriating 550 million dollars to round out the American contribution of 1 billion 350 millions to UNRRA similar limitations will be proposed to any rehabilitation loans made by the United States government to other nations. The British are asking a gift or loan of 5 or 6 billions; soviet Russia a loan of 6½ billions at nominal interest. France and other nations are preparing to claim consideration commensurate with any favor extended to Britain.

Curbs Are Specific

Brown's amendment would prohibit the use of any United States' contributions to UNRRA in any country which:

1. Discriminates against any media of information.
2. Infringes upon freedom of information or expression.
3. Places any barriers, technical, political, legal, or economic, against the free exchange of information among the peoples of the world.
4. Censors information in time of peace.
5. Interferes with the freedom of the press.

Rep. Martin [D., Mass.], minority leader of the house, will submit the amendment to the Republican steering committee this week with a view to mobilizing Republican support for it when the UNRRA appropriation bill comes before the house. It developed today, however, that so many Democrats are in favor of the amendment that it is likely to be written into the bill by the appropriations committee.

Cataclysmic Possibilities

The effect of the amendment, if it should be adopted by congress, would be politically cataclysmic, particularly in the Russian sphere of influence in eastern Europe. Freedom of speech and of the press are virtually nonexistent in Finland, Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Austria, and Jugoslavia, which are dominated by Moscow.

Under the terms of the Brown amendment such countries would be compelled to alter profoundly their scheme of government or forfeit relief from UNRRA, which is financed almost entirely by the United States.

The application of the principle of the Brown amendment to United States loans to other countries would bar the extension of credit to Russia unless Moscow should qualify by abolishing forms of repression that have existed in their country for generations.

There would even be question of Great Britain qualifying for a gift or loan under the Brown amendment. The English press is so far from free that American newspapers are in great demand in England for the news they bring Englishmen of events in their own country.

AFRICAN PARLEY HEARS BRITISH POLICY ASSAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 15—The colored races in the British empire will never win political independence by "trusting in the hypocrisy of British imperialism," John McNair, secretary of the Independent Labor party, told the delegates at the opening of the Pan African congress at Manchester today.

McNair, attending as a fraternal delegate, said, "We know perfectly well that British imperialism has often told us it had gone to the colonies to spread Christianity and civilization, but the imperialists of Great Britain, headed by the Tory party, are as short minded and short sighted as they are ignorant."

The congress passed a resolution extending greetings to the peoples of Java and Indo-China "in their fight against Dutch and French imperialism."

RADIO CREATES 'PARTY LINE' ON SPEEDING TRAIN

Engine and Caboose Linked by Air

BY GENEVIEVE SCOTT
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 15—Back into the limbo of Indian smoke signs and native tom-tom messages went the system of railroad hand signals today as new radio communication equipment was demonstrated on a speeding Illinois Central frate train.

With the ease of talking into a telephone, trainmen communicated with each other on the train thruout an exhibition run of 162 miles from Freeport, Ill., to Waterloo, Ia.

A virtual "party line" conversation was kept up between the engine and the caboose, separated by 85 car lengths, and with wayside depots as the train sped past.

"We're entering a tunnel," the engineer, far ahead, would report on his walkie-talkie like radio in the cab as he demonstrated the use of the device under most difficult circumstances.

Two Types Used

The newsmen and Illinois Central officials at the rear of the train would have to wait several minutes before they were in the tunnel.

"We're out of the tunnel," the engineer would call long before those at the other end of the radio conversation emerged into daylight.

Two types of radio systems were used in the demonstration. Communication between the ends of the train was carried on with "space" radios operating in the normal manner of radios known to every one. The equipment is a one-way "walkie-talkie" set of the type used on tanks and airplanes during the war.

Contact with stations along the way was made with "induction" radios, which combines the principle of both radio and the wire telephone.

Newsmen Send Messages

This system utilizes the wires strung along the right of way for carrying messages.

As the speeding train passed wayside stations—it was in communication with one or two all of the time—newsmen sent messages from the train to the station agents. The messages were sent on their way to other points from the depots by Western Union.

The system is expected to save time in train runs, handling frate, and cutting out cars. It is also expected to be a boon as a safety measure in notifying trainmen quickly of hazardous situations.

Sam Fordyce III., general manager of the Aireon Manufacturing company of Kansas City, Kas., manufacturers of the devices, estimated the total cost of installing the equipment on the Illinois Central system would be about $4,000,000.

Springfield Mayor Bans Play, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 15 (AP)—Mayor J. W. Kapp announced tonight he has banned a stage performance of the musical version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" scheduled for next Monday, because of protests by Negro organizations. Kapp said he ordered the manager of the Orpheum theater, where the play was to have been presented, to cancel it after a delegation of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People protested its showing.

U. S. ARMY PAPER IN LONDON PUTS OUT A FAREWELL EDITION

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The London Stars and Stripes struck its colors today. In a simple farewell editorial the army daily explained: "We told the truth. Our mission in England is ended." Like their counterparts who continue to publish the Stars and Stripes in Italy, France, Germany, and the Pacific, the London staff included some of America's best newsmen.

President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Gen. Eisenhower were represented among the flood of congratulatory farewell messages. Truman called the paper "a cherished and important soldiers' institution." Attlee said he hoped the staff and all United States troops could "renew in happier times individual friendships made in war."

Eisenhower said that the London edition "pioneered a soldier free press which has grown in stature to command the respect as well as the interest of Americans and their allies."

REOPEN PARLEY TO PUT JUAN ON SPAIN'S THRONE

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Oct. 15 [Reuters] — Negotiations for the restoration of the Spanish monarchy have been reopened here between Generalissimo Franco and Don Juan, the pretender. Jose Maria Oriol, millionaire industrialist, and Franco's personal envoy, is here to conduct the discussions.

Spanish quarters close to Oriol today said that Franco was "enough of a patriot" to be willing to resign. The general impression in monarchist quarters here, however, is that the general is still trying to secure for himself a position of power under the monarchy. Don Juan has stressed that he is not willing to collaborate with the general or to accept the throne from his hands.

The pretender's followers said they believe that a solution might be found if Franco resigned and ordered a plebiscite for or against a monarchy. Oriol said that a Spain ruled by Don Juan would enter Britain's "orbit of influence."

Rise, Russia Urges

LONDON, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—In a special broadcast for Spain today, the Moscow radio called on the people of Catalonia to "unite and rise for a free Catalonia and a free Spain. The place for Franco is in the dock along with other war criminals all over the world," the radio added.

British Book Publishers Win Paper Quota Increase

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 15—The paper quota for British book publishers will be increased to 65 per cent of pre-war consumption at the end of this month, Board of Trade President Stafford Cripps told the house of commons today. At present the publishers are limited to 50 per cent of the pre-war amount.

COMMONS VOTES FIVE MORE YEARS OF WAR POWERS

Laborites Beat Down Conservatives

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The house of commons, beating off a vigorous attack by the Conservative opposition, tonight voted 258 to 139 to extend the Labor government's war time controls for five years. Earlier the house had rejected 306 to 183 a Conservative party amendment limiting the controls to two years.

The controls give the government broad powers over the nation's economic life, even to the virtual drafting of labor. They extend to the regulation of prices of food, clothing, labor, building materials, meals, and other services and permit the government to requisition housing.

Never Asked in Peace

Anthony Eden, who led the Conservative fight in the absence of Winston Churchill, who is ill, said during debate that the powers asked by the Labor government "are such as no government has ever before asked for in times of peace."

Eden pointed out that when the bill was put forward by the coalition government the war with Japan was still on and it was estimated it could last for 18 months longer.

"Afterwards," he said, "there was to be a period of six months during which these powers should run. The position is different, however, with the Japanese war over."

Cries of "Vote, Vote!" rang out after Home Secretary Chuter Ede had replied for the government. The Conservatives then accused the Labor party of "putting on the brake."

'Forget What Freedom Is'

Victor Raikes, however, was allowed to speak for the opposition, and he charged:

"If that which is to be done in this bill were to be carried over everything in this country, this parliament would be nothing more than a reichstag—and men and women will forget what freedom is."

Raikes said the Labor government's opposition to the Conservative amendment was "the most frightful confession of failure that has ever been put upon statutory papers."

"When you get to the bottom of it all," he cried, "there is nothing but a lust for power and the determination to retain power."

SCARLET FEVER QUARANTINES JUVENILE HOME

The juvenile detention home is quarantined because of the discovery of a case of scarlet fever last Thursday in one ward of 50 boys, Judge Frank Bicek in Juvenile court said yesterday. There are 275 inmates in the home. Judge Bicek asked Warden Frank Sain to set aside a special tier in the county jail for the detention of juveniles until the quarantine is lifted. The scarlet fever patient, 15 years old, has been taken to the contagious diseases hospital.

STEEL ORDERED FOR ADDITION TO TRIBUNE TOWER

The contract for 25,000 tons of steel for the new eight story addition to Tribune Tower and W-G-N at Illinois and St. Clair sts. has been awarded to the American Bridge company for March 1, 1946, delivery, R. P. Read, vice president of R. C. Wieboldt company, general contractors for the project, announced yesterday.

The contract for the steel involves approximately a quarter of a million dollars. The building and contents, when completed, will represent an expenditure of 6 million dollars.

No Riveting on Job

All the steel sections, beams, and columns will be rolled in the Chicago area, Read said. A feature of the construction will be that there will be no riveting on the job. All field work in connection with the construction will be welded, thereby avoiding interference with radio broadcasting and annoyance to Tribune Tower tenants and occupants of neighboring buildings.

The building, when completed, will extend from the north line of Tribune Tower to Illinois st., a width of approximately 118 feet, and from the rear of W-G-N to St. Clair st., 200 feet. It will extend seven stories above Michigan av. and eight above Illinois and St. Clair sts. At the Illinois st. level the building will be largely an extension of the present press room. Below will be a reel and paper storage room with no subbasement.

Structure Will Be Razed

Part of the site is now occupied by a one story structure left from the wrecking of the six story George Bullen & Co. malt house, which stood there when THE TRIBUNE acquired the property.

Transfer of departments now housed in this structure already has begun and wrecking operations are scheduled to begin before Nov. 1.

Excavation work will get under way two or three weeks later, with erection of steel scheduled to begin March 1.

The building will rest on caissons ranging from 4 to 8 feet in diameter, extending to bedrock 110 feet below St. Clair st. John W. Park, Tribune production manager, will be in general charge. Plans have been prepared by associated architects, Harrison, Fouilhoux & Abramovitz, John M. Howells, and Leo J. Weissenborn.

BRITON EXPECTS DOCK STRIKE TO END THURSDAY

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Britain's wide spread dock strike will end before Thursday, a high union official predicted tonight. Today, however, 4,000 troops at docks thruout the country unloaded food supplies and prepared military stores for shipment to the far east.

The prediction came from J. Donovan, national secretary of the dock section of the Transport and General Workers' union. He said there was a general indication the strikers would return to work before the start of negotiations on their wage demands on Thursday. The strike started three weeks ago.

Minister of Labor Isaacs said a return to work movement was under way. He estimated the number of strikers had been reduced from 50,000 to about 39,000.

TRUMAN OFFERS F.D.R.'S FILES ON PEARL HARBOR

Would Open Records, He Tells Barkley

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.] today disclosed that President Truman has offered to order the opening of Roosevelt administration files for inspection by the congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor.

Barkley is chairman of a joint senate-house committee making the investigation.

F. D. R. Files Moved

"All the files of the previous administration have been moved to the archives building and Hyde Park," Mr. Truman wrote Barkley. "If there is any difficulty about your having access to them, I'll be glad to issue the necessary order so that you may have complete access."

The letter was in reply to a request by Barkley that some one in the White House executive offices be designated as the source to which the committee could go for information from White House files.

White House Clerk Designated

Mr. Truman designated Maurice C. Latta, executive clerk at the White House offices, who he said has been in charge of "all the files in the White House for the last 28 years."

"Any information that you want will be cheerfully supplied by him," Mr. Truman added.

Barkley also had suggested "that the committee may be free to disclose at its public hearings" information obtained from the White House files. Mr. Truman's reply did not touch on this point.

REPORTS DUTCH RELIEF NEEDS ARE 93 PCT. SHY

New York, Oct. 15 [Special]—Only 7 per cent of the absolute needs of the most desperate victims of war is being met in Holland. Mrs. Edgar W. Leonard, chairman of the women's committee of American Relief for Holland today told a press conference. Mrs. Leonard has just returned from a six week visit to Holland.

Hospitals of 100-bed capacity have been erected thruout the country, she said, for starving babies. Three year olds look like 6 months old infants, she said.

In addition, most children are without shoes and most housewives without utensils to cook their meager rations in, since the Germans took the copper utensils for war uses, Mrs. Leonard said. She suggested that American women give one kitchen pot as part of their contribution.

REDUCE JAPAN'S ARMY TO 20,000 WITHIN 6 WEEKS

30,000 Left in Her Navy to Run Shipping

TOKYO, Oct. 15 (AP)—Japan formally completed her gigantic military demobilization today, without fanfare and right on schedule only six weeks after her surrender in Tokyo bay.

For the first time in their tumultuous history, these islands were without an armed combat force, and already political figures were moving to effect the democratic revolutionary changes in national life dictated by the conquering allies.

Nearly 4,000,000 soldiers and sailors in Nippon have been quietly dismissed and sent home. Some 3,800,000 others overseas have been mostly stripped of their weapons—except in a few cases where they are serving allied purposes—and are being slowly brought back to Japan. The process will require an estimated three years, due to shortage of transportation.

50,000 Left in Services

Thirty thousand navy men are remaining on duty to man the homebound shipping. Twenty thousand of the army here will remain on active duty, serving the allies.

The army and navy ministries became civilian agencies, known as "ministries for demobilization." The officers and men who remain still wear their uniforms, because they have no other clothing and can get none. They retain no insignia and are known only as "liaison officers for demobilization."

The end of the military machine came even as new evidence was disclosed of the bloodthirsty methods it employed. This was the use of living allied prisoners as bayonet practice targets.

Officers Watch Stabbing

A report from the allied translation and interrogation section uncovered evidence of one such atrocity on Guadalcanal, where allied officer prisoners were forced to stand for six one one-half hours and watch Japanese troops slash and stab two Europeans and one Eurasian. The report said enlisted prisoners were paraded past the scene periodically.

A force of 750 troops of the 77th division moved into Muroran on the Island of Hokkaido today on the heels of 250 United States soldiers sent in yesterday to quell an uprising of Chinese workers.

Eighty Chinese stormed the executive dormitory of the Muroran Marine Transportation company Friday, killing one official and beating two others when they were denied a loan of 5,000 yen [$167] each.

Diet Meets This Week

A special five day session of the diet will open this week to study the MacArthur program for reform of the nation, the Domei agency said. Another session in December will consider revision of the election laws.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, three time premier and a close advisor of Emperor Hirohito, said in an interview that the emperor is anxious to have the constitution revised so as to curb the powers of the emperor and give the diet some control over finances. Old time politicians were seeking to have Konoye lead a new political party.

The suicide of all Japanese senior statesmen, including Marquis Koicho Kido, the mikado's principal adviser, was demanded today by the Nippon Working Masses Political party in a 15 point program distributed on the streets of Tokyo.

The self-purging of the "your excellency" class likewise should extend to members of the military clique.

The Chinese Yun-hui medal, accompanied by a citation from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, was presented yesterday to Maj. Dessie A. Mauk by Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr. for meritorious service to the Chinese government. The presentation took place in Gen. McCoach's 6th service command offices in the Civic Opera building. Maj. Mauk was a member of a secret group of American officers who helped train Chinese officers in China in 1943 and 1944. His home is in Greensburg, Ky.

CHIANG SAYS U.S. MARINES LEAVE CHINA AREA SOON

Chungking Forces to Replace Yanks

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 15 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek announced at his first post-war press conference today that United States marines would be withdrawn from north China "very soon" and expressed confidence soviet forces in Manchuria would be withdrawn in accordance with provisions of the recently concluded Russo-Chinese treaty.

Chiang said United States marines would leave north China as soon as they were relieved by Chinese central government forces.

The marines were sent into north China recently to help Chinese authorities to disarm surrendering Japanese troops.

The generalissimo put a damper on persistent rumors that the government in Chungking soon would move north to the old capital of Peiping.

Hopes to Visit U. S.

Chiang said he hoped to visit the United States, Britain, Russia, and France "as soon as time permits."

The generalissimo said he had heard nothing of any projected five nations conference.

Chiang described the recent talks in Chungking between the nationalist government and communist negotiators as "a step toward amity" and asserted that "relations can be closer and unity be achieved."

He disclosed that Russia had notified China that a plebiscite to determine whether Outer Mongolia should become independent—a vote provided for in the Russo-Chinese pact—had begun Oct. 10 and would last 10 days. A Chinese observer is in Outer Mongolia to watch the voting.

Praises United States Ambassador

Chiang volunteered a tribute to United States Ambassador Patrick Hurley, whose exertions he said were responsible for bringing the negotiations between the central government and the Communists to their present stage.

Chiang said he would leave it to Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh to answer the question whether China and France would sign a treaty concerning northern Indo-China similar to the Anglo-French pact concerning southern Indo-China. He added, however:

"Conditions which face Britain in Indo-China are not exactly similar to those which face China."

JAPANESE ARMY GONE, M'ARTHUR REPORTS TO U. S.

balance between implacable firmness of duty on the one hand and resolute restraint from cruelness and brutalities on the other has taught a lesson to the Japanese civil population that is startling in its impact.

"Nothing has so tended to impress Japanese thought, not even the catastrophic fact of military defeat itself. They have for the first time seen the free man's way of life in actual action, and it has stunned them into new thought and new ideas. A revolution—or more properly speaking, the evolution—which will restore the dignity and freedom of the common man, has begun. It will take much time, and require great patience, but if world public opinion will permit of these two essential factors, mankind will be repaid. Herein lies the way to true and final peace.

Army Thoroly Defeated

"The Japanese army, contrary to some concepts that have been advanced, was thoroly defeated before the surrender. The strategic maneuvering of the allies so scattered and divided them; their thrusts had so immobilized, disintegrated and split its units; its supply and transportation lines were so utterly destroyed; its equipment was so exhausted, its morale so shattered, that its early surrender became inevitable. Bastion after bastion, considered by it as impregnable in barring our way, had been by-passed and rendered impotent and useless, while our tactical penetrations and envelopments resulted in piece-meal destruction of many isolated fragments. It was weak everywhere, forced to fight where it stood, unable to render mutual support between its parts, and presented a picture of collapse that was complete and absolute.

"The basic cause of the surrender is not to be attributed to an arbitrary decision of authority. It was inevitable because of the strategic and tactical circumstances forced upon it. The situation had become hopeless. It was merely a question of when, with our troops poised for final invasion. This invasion would have been annihilating, but might well have cost hundreds of thousands of American lives.

Three Dimensions of War

"The victory was a triumph for the concept of the complete integration of the three dimensions of war—ground, sea, and air.

"By a thoro use of each arm in conjunction with the corresponding utilization of the other two, the enemy was reduced to a condition of helplessness. By largely avoiding methods of involving the separate use of the services and by avoiding methods of frontal assaults as far as possible, our combined power forced the surrender with relative life loss probably unparalleled in any campaigns in history.

"This latter fact indeed was the most inspiring and significant feature: The unprecedented saving in American life. It is for this we have to say truly, 'thank God.' Never was there a more intensive application of the principle of the strategic and tactical employment of limited forces as compared with the accumulation of overwhelming forces.

Cites Yamashita's Complaint

"Illustrating this concept, Gen. Yamashita recently stated in an interview in Manila, explaining reasons for his defeat, that the diversity of Japanese command resulted in the complete lack of coöperation and coördination between the services. He complained that he was not in supreme command, that the air forces were run by Field Marshal Teraushi at Saigon, and the fleet run directly from Tokyo, that he only knew of the intended naval strike at Leyte gulf five days before it got under way and professed ignorance of its details.

"The great lesson for the future is that success in the art of war depends upon a complete integration of the services. In unity will lie military strength. We cannot win with only backs and ends. And no line, however strong, can go alone. Victory will rest with the team."

SPONSORS OF SINGLE DEFENSE COMMAND HAIL M'ARTHUR TALK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Congressional advocates of a merger of war and navy departments took cheer tonight from Gen. MacArthur's praise of "complete integration" of the fighting forces.

"There could not be a stronger support for a single national defense agency," said Sen. Hill [D., Ala.], sponsor of a bill that would form such a single military agency, with the army, navy, and air forces as separate arms.

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.], acting chairman of the senate military committee, also saw the MacArthur report as a powerful push for a single department of national defense. "The general as usual is correct in his conclusions," Johnson said. "The only way we can have complete integration is thru a single agency." Johnson with Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] today introduced a bill proposing a new cabinet post of "secretary of military security" to replace the present war and navy departments.

MAKE ATOMIC SCIENCE FREE, U. OF C. AID SAYS

Science must be given a free hand immediately to harness atomic energy to the everyday needs of humanity, Reuben Gustavson, vice president of the University of Chicago, last night told the Sinai Temple forum in the Hyde Park High school.

"From a scientific point of view, there is now no reason why atomic energy cannot be used for operating such things as steam turbines," Gustavson said.

William McGovern of the political science department of Northwestern university said the dawn of the atomic age posed a problem of the future relationship between the United States and Russia because these two, in his opinion, "are the only two great powers existing." He said America should work toward the formation of a world organization to which America could reveal its atomic secrets, while at the same time striving to prevent "one nation or a group of nations from dominating the old world."

TOKYO POLICE'S NEW POLICY: NO MORE TORTURING

TOKYO, Oct. 16 [Tuesday]—(AP)—The Tokyo police have substituted kindness for torture, and there'll be no more howls of pain from the confession chamber.

The newspaper Mainichi said Police Chief Takano laid down the following new rules:

"Absolutely no more torturing of prisoners."

The police motto will be "cheerfulness and kindness."

Torture to obtain confessions will be eliminated "even tho it might impede investigation."

"Scientific and other methods will be studied to bring out the truth."

MARINES KEEP CHINESE REDS, PUPPETS APART

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

U. S. MARINE HDQ., Chinwangtao, Oct. 15—The way Col. John J. Gormley sees it, everything is going to be all right if he can keep the Chinese Communists and Chinese puppet troops apart. Gormley commands the 1st marine division's 70th regiment, occupying this city.

"It seems to me the Communists hate the Chinese puppet troops, who served the Japanese, worse than they hate the Japs," he said. "The marines haven't fired a shot since landing Oct. 1, but there is plenty of shooting when the Communists and puppets get near each other."

Gormley, from Chevy Chase, Md., said the day the marines landed here the Japs, puppets, and Communists all insisted on greeting them. One Communist was shot by a puppet and for two days and two nights thereafter the puppets, manning the walls of the old Chinese city, pegged away at the Communists who surrounded the city and the Communists fired back.

Marines Man Walls

"Then we took all the puppets off the walls, replaced them with marines, and the trouble stopped," Gormley said. "All the farmers and laborers in the area north of Chinwangtao have been armed by Chinese Communists and they dislike the puppet troops. Citizens here also dislike them because they had to feed, house, and support them thruout the war. They were pleased when we sent them to Tangshan, about 60 miles south, to help the Japs guard important mines there."

There is plenty of activity in the Chinese city. Pigs, most of them so lean that a midwestern farmer would disown them, ranged thru the streets teeming with men, women, and children. Many women hobbled along slowly because their feet had been bound under the ancient Chinese custom which ended in most sections of China with the revolution in 1911. The Chinese greeted each passing group of marines with cries of "Hubba, hubba," which the marines taught them, while children gave them the thumbs up sign.

Marines Have Double Job

Getting the railroad tracks between Chinwangtao and Tangshan repaired—it once was entirely double tracked but the Communists destroyed the rails in so many places before the marines arrived that trains must be shifted from one track to another at numerous places—and seeing that coal is delivered is one of the biggest jobs for the marines. There are 2,000 marines stationed at Tangshan and about 20,000 puppets and 30,000 Jap soldiers congregated there. Gormley said the puppets and Japs haven't been disarmed for fear the Communists would wipe them out.

STREW FLOWERS IN LAKE SUNDAY TO HONOR DEAD

Chicagoans who lost their lives at sea while in the service of their country will be honored Sunday when flowers will be strewn on the surface of Lake Michigan off the naval armory at the foot of Randolph st. Barrett Wendell, president of the Chicago council of the Navy League of the United States, said the ceremony will be part of a world-wide tribute to fallen heroes of the war. Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish chaplains will officiate. The flowers will be borne several miles into the lake before they are spread upon the water.

TIENTSIN YANKS QUELL CHINESE FIGHT WITH JAPS

Marines Put Damper on Civilian Steam

BY HAROLD SMITH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 13 [Delayed]—Most of downtown Tientsin came under direct military rule for a time today when United States marines were called out to aid police in quelling clashes between Chinese and Japanese civilians. Order was restored within three hours but the Japanese, many of whom were given military escorts to their homes, were advised to remain within doors.

Trouble broke out in the Japanese quarter where dwell the bulk of Tientsin's 70,000 civilian Japanese. Marines and Chinese nationalist police quickly cleared Tung Ma Lu, one of the city's main thorofares, and its principal tributaries, of all but authorized personnel.

Within a few minutes the teeming streets became virtually deserted except for the Leathernecks and policemen. From windows and doorways the crowds applauded the Americans swinging along the streets in the wake of a self-propelled 105 mm. gun.

Chinese Blow Off Steam

Rumors that the disorders were communist inspired were unsubstantiated. It appeared rather that the Chinese, who have restrained their feelings since the formal Jap surrender here, suddenly blew off steam. "This is our day," one happy but excited Chinese exclaimed at the scene of one disturbance. "Those people had their chance once; now we have ours."

Our driver on a tour of the city during the demonstrations was Pfc. Thomas J. Lynch, 21, of 6428 S. Seeley av., Chicago, who has hired a Chinese coolie to perform his general duty. Our vehicle was often halted during the trip by good natured Tientsinites who displayed the greatest friendliness toward us. We were practically worn out returning Tientsin's victory gesture—which is a sort of upward hitchhiker's job accompanied by the shout, "Ding hao," meaning very good.

American marines here are in the pink of health and have every expectation of remaining so, Capt. O. B. Morrison of Winterburn, W. Va., corps surgeon for the 3d amphibious corps, said today.

Two Hospitals Full

Two hospitals of 100 beds each, established soon after the marines landed Sept. 30, are now almost filled with men suffering mild dysentery or colds resulting from the sudden switch from the tropical to north China's snappy cold weather, Capt. Morrison said. Next Monday an additional 800 beds will be available in a general hospital built by the occupying Japanese, the surgeon said. Personnel is available for a total of 1,500 beds.

Amoebic dysentery is present both in Tientsin and Peiping but so far the incidence among American has been extremely low, Morrison reported. Inspection of main public places and cafes has begun and danger spots will be placed out of bounds to military personnel.

One large restaurant here has been taken over by the marines and turned into a military post exchange.

Tientsin's public drinking water, relatively pure at the sources, reaches the faucets greatly polluted because of the numerous breaks in mains running adjacent to imperfectly channeled sewage. For military areas the water is purified before use and men are under orders to drink only boiled water elsewhere, to wash and peel all fresh fruit purchased publicly. Even the Chinese boil all drinking water.

RED CROSS CHIEF IN BORNEO AND WIFE BEHEADED

34 Swiss Jailed, Scores Interned by Japs

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 16—Dr. Matthaus Vischer, Swiss International Red Cross representative in Borneo, and his wife were beheaded by the Japanese, A. H. Ilg, Swiss consular officer here, said today. Jap secret police, confirming the execution, said Vischer, "profiting from the privilege" of visiting the prison camps of Borneo, communicated information between persons in and out of the prisons. The Jap police said this "crime" was punishable by death.

Vischer was head of the Basel, Switzerland, missionary hospital at Bandjermasin, on the south Borneo coast. Incomplete reports reaching here since the end of the war say that all 18 Swiss members of the mission hospital were interned. Two died in the camp.

34 Jailed by Japs

The beheading heads a long list of war crimes against Swiss residents of the East Indies. Thirty-four Swiss, including Ilg, were jailed by the Jap secret police. One was beaten to death in a courtroom, after he had been accused by three Indonesians of having communication with Australia. Two others died in prison.

Ilg, acting counsul here when war came, was arrested in August, 1944, on a charge of having been active in the underground movement. After four months he was released on the day he was to have come before the Jap court for sentencing.

The Japs said that during the night another had confessed to the incidents charged against Ilg. He came out of jail a broken man, deaf in the left ear from beatings that had made him unconscious for as long as 36 hours.

Reports to Government

Except for confirming his arrest, Ilg declined to comment on his imprisonment. He said he has made a report to his government. However, the facts of his mistreatment are well known among Batavia residents. His wife and 11 year old son are ill with nervous diseases brought on by the Japs who, during Ilg's imprisonment, tried to force "evidence" from them.

The 34 imprisonments were in addition to scores of internments of Swiss. Allied headquarters, as well as the Swiss government, are being provided with the facts of the crimes against the Swiss.

V-2 Rocket Test

German V-2 rocket speeding upward at Cuxhaven, Germany, in test by the British early in October.

ALTERWALDE, Germany, Oct. 15 (AP)—Scores of allied scientists watched one of Hitler's V-2 rockets as it was fired into the North sea today and later said the Nazis would have done better had they concentrated on developing an atomic bomb or better war planes.

A crew of German and British technicians placed the projectile—assembled from old parts—in its socket on a steel platform at this village, a few miles inland in northern Germany. Observers retreated to a point a mile distant.

When the detonating device was touched off, observers heard a loud bang, then a rushing sound which rose to a thundering crescendo as the 14 ton, 45 foot projectile soared almost vertically, spouting a tail of orange flame. Technicians estimated the projectile would fall about 200 miles distant in the North sea.

Jail 100 Japs for Buying Goods from U. S. Soldiers

TOKYO, Oct. 15 (AP)—The newspaper Yomiuri Hochi today reported that Tokyo police arrested more than 100 Japanese yesterday for purchasing cigarets, candy, and other commodities from American soldiers. The merchandise was confiscated and will be returned to American military authorities, said the paper. Cigarets were being bought for about $1.33 a package and resold for $2 each.

12,000 BRITISH IN BATAVIA WILL DISARM REBELS

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 15—British troops will carry out their original plan of occupation of key points in the East Indies, evacuate war prisoners and internees, and disarm Japs until the Dutch civil administration returns, Brig. N. D. Wingrove, chief of staff to the allied commander here, said tonight.

Indonesians will be disarmed in areas occupied by British troops, he said. This job was to have started in Batavia today but Wingrove said he had no information concerning its progress. Batavia was without incident today.

Twelve thousand British troops are now in the Batavia area. Six thousand more are to arrive in a fortnight at Soerabaya, where Indonesians are reported to have disarmed 6,000 Japs. The first job of the troops in all areas will be to post guards around prison camps. About 100,000 persons, mostly Dutch, are still in these camps.

When 6,500 Dutch troops, which have left England, arrive in the Indies their first job will be to work with the British in aiding prisoners and disarming the Japs. Until allied troops move into the areas the Japs will continue to be charged with maintaining order.

Dutch Ready to Treat

Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor of the Dutch East Indies, said at his first press conference today that the Dutch are prepared to carry out the principles outlined by Queen Wilhelmina in 1942 for an empire reconstructed as "a complete partnership," but he said details could not be discussed during the present unrest.

Van Mook said he was willing to meet with Dr. Soekarno, president of the self-proclaimed Indonesian republic, or any other representatives of large groups of people "when free discussions are possible."

He said plans have been made for attempting to end the unrest. However, since he said discussions with the Indonesians are out for the time being, it appears quite plain that the only method left to restore order is by the use of force.

Van Mook met 21 British, Dutch, Australian, French, and American newspapermen in the elaborate governor's palace, whose marbled floors, forests of columns and heavy chandeliers make it a perfect Hollywood setting. He had asked that the correspondents submit questions in writing in advance.

The press submitted only one: What is the Dutch policy in the Indies?

Quotes Queen's Speech

Van Mook read a written statement of about 800 words, of which almost half was a quotation from the queen's speech of three years ago. She said that meetings of representatives of all parts of the Dutch empire, which were being planned at the start of the war, would be held when peace came.

Van Mook said that he and the government realized that nationalist feelings would grow during the war. He blamed the bulk of the present unrest on first, misunderstandings, and second, Japanese propaganda. He said Dutch policy would not be counter to Indonesian nationalism, and that "the old colonial system" must go.

Dutch Governor Resigns

THE HAGUE, Holland, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Netherlands government stated today that reports that Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, lieutenant governor of the Dutch East Indies, had indicated he might negotiate with Soekarno, Indonesian leader, must be the result of a misunderstanding.

The statement said the government had emphatically instructed Van Mook not to treat with Soekarno.

Aneta, official Dutch news agency, said A. W. L. Tjarda Van Starkenborgh Stachouwer had resigned as governor general because he was "unable to be the bearer of the government policy" in the Indies. He arrived in The Hague last month after being liberated from a Japanese prison camp.

A Reuters dispatch quoting Batavia reports said 50,000 Dutch women and children had been "surrounded by wildly excited Indonesians in the area of Batavia and were completely cut off from allied forces." The dispatch added that the women and children "are being held virtually as hostages" and that the natives "are said to be inspired by the Japanese."

FRENCH 2D ARMORED TROOPS AT SAIGON TO HELP RESTORE ORDER

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 15 (AP)—Elements of the famous French 2d armored division arrived today aboard the light cruiser La Gloire to help restore order among rebellious Annamites. More French troops are expected within seven days.

Sporadic fighting continued between Annamites and the British-French military. A British announcement said "Indian troops, supported by armored cars, yesterday occupied three bridges northwest of Govap against light opposition. Phulam village was occupied early this morning. All was quiet in the French sector last night."

Eighty thousand Japanese soldiers holding four areas along the Saigon river have shown inclinations to disregard French commands on the ground that they were not defeated by the French, but they have accepted orders from British naval officers. The British will handle the disarming of the Japanese, while the French remain on the alert against the Annamites.

[Singapore radio reported British forces had seized the Saigon headquarters of the Viet Minh party, a part of the nationalist popular front in Indo-China.]

'HAD TO STIFLE LAVAL'S VOICE,' WIDOW CHARGES

Cites Oct. 21 Election as Factor in Trial

PARIS, Oct. 15 (AP)—"They had to stifle his voice," Mme. Pierre Laval said tonight of her husband's execution as a traitor at Fresnes prison.

The three times premier of France came to a dramatic end before a firing squad shortly after noon—four hours after trying unsuccessfully to take his own life by poison. French authorities have begun an investigation of how he got and was able to conceal the poison.

Mme. Laval told how his lawyers, Jacques Baraduc and Albert Naud, arrived to inform her of the execution.

"After we [she and her daughter, Jose, the Countess Rene de Chambrun] had waited all morning for news, not knowing what had happened—we hoped there might be a reprieve—they came in and kissed me on both cheeks and told me how courageously he died. Then they said they would go on fighting for his honor. That was the best thing.

"But first there will have to be a parliament. We are living without any parliament. In countries like America and Britain, you don't know what that means. When the Germans were here we could not have one, but they are gone for a year and a half. Why have we had to wait all this time?

"We do not even have a constitution. Under our old constitution my husband would have been tried before the senate.

Elections on Oct. 21

"This stigmatizes an epoch and a regime. If there were a parliament this could not have happened. There will be one in a few days [when France elects a national assembly Oct. 21]. Then he could have had a trial in the full light of day. But they had to stifle his voice before the elections. He would have said things about certain politicians they did not want him to say."

Mme. Laval said she had not thought of any plans for the future except "I want to clear my husband." The gray haired woman was dry eyed as she gave the first interview in her life. "One cries over little disappointments. This is too big," she said.

Lawyer Baraduc had told her Laval's message, "Tell my wife and daughter my last thoughts were of them."

The interview was in the apartment of Countess de Chambrun, who was too overcome to be seen.

In the foyer of the apartment was a case containing swords and a cane that had belonged to LaFayette. The American educated Jose's husband, Count de Chambrun, as a descendant of LaFayette holds honorary American citizenship. [He is a son of Gen. Adalbert de Chambrun and Clara Longworth, formerly of Cincinnati.]

Lawyer Tells of Last Hours

Baraduc, who was with Laval from the time he was discovered poisoned until the time he reached the execution stake, gave this graphic account of the former premier's last hours:

"As we entered the cell [Prosecutor Andre] Mornet went in first. Laval was lying in bed facing the wall, with his hand to his forehead.

"Laval made an unconscious motion, pushing his hand under the pillow, and a phial and container fell out on the ground. Then he fell back in complete coma.

"His body began to be wracked by contortions and there was a rattling sound in his throat. A state medical officer who was part of our party rushed up to him, and the prison physician, followed by four interns, a nurse, and a nun arrived on the scene.

"Meanwhile, we had discovered two letters he had left in his cell. One was on his bedside table and was headed, 'To my counsel to inform them and to my executioners to answer them.'

"The other was to his daughter Jose and was tremendously long. He must have spent all night working on it.

Had Poison Long Time

"The letter to us—which the police have borrowed—said he was the victim of a 'veritable crime' and that 'to save French soldiers the dishonor of carrying this out I prefer to die as a Roman—by poison.'

"The letter said he had had the poison 'a very long time' and had hidden it sometimes in his brief case and sometimes in his fur lined coat.

"At 10 a. m. he regained consciousness and recognized two of us. His first words we could distinguish were, 'I didn't want to die under French bullets.'

"Meanwhile, the prison chaplain, who had been waiting, stepped up and began the formula for absolution, telling him to ask forgiveness of God for all his errors.

"He answered: 'I ask forgiveness of God for all my errors and I also ask him to forgive those of the others. Their need of forgiveness is even greater than mine.'

"Then he asked for, and was given, the final rites.

"The doctors and their aids continued to work on him.

"At 11:30 they said they thought he could make it and that it was a miracle how he had recovered.

"He refused to be helped going out. Two of us got into the police wagon with him, the prison chaplain and two mobile guards.

"As we got out of the police wagon guards offered to carry him in a chair. He waved them away, saying 'I want to go upright to the execution stake.'

"Immediately after the volley, somebody filled the air with a great shout from the prison, 'the republic has murdered him.'"

Laval's body was immediately placed in a coffin and loaded on a hearse. Accompanied by a few officials and newspaper men, the hearse drove directly to Thiais cemetery, where the recently executed Vichy militia chief, Joseph Darnand, was buried.

Without ceremony, Laval's coffin was lowered into a grave which had been prepared in advance. Next to it was another grave marked, "Here Lies an Unknown Collaborator."

Mother Wins Baby

Mrs. Esther Tinman and her daughter, Esther Olive, 9 months, whose custody the mother was granted temporarily yesterday.

Circuit Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg yesterday awarded temporary custody of Esther Olive Tinman, 9 months, to her mother, Mrs. Margaret Tinman, 33, of 2032 W. 103d st., whose estranged husband, Hugo, 33, a naval architect, had charged her with being an unfit mother.

Hugo Tinman

Judge Schnackenberg listened to numerous witnesses who testified in Mrs. Tinman's behalf, then asked Tinman if he were willing to become reconciled. Tinman said he was not, and spurned Judge Schnackenberg's suggestion that he visit his baby once a week. "I will never see them again," he said. "I consider them dead."

In a previous hearing Tinman charged that his wife's dog, Felix von Luckner, was suffering from eczema and was a menace to the baby's health. Judge Schnackenberg ordered Mrs. Tinman to give the dog away.

NATIONAL RULE IN AUSTRIA WINS SUPPORT OF U. S.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—The United States gave outright support today to the development of a full fledged national government in Austria. Officials expressed hope this would help solve some threatening problems of big power control in the country.

The state department announced that John Erhardt, American member on the allied council in Austria, has been instructed to notify the council that this government is ready to recognize the provisional government of Austria formally.

The Austrian regime was reorganized partially last month. Some Communist leaders lost power and some persons considered here to be "democratic leaders" came into the government, headed by Chancellor Karl Renner.

[A Reuters dispatch yesterday from London said recognition of the Renner administration is expected to be announced jointly by members of the allied control council. The dispatch said Washington's announcement that it is prepared to recognize the administration was not believed to imply that independent action is to be taken by the allies.]

Follows Pattern in Hungary

The Austrian recognition policy is akin to that previously announced for Hungary, where the United States sent word in September it was prepared to recognize the Hungarian setup upon promises to broaden itself politically.

In Romania and Bulgaria, on the other hand, the United States has taken the position it will not recognize the soviet sponsored governments until after they have taken definite steps to include leaders of parties not now fully represented.

To find out what is going on politically in the two soviet border states State Secretary Byrnes has named Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville [Ky.] Courier-Journal and Times, a special investigator for him.

Currency Poses Problem

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A sharp disagreement has developed in the allied control commission in Vienna over Austria's currency, coal, and oil problems, British officials disclosed today.

Declaring Austria's inflation spiral was mounting, informants said the Russians had refused to approve a new allied currency plan on the ground it must be studied further.

London quarters said the Russians also have refused to approve a trade agreement whereby Czechoslovaks would exchange some of their surplus coal with the Austrians. The Russians were reported to have taken the position that since Dr. Karl Renner's provisional Austrian regime was not a recognized government it could not make valid international agreements.

Swedish Unions Invite Study by Americans

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—The Swedish trade union congress today invited the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the Jewish labor committee to send representatives to Sweden to study the Swedish trade union movement.

WORLD LABOR PARLEY HELD UP BY SHIP STRIKE

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—The international labor office opened its 27th session today, but debate on its directors' report will be delayed a week because the documents are on a ship which an official said was strikebound in New York harbor.

Thirty-nine nations were represented by 168 delegates who elected Alexander Parodi, French minister of labor, as president of the group's first conference in Europe since before the war.

One of the conference's principal objectives is the severing of all ties with the league of nations. This would be in keeping with the ILO's announced desire to be affiliated with the united nations organization.

THE QUESTION
What is always music to your ears?
WHERE ASKED
Erlanger theater [asked of players in "Carmen Jones"].
THE ANSWERS

Muriel Smith, New York City—Water has always fascinated me. I know of no more pleasant sound than the dashing of waves against the rocks or the calm, gentle rolling of the ocean at night. It brings a kind of peace and quietness and I love the aloneness that comes when you are near that kind of peace.

Napoleon Reed, 3455 South Park way—To have the general manager of the company or the producer say, "You were great tonight" is what I like to hear. It always sounds good to me. The greatest thrill of my life came when Oscar Hammerstein on opening night came back stage and said, "You were great tonight."

David Mordecai, musical director, New York City—My wife happens to be an excellent cook and caters to all my tastes. When she says, "Soup's on," that's always sweet music because I know I'm going to have a wonderful meal. I enjoy eating any time but there's nothing I enjoy more than eating my wife's cooking.

Elton Warren, Philadelphia, Pa.—When the conductor calls, "North Philadelphia station," that's music to my ears. That means I'm home, and my husband and my dog, Eric, will be there at the station to meet me. I get home so seldom when I'm in a show like this and I get so lonesome for my family in Philadelphia.

Cozy Cole, 407 E. 60th st.—The yelling and screaming at a baseball game is the sweetest music I know. The wilder the crowd the better I like it because that means the game is that much better. Sometimes I can't hear the crowd above my own yells but when we all get together it's a harmonious symphony.

Theresa Merritte, Philadelphia, Pa.—I've been married a little over three weeks and any time any one says, "Mail for Mrs. Hines," I'm there. And I never knew a long distance telephone ring could sound so beautiful until I went away from my honey. Anything that sounds like home is music to my ears.

SOVIET TROOPS SENT TO FIGHT POLISH BANDITS

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Polish government said today the Red army is sending headquarters units to each of the 17 provincial capitals of Poland to put down an epidemic of banditry. The announcement said the action was by agreement with the Polish government.

Each unit to be attached to the provincial capitals will be commanded by a Russian general, to whom all district officers were instructed to report all complaints of banditry and marauding.

Meantime, the government's deadline for surrender of the remnants of the Polish home army which owed allegiance to the Polish government in exile in London expired tonight. At the same time a government decree authorized drafting of men 18 to 55 and women from 18 to 45 to labor for "the general economic welfare of the country."

PRELATE CRIES OUT TO WORLD TO AID HUNGARY

Danube Valley of Tears Now, He Asserts

Who May Send Cash

The state department at Washington, D. C., said yesterday that money may be cabled from the United States to persons in Hungary only if the addressees are citizens of the United States or are close relatives of service men or former service men. This followed a dispatch from Budapest indicating Americans might cable dollars in care of the American diplomatic mission there.

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 15—A dramatic plea for aid for Hungary was made yesterday by Archbishop Joseph Mindszenty as he celebrated his first mass in his new post in the shell shattered basilica.

"The Hungarian nation is too proud to beg," he said, "but I, the archbishop of Esztergom, cry out to the civilized world for help. We did not desire war—it was our geographic position and the relentless logic of war that rolled over us.

Misery Approaches Peak

"The Danube today is a valley of tears. We face difficulties this winter, the worst in a thousand years of Magyar history. We face starvation, collapse of public works to restore the functioning of the city, and the terrible threat of inflation. Babies are starving and freezing in heatless and windowless houses.

"Cannot humanity bring lifesaving alms to babies, children, and hospital patients; food to the famished, clothing to the naked, and lodging to the shelterless?"

Keep Old Ideals, Youth Told

Addressing Hungarian youth in the square outside the basilica, the archbishop gave a veiled warning against extremist political changes.

"New brooms sweep clean," he said, "but do not sweep out our traditions, our concepts of life, the Ten Commandments. Our ideal is Hungary with its ol dreligious mortality—national spirit and a population that is Hungarian in its souls."

Archbishop Mindszenty succeeded Cardinal Justinian Seredi, who died a few months ago.

BRITAIN TAKES UP CAUSE OF 45,000 WIVES OF YANKS

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The British foreign office has "made representations" to American authorities on behalf of 45,000 British brides of American GIs who want to be sent to the United States to join their husbands, it was disclosed in parliament today. Hector McNeil, undersecretary of foreign affairs, told commons members he could not give further information on the representations.

His statement was in answer to Thomas Driberg, Independent, who asked whether the foreign minister would expedite departure of the brides "in view of the fact that such women cease to draw allowances when their husbands are demobilized." McNeil said American authorities "are fully alive to the hardships involved."

Thomas Moore, Conservative, asked for assurance that no "preference will be given to these women" until all British war prisoners have been repatriated and the wives of Canadian soldiers sent to their husbands. A small delegation of brides was refused an interview with an American state department mission studying the problem today. It was explained there was nothing new in the situation.

Amateur Job

Capt. Roscoe T. Sorenson, Fort Sheridan post exchange officer, inspects one of three safes which yeggs mauled Sunday night. Possible loot—$37,500. What they got—$75 and a suitcase.

Army and federal bureau of investigation authorities yesterday investigated a burglary Sunday night of three safes in the Fort Sheridan post exchange. The burglars obtained only $75 and a suitcase. The money was taken from a safe in the postal station, where more than $2,500 in postage stamps and war savings stamps were passed up.

The burglars, believed to have been amateurs, tried unsuccessfully to open a small safe with $10,000. Another safe was partially opened, but the thieves failed to break the section which contained $25,000.

The burglary was discovered by Staff Sgt. James J. Treanor. Authorities said a recent relaxation of rules permitted civilian visitors to remain in the post exchange until 11 p. m., and they believed the burglars had secreted themselves within the building when the exchange closed.

INDIANA BEAUTY SINGS; BUDAPEST ROMANCE IS ON

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 15—Two glamorous South Bend, Ind., girls remained in Budapest thruout the war, suffering persecutions, imprisonment under the German army, and terrorization and looting when the Russian army conquered the city.

They are Ania Suli Becsey and Nancy Horvath Kepes, who came here in 1938 with contracts for stage engagements. They expect to return to Indiana when the state department validates their passports, military authorities provide transportation, and the Russians issue exit permits.

One Expected to Wed Yank

Ania Suli Becsey said she would soon divorce a titled Hungarian, Stephen Becsey, and is expected to wed Maj. James Marnane, proprietor of a night club in Sheepshead Bay, Long Island, within a few weeks. Maj. Marnane is stationed at Vienna.

Ania Suli Becsey has a son, Larry, aged 4 months, whose custody has been awarded to her.

"Nancy and I were both in the show business and I worked at the Drake hotel as an entertainer and sang over W-G-N radio station," said Ania Suli Becsey at the Anglo-American Park club, where she is hostess and blues singer.

"In 1938 we were offered the contracts to come to Budapest for a musical comedy and we appeared here until the war started.

Live Months in Cellars

"When American bombers raided Budapest we lived in cellars for months. Russians and nazis fought in the streets and guns blazed night and day. When the Russians captured the city their troops ransacked our homes but our servants hid us.

"When the Americans came and opened the officers' club here they let me and my baby stay there. I met Maj. Marnane when he came here with the military mission. He heard me sing 'I Walk Alone,' and asked me for five encores."

Nancy Horvath Kepes said she planned to divorce her Hungarian husband, long a Russian prisoner.

GREECE'S REGENT ASKS TSOUDEROS TO PICK CABINET

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—Regent Archbishop Damaskinos has charged Emmanual Tsouderos, who was premier of the Greek government in exile for three years after the German invasion of Greece in April, 1941, with forming a new government, it was reported here today.

Tsouderos conferred today with leaders of the Populist [monarchist] party. Populist headquarters issued a statement saying it could not accept the formation of a "political" government. The statement quoted an assurance by Damaskinos that the new cabinet would be composed of "personalities outside politics."

This statement is believed to have doomed Tsouderos' efforts to failure.

U. S. Army Stops Work on Bridge Over Pasig River

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 15 (AP)—With much of its Manila based personnel redeployed homeward or toward Japan, the army stopped work today on construction of the Santa Ana bridge—70 per cent complete—across the Pasig river at Manila. An increase in traffic was reported by military police Capt. F. S. Tenny of Chicago. He said the army now has 138,000 vehicles in Manila, compared with 52,000 vehicles registered for the entire island group in the prewar period.

U. S. ARMY HELPS OUT ENGLAND IN BUILDING TOWN

LONDON, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—One hundred United States army surveyors are helping Britain with her housing problem.

They are making a preliminary survey of the village of Meopham near London where a town of 10,000 houses is to be built to house 40,000 Londoners. The plan will cost about $60,000,000. It is to be completed within the next five years.

The town will have its own factories, schools, churches, and shopping centers.

U. S. ARMY BIDS TO KEEP 20 PCT. OF EUROPE GIs

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Inducements by which the United States army hopes to reënlist at least 20 per cent of its enlisted troops now in Europe were announced today by the theater service force's headquarters.

Gen. Ralph B. Lovett, chief of military personnel procurement in this theater, disclosed that commanders of all echelons have been ordered to appoint recruiting officers who will offer the following inducements:

Mustering out pay and reënlistment allowances; 30 to 90 day furloughs in the United States, Britain, or any European liberated country; reënlistment for periods ranging from 18 months to three years; the right to retire after 20 years' service; continuance of overseas pay and family allowances; retention of the present and 5 cents a mile furlough travel allowance. All privates who reënlist will automatically become privates 1st class.

Alive Today...!

By MARK MERIT

This recorder has just spent a fascinating hour with our Dr. Charles E. Dutchess, Medical Director of Schenley Laboratories, Inc., producers of Penicillin-Schenley.

We asked the doctor, "What was really remarkable about the development of Penicillin"? Here is his ready response: "Not alone the fact that an alert scientist observed something unusual on a contaminated plate and realized its significance; nor that he proceeded to prove the significance and possibilities of his discovery, for the history of science is full of stories just like that. In this case the discoverer had neither the time nor the facilities to proceed with the development of the seemingly wonderful new substance, whose existence he had discovered. And some years later when colleagues undertook to develop this material, they too soon came to the end of their resources and had to have help. They sought it and obtained it from the Rockefeller Foundation.

"But something more was needed—the cooperation of many individual scientists and more than a single institution—of a United States Government bureau, and even international cooperation.

"Early specimens of Penicillin were flown across the Atlantic in bombers to expedite the development. The world was aflame and money alone did not count. A method for the quantity production of this precious product had to be worked out. So behind this development went the resources of the United States Government . . . quickly followed by the resources of enterprising American business firms, who were willing to expend huge sums and thousands of hours of manpower towards one end . . . the saving of lives.

"The remarkable thing, then, was the tremendous cooperative effort which was contributed when it was urgently required. It had to be done, and everybody cooperated and got it done!"

Yes, Penicillin might have been developed surely, but much more slowly, under normal conditions. Under the stress of the existing emergency, however, research and development were accelerated and the world got Penicillin when it needed it most. Men are alive today, thousands of them, because of this wonder working agent—PENICILLIN.

Salute!

UNION STRIFE FLARES AGAIN IN DOCK STRIKE

6,000 Out of 35,000 Back at Work in New York

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Charges of violence and attempted intimidation by "goons" were made today by leaders of the several factions in the longshoremen's strike which has tied up some 400 ships in New York harbor for two weeks.

Police estimated fewer than 6,000 men had reported back to work on piers today as a struggle for supremacy in the AFL International Longshoremen's association was being waged. A total of 35,000 dock workers were reported by union officials last week to have left their jobs.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association, who earlier had said most of the men would be back on the job today, declared "Curran and Bridges goons" were intimidating returning workers and added: "We can have retaliation."

Counter-Charges Heard

Insurgents of the ILA heard charges from their leaders at a meeting that "Joseph Ryan's goons" were molesting insurgents and members of the CIO National Maritime union, who are backing the opponents of Ryan.

At the start of the walkout the strikers said the action centered about their objection to the weight of cargo loads they were handling.

Ryan's statement blamed Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union, and Harry Bridges, president of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehouse Men's union, for purported disturbances this morning.

Bridges led the 1943 longshoremen's strike on the west coast which brought about the overthrow of former union officials and transfer of the union's affiliation from the AFL to the CIO.

Bridges Pledges Aid

Bridges had told reporters his union, which represents west coast dockworkers, would give the New York strikers "moral support and political and financial support in the form of strike action" against "any attempt by Ryan or ship owners to double cross" the strikers.

William E. Warren, chairman of the insurgents, told the Manhattan center meeting:

"Ryan for 27 years has been cramming contracts down our throats. It's about time he was thru."

9,000 IDLE AT CANTON

Canton, O., Oct. 15 (AP)—A walkout of CIO United Steel Workers forced an almost complete shutdown today of the four plants of the Canton bearing division of the Timken Roller Bearing company.

Finas Reynolds, president of the Timken steel workers' local, said about 9,000 of the company's 9,500 employes were idle.

Union spokesmen said the stoppage was caused by the company's suspending the crew of a 10 inch mill when the crew refused to work while several men short. Reynolds said the crew was refused admittance when it reported for work today, after leaving the plant early Saturday morning.

Escorted from Plant

A union spokesman also said the company escorted several maintenance men from the plant when they reported for work, but company spokesmen said they were given passout slips because they reported for work on their day off under a new 40 hour work week schedule.

Reynolds said the company had "arbitrarily set up work schedules of its own liking and so violated the company-union contract." A company spokesman said the firm had not been notified late today that a strike had been called.

The spokesman said the company decided to discipline the 10 inch mill crew by laying them off until Oct. 22.

JOHNSTON 'SUPREME'

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 15 (AP)—Movie producers tonight gave Eric A. Johnston "full power to represent the industry in an effort to settle the difficulties which have occasioned the present protracted strike."

The Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., made this announcement after Johnston, new president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, had conferred for three hours with major studio executives.

Despite fist fights and several arrests, tension in the strike apparently was easing. Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz told Burbank police he believed the emergency at Warner Brothers' studio was over, and he withdrew deputies from active patrol there. Warners and Columbia had not resumed operations today, however.

Approximately 350 pickets massed at Columbia this morning. After a brief flurry of fighting at Warners, the number of pickets was reduced to four, and cars were permitted to enter studio gates unmolested.

Other studios reported no work has been halted by failure of actors and actresses to cross picket lines, altho the powerful AFL Screen Actors Guild today instructed its 8,000 members it would support those who stayed away.

Earl J. Ruddy, conciliator for the labor department, conferred with representatives of the unions and Johnson.

Strike Leader Herbert K. Sorrell said the situation had developed into a "mass lockout by producers."

Sorrell, president of the Conference of Studio unions, said the walkout was no longer an inter-AFL factional dispute.

Originally the C. S. U. and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, both AFL, each claimed jurisdiction over some 70 set decorators but this issue was settled in favor of the C. S. U. by a national labor relations board election.

AUTO PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 15 (AP)—One of the most promising weeks for automobile production since the war ended was in prospect today with fewer than 4,000 persons affected by strikes and full production resuming at the Ford Motor company.

Some 35,000 Ford workers returned to their jobs today after a month long layoff, due to strikes in supplier plants.

But strike votes are scheduled for Oct. 24 and 25 for more than 300,000 General Motors employes and 80,000 Chrysler workers, respectively.

The CIO United Automobile Workers, which is demanding an industry wide 30 per cent wage increase, also has petitioned for a strike vote among 109,000 Ford workers, but the national labor relations board has not yet set a date for the balloting.

3 More Members of Jap Puppet Regime Arrested

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 15 (AP)—The United States 8th army counter-intelligence today announced that three more Chinese members of the Japanese puppet government at Manking had been arrested.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Oct. 15, 1945

WITH the end of the farming season at hand now is the time when farmers sit down to try to figure out what it costs them to operate their farms and produce their grains, beef, pork, eggs, and poultry.

Perhaps the best way to get an idea of the costs of farm operations is to study the analysis of operations on 24 farms in Champaign and Piatt counties made by the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois last year. The costs determined then will be about the same for this year, perhaps a bit higher because of the increased labor costs.

The farms used in the study averaged 284 acres in size, the largest farm containing 680 acres and the smallest 79 acres. They represent a good cross section of the farms in the cash grain area of Illinois and will apply fairly well to most farms in the state.

Help Costs Increase

The 1944 average hourly rate for hired help was twice that paid by the farmers in 1940 and nearly three times as much as was paid in 1935. The outstanding fact in the study is that profits were made on the production of grain and hay while, in general, live stock operations were carried on at a loss. This will explain why farmers were hesitant to produce beef and pork and the nation suffered.

Last year the average cost of producing an acre of corn was $22.15. This amount included $13.39 for operating cost in growing and harvesting the crop, $1.43 for taxes, and $6.79 for use of the land. With an average yield of 56.4 bushels per acre, it cost 38.2 cents to produce a bushel of corn. The average farm price for corn at harvest time was $1.00 a bushel so the corn showed a profit of $34.88 an acre. Corn was the big money maker last year.

Oats also showed a profit for the farmers. It cost $18.14 to grow and harvest an acre of oats. Of this cost 85 per cent was the charge for combining. The average cost for producing a bushel of oats was 49 cents and the farms showed an average net profit of $6.77 per acre for the grain.

Corn Most Profitable

The average cost of producing an acre of soybeans was $20.65, and the cost of producing a bushel was 82 cents. The farms made an average profit of $30.43 on each acre of soybeans.

For three years ending in 1944 the average cost of producing an acre of soybeans was $19.34 compared with $21.01 for corn. The yield of corn, however, was 2.6 times that of soybeans and so corn continued to be the most profitable crop for the farms.

In other stories to be published here the cost of raising hay, producing meat and poultry, and operating machines will be discussed.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

CAREFUL gardeners follow a standard routine of autumn clearing of their plots, making sure that dead foliage which may harbor insects is destroyed before the snow flies. This practice is especially important in the case of sweet corn and such vine crops as cucumbers, squash, and melons.

The larvae of the European corn borer are harbored over winter in old corn stalks above the soil surface. Unless these stalks are to be plowed under the surface this fall, they should be shocked and burned. The larvae are destroyed by plowing under. If the larvae survive the winter, the garden will be infested with mature borers which will damage next season's planting.

Similarly, the cucumber beetles winter on the plants and fruits of this year's vine crops. All frost-damaged cucumbers, pumpkins, squash, and melons should be destroyed and the vines burned.

EFFORTS OF U.S. TO SETTLE MINE ROW COLLAPSE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Labor Secretary Schwellenbach said tonight the government effort to settle the widespread soft coal strike had collapsed but government seizure of idle mines is not in immediate prospect.

Schwellenbach told reporters he had adjourned the eight-day conference of John L. Lewis, representing the United Mine Workers, and mine operators indefinitely. He said he had done this after the operators rejected five separate proposals for settlement.

The way was left open, however, by the labor secretary to resume negotiations if disputing parties should find some common ground. Schwellenbach said he himself might think of another proposal to offer, and in that case would ask the parties to convene again.

No Meeting Planned

With more than 200,000 miners away from their coal pits and more than half of normal bituminous production at a standstill, Schwellenbach said the government would not consider seizure of the struck mines "as long as the negotiations are adjourned only subject to call." But he added:

"I am not going to call them together again to resume discussions until there are indications that resumption will be worth while." The dispute concerns recognition of Lewis' foremen's union.

President Truman today conferred with the war labor board on methods of ending the strike wave and on post-war wage-price policies—but the status of the board itself remained uncertain.

Plans Unchanged

No conclusions were reached at the White House discussion with the WLB on:

1. Whether the board should handle reconversion labor disputes in the interim between now and conclusion of the November labor-management conference.

2. Whether the WLB or some other agency should mold a wage price pattern to cut down the number of strikes over pay.

Lloyd K. Garrison, acting WLB chairman, held a news conference at the White House, with Schwellenbach at his elbow, and said the board's previous plans for liquidating itself by Jan. 1 would proceed without change while "exploratory" talks were underway.

[Another dispatch from Washington said appointment of a tripartite "blue ribbon" federal commission to formulate the post-war wage policy was proposed to President Truman by the war labor board in its meeting with the chief executive. The commission would consist of spokesmen for labor, industry, and the government.]

Garrison made it clear the decision as to the board's future lay with the President and that the members themselves were willing to coöperate.

CHICAGO ORDER REVERSED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—The war labor board today reversed a Chicago regional WLB order which had granted a six cent hourly increase to 750 CIO United Electrical Workers employed at the Seeger-Sunbeam corporation, Evansville, Ind.

The board remanded the wage dispute to the union and the company for further negotiation. It found that metal trades wage rates set for the Evansville area do "not yield results consistent" with stabilization policy. This indicated a revision of the area rates as applied to Evansville as likely.

The regional board had granted the increase to bring the Seeger-Sunbeam hourly rates up to the area rates for the metal trades. The national board said a study of the area rates showed they are too high for Evansville.

Army to Sell Surplus K Rations to UNRRA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—The army is planning a $100,000,000 food sale of about 125,000,000 K C, and 10-in-one combat rations and 552,000,000 pounds of canned meats and juices, to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration. The war department said today the deal will await an appropriation of additional UNRRA funds by congress.

RICH HUSBAND'S STORY UPHELD IN KNIFE SLAYING

Secretary-Friend Is Held for Questioning

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 15 [Special]—Sheriff E. K. Thomas of Oakland county said tonight that Louis V. Thompson, wealthy co-owner of an automobile sales company in Highland Park, Detroit suburb, apparently has "an air tight alibi" for his movements last Thursday night when his estranged wife, Lydia, 47, was slain.

Louis V. Thompson

The stab-punctured and semi-decapitated body of Mrs. Thompson was found by mushroom pickers Saturday in a clump of weeds near the Pontiac city limits, and was identified today at the Oakland county morgue by two families living near the elaborate Thompson summer home on Orchard lake, about three miles from Pontiac in Oakland county.

Thompson was questioned today by Highland Park police and was then turned over to the Oakland county sheriff's office, where he was still being held tonight without charge.

Friend of Secretary

Miss Helen Budnik, his secretary, was detained for questioning by Highland Park police after Thompson told officers that he and Miss Budnik had been friends, and that this friendship had caused a rift between his wife and himself three months ago.

Thompson asserted vigorously that he knew nothing about his wife's death. He said he last saw her about six days ago, and that since their estrangement Mrs. Thompson had lived alone in their Orchard lake home while he had lived in their house in Highland Park, a municipality within Detroit.

He said he spent Thursday night in Detroit and gave officers a list of places he said he had been, including several night clubs. The sheriff went to Detroit this afternoon to check on his story, and tonight issued a statement that he had "checked and rechecked" on Thompson's account of his movements and that "it appears to stand up."

Ornate Home Searched

The sheriff said he is not yet ready to authorize release of Thompson, however, but intends to hold him for at least 48 hours for further questioning. Highland Park police said they would turn Miss Budnik over to Sheriff Thomas for questioning, but at a late hour she had not made an appearance at the Oakland county sheriff's office.

Deputy sheriffs who searched the Thompson's Orchard lake home described it as an ornate, modernistic building, with glass brick featuring its construction. It is equipped with a chromium trimmed barrom and a billiard room, and the grounds have a private swimming pool.

Identification of the body of Mrs. Thompson was made by two couples, Mr. and Mrs. August Ninfa, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Coco. They said they last saw Mrs. Thompson Thursday afternoon, and made an appointment with her for the next day.

They became alarmed when she did not appear and visited the morgue this morning after reading about the finding of a woman's body.

Thompson was a member of the British army in World War I, and was married in Constantinople, Turkey, in 1923. His wife was a native of Russia. They come to the United States by way of Canada, and established a laundry business in Highland Park.

The laundry business, which is still flourishing, was operated by Mrs. Thompson after her husband went into the auto sales business.

An autopsy on Mrs. Thompson's body, performed yesterday, disclosed four major and several minor stab wounds and a deep gash in the neck which had nearly severed the head from the body and had apparently been inflicted with an ax or hatchet.

Her automobile was located today in a Pontiac parking station where an attendant said it was placed some time between 10 p. m. Thursday and 9:30 a. m. Friday.

SCIENCE LACKS ATOM DEFENSE, SENATORS TOLD

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Science and the army teamed up today to tell congress there is no defense against the atomic bomb except the defenses that work on other sorts of bombing.

Dr. Vannevar Bush

At the same time President Truman nominated Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, director in the development of the bomb, to be assistant to the army chief of engineers.

That shift was taken to show the emphasis the army prpposes to put on nuclear energy weapon.

The testimony on lack of special defense against atomic bombs came from War Secretary Patterson and Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the office of scientific research and development. Both testified before a joint military-commerce subcommittee of the senate, which is considering legislation to set up a national scientific foundation.

Dr. Bush, who worked on the development of the bomb, testified that "There is, in my opinion, no trick way of getting rid of the atomic bomb—because it is an atomic bomb."

"The atomic bomb," Patterson testified, "certainly has given great emphasis to the power of offense. So far as is known there is no defense weapon peculiarly effective against the atomic bomb."

AFL ASKS END OF ALL FEDERAL LABOR CONTROLS

BY GEORGE HARTMANN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 15—Removal of all government control over labor and the immediate return to the free enterprise system was advocated today by the executive board of the American Federation of Labor at the opening of its fall meeting today.

Strong opposition was also expressed by the AFL leaders against any attempts to revive the war labor board or the establishment of any other government board to serve in its stead. AFL President William Green said this position was taken because President Truman and other government leaders "are apparently planning continued controls over labor."

Assails Dictation

"The WLB served its purpose during the war," said an executive board statement issued after its meeting today. "Now that peace is here it has outlived its usefulness. The continuation of the WLB will inevitably bring about an increase in strikes and particularly the threat of strikes.

"It will force labor and management to go to the government for the solution of their disputes instead of finding their own solutions thru the orderly and democratic processes of collective bargaining. It will prolong government dictation of economic policies—a condition that has no place or justification in peace time America."

The AFL board blamed the present wave of strikes on government's attempt to regulate the nation's economic life as tho the war emergency were to continue indefinitely.

Ask New Policy

"The AFL calls upon President Truman to adopt a new course," the council said. "We urge that government controls be dropped promptly and that the WLB be permitted to pass out of existence. Meanwhile, wage rates should be permitted to rise to their proper level thru the free exercise of collective bargaining while every encouragement should be given to business to keep prices down thru the operation of normal competition."

During a press conference, Green revealed that the AFL board, during its present session, would endeaver to formulate a plan for presenation to the labor-management conference called by President Truman for Nov. 5. Green said the plan will reduce strikes and substitute genuine collective bargaining for industrial conflict and strife.

The AFL board today also reaffirmed its decision that there will not be an AFL convention this year, Green said. Altho federal travel restrictions have been lifted, the convention was put off until next year because it is impossible to get hotel accommodations for holding a convention, Green said.

Actor Gets Final Divorce from Sarah Churchill

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Vic Oliver, the comedian, obtained a final divorce today from Sarah Spencer Churchill Oliver, daughter of Winston Churchill. He charged desertion.

ASSETS SOUGHT AFTER WIDOW'S DEATH IN FIRE

Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator's office, yesterday began a search for assets of Mrs. Hulda Sittig, 2247 Armitage av., 82 year old recluse, after her death by burning Saturday revealed a currency cache in a mattress in her home.

Mrs. Sittig, a widow, was burned to death when her clothes caught fire from a kitchen stove. She flung herself on a mattress in the living room of her apartment in a futile attempt to smother the flames.

When firemen arrived Mrs. Sittig was dead, and they hurled the smoldering mattress out the window. When it reached the ground it burst, cascading a shower of bills, many of $20 and $50 denomination.

Children who had gathered to watch the fire snatched up the bills, and police were able to recover only $36, they testified at an inquest yesterday. Rubens said he was informed Mrs. Sittig owned the building in which she lived as well as other property. Her husband, Vitor, an insurance broker, died many years ago.

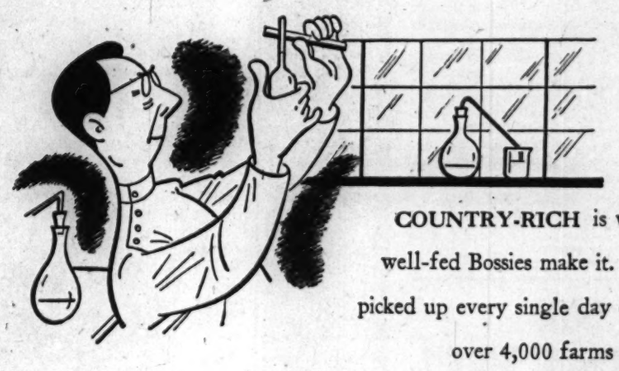
WHEN IT COMES TO RICHNESS,
BOSSIES GIVE US THEIR "ALL"!

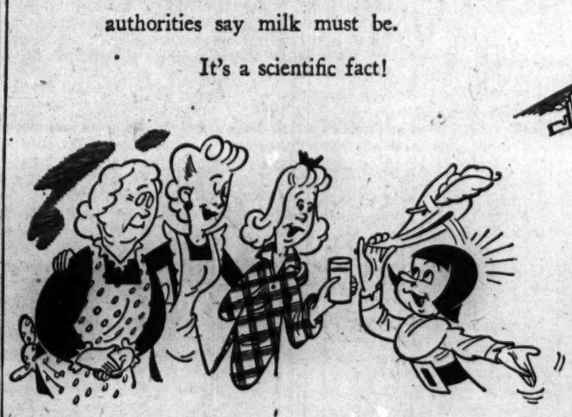
WHAT THEY GIVE US, YOU GET!
Bud Bowman

FOR BOWMAN RICHNESS, milk from gentle Jerseys and Guernseys—extra-rich in butterfat—is combined with milk from sleek, fine Holsteins and Ayrshires (th' cows with crumpled horns like in the nursery rhyme!)

THEY ALL GIVE OUT with milk for Bowman . . . and the milk they give—the Bowman Milk that's delivered to your doorstep or to your grocer's refrigerator—that Bowman Milk is richer than our local health authorities say milk must be. It's a scientific fact!



COUNTRY-RICH is what Bowman Milk is! Just as rich as well-fed Bossies make it. And country-fresh, too! The milk's picked up every single day o' the year—come rain or shine—from over 4,000 farms in this rich dairyland. And it's hustled into town so fast it'd make your head spin!



JUST AS IT COMES from the cows—with the added safeguard of pasteurization, and protected by Bowman's 10 tests for richness, purity, and flavor—that's how Bowman Milk reaches you! No wonder three generations of Chicagoland families call Bowman Milk the milk of Superior Flavor!

SEEK ATTACKER OF 4 WOMEN IN AREA NEAR LOOP

Screams and Ruse Rout Brutal Assailant

Police last night sought a Negro in connection with attacks on four women yesterday in Wabash and Michigan avs. and in Clinton st. All the attacks occurred within an hour.

Miss Molly Dillon, 22, of 8216 East End av., a clerk in the Stevens hotel, told police the Negro, about 30, grabbed her around the waist and attempted to pull her into an alley in 9th st. near Wabash av. She deliberately caught her leg in the bumper of a parked car and screamed. The Negro fled.

Saved by Purse

Miss Victoria Madgzick, 23, of 50 E. Harrison st., a clerk for an electrical supply company, was seized a few minutes later in Harrison st., near Wabash av., by a Negro who dragged her into an alley. She told him her purse, which she dropped, contained $200.

He left her to look for the purse, which had been picked up by Chester McClure, Negro, of 3645 Giles av. The Negro attacker took the purse, containing $5, and an additional $35 from McClure.

Kicks Girl in Face

Miss Eleanor Browski, 24, of 1833 35th st., a clerk in the store at 1458 S. Michigan av., was seized by a Negro answering the same description in front of 1464 S. Michigan av. She tripped him and both fell to the sidewalk, she told police, after which the Negro kicked her in the face.

Mrs. Florence Smith, 32, of 9210 Turner st., Evergreen Park, was seized by a Negro in front of 1709 S. Clinton st. She screamed when he threw her to the sidewalk, and he fled, she told Maxwell st. police.

Martin Clouser, 21, of Reading, Pa., a cook, arrested Sunday night by Rogers Park police on complaints of several women that he had chased them to their homes and was guilty of indecent behavior, will face a police showup tonight.

Fined on Nine Charges

David Franklin, 34, Negro, of 5425 Prairie av., was fined $100 and $10 costs on each of nine charges of disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Domestic Relations court. Franklin was identified by 25 women as the man who had been making lewd remarks to them in the last year.

Charles Wenzel, 35, of 3212 S. Springfield av., was charged with rape, and Stanley R. Dombowski, 33, of 4458 S. St. Louis av., was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday by county highway police in Bedford Park on complaint of a 30 year old Cicero woman.

T. B. SANITARIUM FOOD EXAMINED BY CLUBWOMEN

Five women representing four women's clubs or social service organizations made an inspection tour of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium yesterday, examining particularly the kitchens and the meals served to patients. They will report to a joint meeting of several women's organizations Friday morning at 410 S. Michigan av.

The group included Mrs. W. T. Foreman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Kate Edison of the Jewish Women's club; Mrs. Lillian Williams and Miss Anna F. Parker of the Social Service guild, and Mrs. L. E. McCloy of the Y. W. C. A.

During their visit they interviewed various employes and officials of the sanitarium but did not question patients.

Senate Group Delays Approval of Mollison

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—The senate judiciary committee today delayed action upon President Truman's nomination of Irvin C. Mollison, Chicago Negro, to be a member of the customs court. Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] said the delay was because the committee had not received approval by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill]. Informed of this, Lucas told a reporter he favored the nomination and had sent forward his indorsement.

TIRES AND TUBES STOLEN

Tires, tubes, and batteries valued at $1,027 and 335 tire certificates were reported stolen yesterday in a burglary of the Gillette Tire Sales, Inc., 1111 Addison st.

850,000 PARCELS FOR CHRISTMAS SENT TO YANKS

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen estimated last night that 850,000 Christmas packages, a little more than half as many as last year, were mailed by Chicagoans to service men overseas before the midnight deadline. Packages were accepted until 12 o'clock at the Chicago postoffice and annex.

Written requests again are required from service men for posting of packages to soldiers overseas, and delivery before Christmas is not guaranteed. Mail clerks were twice as busy with the deadline rush yesterday as they were Saturday, the postmaster said.

Eastbound shipments of Christmas parcels showed a 40 per cent reduction from last year's total, and westbound mailings were 36 per cent less.

$347 GARMENTS STOLEN FROM CAR

Mrs. Blanche Loeb, 1421 S. Springfield av., notified police that she lost garments worth $347 yesterday when thieves broke into her automobile while it was parked across the street from her home.

SECRET SERVICE NAMES NEW HEAD OF OFFICE HERE

Harry Anheier, 47, of Monticello, Ind., yesterday assumed charge of the Chicago office of the United States secret service as supervising agent, succeeding Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, who retired Sept. 30 after 35 years. Anheier was first assistant to Callaghan from 1934 to 1940, when he was appointed supervising agent in the New Orleans, La., district office. Recently he was attached to the office of the chief of the secret service, in Washington, D. C., and accompanied President Truman to San Francisco for the peace conference. Charles Mazey, who has been acting head of the Chicago district, will return to the St. Paul, Minn., office.

Chicago Attorney Sworn In as Trade Commissioner

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15—Lowell B. Mason of Glen Ellyn, Ill., was sworn in today as a member of the federal trade commission to succeed Charles H. March of Litchfield, Minn., who died Aug. 28. Mason, an attorney practicing in Chicago and Washington, D. C., is a Republican, one of two on the five man commission. He served as an Illinois state senator from 1922 to 1930 and as an assistant corporation counsel for Chicago in 1915.

TWO GIRLS NAME FATHER OF 3 AS THEIR ATTACKER

Walter Clyde De Frates, 25, of 8251 Morgan st., a railroad switchman, was identified last night by two north side girls as the man who had on separate occasions attempted to rape them. He is married and father of three children. Last Saturday De Frates confessed to Lt. Max Ramelow of the Willow Springs county highway police that he had raped a 16 year old girl.

W. C. De Frates

De Frates' picture was printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE and he was recognized by the two north side girls as their alleged attacker. One said he tried to rape her near Wheeling Oct. 6. The other said the attempted attack in her case occurred four years ago. Both said he choked them and otherwise employed violence.

The suspect appeared in the police showup at the detective bureau yesterday and will appear again at tonight's showup. Lt. Ramelow said that De Frates admitted having been placed on probation in 1943 on a sex crime charge.

WOMAN LOSES PURSE AND $30

Mrs. Lawrence Frisbie, 4019 W. 58th pl., reported to police yesterday that she lost her purse, containing $30, near her home.

WHAT GOOD IS OUR STATESMANSHIP ABROAD, WHEN AN AMERICAN CATASTROPHE IS IN THE MAKING HERE?

WHAT this country needs most now is statesmanship right here at home.

Yet our statesmen are messing around in Europe and Asia and God-knows-where, trying to solve other nation's problems—when anybody with common sense knows that the solution to all the world's problems today depends on whether America can go to work and solve her own domestic problems now.

Our first duty is to Americans—to bring about reconversion and keep our people employed just as soon as is humanly possible.

The domestic pot is boiling. Reconversion is raring to go. But with our statesmen fiddling around abroad, nobody is tending the fire. And our opportunity is evaporating into thin air.

The senseless extravagance of strikes must be impressed upon this nation as fervently, and with the same vigorous intelligence, as that which actuated our unity through the war years.

Let's first go to work and put ourselves back on the road. That is our real job.

The people who are taking a holiday now don't seem to give a damn whether reconversion ever gets started. They seem to think the United States Treasury has no bottom—that American business and industry can keep on granting wage increases forever—and that there is no limit to what we can pay for our necessities. And lack of statesmanship at home is letting them go on thinking so.

We appeal to every statesman in Washington from President Truman down—every labor leader—every patriotic element of business and industrial management—to stop this stupid nonsense and get to work.

Unless this is done and done now, the pot is going to boil away—right down to the scum.

WORLD AIR PACT WITH LANDING RIGHTS URGED

End Bilateral Bickering, Says Canadian

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 15—Herbert J. Symington, president of the International Air Transport association, opened the first convention of chiefs of 57 international air lines here tonight with a blunt warning that the larger nations—the United States, England, and Russia—have the "most to gain" by establishing a world treaty granting air landing r'ghts.

"I am against bilateral or trilateral bickering," Symington, who is president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, told members of the association and delegates of the provisional international civil aviation conference at a dinner in the Windsor hotel.

Asks World Agreement

"We are seeing too much of it," he declared. "I believe that each and every one should be able to fly internationally according to a set of rules and regulations, which is a convention; that the convention should be agreed upon so that the rules are the same for all, and that those who desire to avail themselves of these universal rights should sign the convention and be under a treaty obligation to abide by those rules as administered by the international body."

Symington pointed out that the international aviation organization here has the job of working out such a multilateral treaty and "its influence is not confined to the parliament at London or the congress at Washington or the supreme council at Moscow, as no country can escape its influence or effect."

Cites Failure at Chicago

Symington, who was head of Canada's delegation at the Chicago international air conference in November, 1944, pointed again to the failure there of the big powers to come to agreement on international flying rights. It is this failure which still restricts American commercial flights to England and the continent to two round trips a week.

The association which Symington heads was formed by the operators of the principal international air lines of the world as an outgrowth of the Chicago air conference. Dr. Edward Warner, president of the provisional international civil aviation organization, also addressed the group.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 16—War with Chile Averted

A RIOT in Valparaiso, Chile, 54 years ago today brought the United States the nearest it has ever come to war with a South American nation. Several earlier events had strained our diplomatic relations with Chile.

The bad feeling was intensified in 1889 when a Chilean ship was seized by an American cruiser after it had received a large supply of arms outside the harbor of San Diego, Cal. The arms were intended for use by the Chilean Congressional party, which was seeking to unseat President Balmaceda.

Later a federal District court decided the seizure was unwarranted. The Chilean revolutionaries, however, inferred that the American government had been over anxious to take sides with Balmaceda. The revolution was successful and on Oct. 16, 1891, a Chilean mob in Valparaiso attacked a party of 116 American sailors on shore leave from the cruiser Baltimore. Two Americans were killed and several wounded in the affray, which aroused great indignation in the United States.

The Chilean government delayed for months in making a satisfactory explanation, and on Jan. 21 the United States presented an ultimatum demanding an apology and reparations. Four days later President Harrison laid the matter before congress.

Chile promptly yielded and the "Baltimore Affair," as it was known, quickly blew over.

HITS NAVY DAY SHOW WHILE GIs WAIT TO RETURN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Rep. Springer (R., Ind.) said today he is opposed to the celebration of Navy day so long as service men are waiting overseas to be brought home.

In a house speech he expressed concern at "the rush of our ships to New York for exhibit on Navy day, Oct. 27, while our boys sit idly by on some deserted island wanting to come home."

"It undoubtedly appears to them they are the forgotten men of this war," he said.

Springer said a soldier on Guam wrote that 48 ships had left that port to take part in the celebration and added, "We cannot understand that policy."

GREEN VISIONS STATE AID AFTER FOX RIVER TOUR

Gov. Green inspected the Fox river valley yesterday by airplane, automobile, and motor launch, and immediately afterward predicted its expansion as a great residential area. The governor's tour was made at the invitation of valley mayors who hope some day, with state aid, to stabilize the flow of the Fox river.

The governor arrived by plane at Pingree Grove air field, near Elgin, and was met by Mayor Walter E. Miller of Elgin. With Gov. Green was Capt. Robert Dewey, state aviation director. With the mayor, Gov. Green flew over the Fox river to McHenry and back. Then he drove from Elgin to McHenry by car, picking up the mayors of Dundee, Carpentersville, and Algonquin. He was received by Mayor R. I. Overton at McHenry. Later he cruised along the river.

The governor said he was impressed with the development of the valley and added that the state was interested in making river improvements. Gov. Green today will speak at a luncheon sponsored by the Elgin Association of Commerce at Elgin Masonic temple. A 30 piece band from Gardiner General hospital will welcome him.

ESTRANGED WIFE ORDERED PAID BY MATE FOR WORK

If an estranged wife performs secretarial work for her husband she should be paid for it, Judge Elmer Schnackenberg held yesterday in Circuit court, where he awarded Mrs. Eugenie Beuerlein, 26, of 444 Roslyn pl., $225 a month.

Mrs. Eugenie Beuerlein

Mrs. Beuerlein's husband, Dr. Karl Beuerlein, a physician, had been ordered by the court to move from their apartment Sept. 19. Since then, her attorney, Norman Becker, said, she has been receiving his telephone calls from patients and relaying them.

The $225 a month Dr. Beuerlein was directed to pay his wife, who has a divorce bill charging cruelty pending, represents temporary support as well as compensation for handling her husband's business messages. The couple have one child, Karl Jr., 2.

DISABLED VETS OPEN NATIONAL SESSION FRIDAY

With four million veterans eligible for the Disabled American Veterans, that organization will open its 24th annual convention in the Congress hotel Friday with approximately 1,500 delegates from 1,211 chapters in attendance.

To support the convention theme, "Disabled Are Valuable," the organization yesterday released a survey of 300 employers who employ 62,382 disabled workers. It reported that 87.2 per cent of the disabled are as efficient as the able bodied, 7.8 per cent were more efficient, and 5 per cent less efficient.

The survey was prepared for the DAV by Virgil Smirnow, specialist for handicapped, USES, and John Donald Taube, state counselor USES in Minnesota.

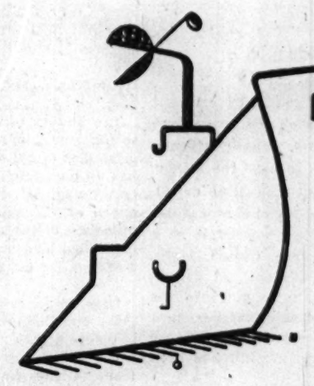
Injury reports disclosed: 49 per cent of the disabled were injured less frequently than the able bodied.

Fifty-eight and five-tenths per cent of the disabled workers stayed on their jobs longer than the able-bodied.

State Adjutant George Brown was named to the host committee for the convention with the nine Cook county commanders. They are Les McDermott, Omar A. Cooper, Robert Topping, Walter A. Johnson, Horace M. McDougal, Martin Cooley, Edward Holub, Ralph Mulholland, and John E. Miller.

Plan to Tow Big Dock from Britain to Singapore

LONDON, Oct. 15 [Reuters]—A new 1,000 foot long dry dock to replace the great King George V. graving dock is to be towed from England to Singapore as soon as possible, the New Delhi radio reported today. The King George V. dock was sunk by the British in 1942, refloated by the Japanese and then sunk again by allied air raids. The only dock available in Singapore is a small floating dock.



Silly-looking object, isn't it?

It is silly. There's no plan, no design, no purpose.

Not unlike preparing an advertising campaign without a thorough study of the product, the market, the distribution, and the competition.

That's silly, too.

MacARTHUR TAKES HIS STAND

Gen. MacArthur has intimated that if he is ordered to adopt policies toward Japan that offend his sense of right he will resign rather than carry them out.

It is altogether certain that the general's enemies will misinterpret his attitude as one of insubordination. It will be said that he is presuming to dictate policy to the civil authority rather than take orders from it, as the Constitution requires. Obviously, the facts will not warrant this censure. It would be insubordinate of him to remain in office and refuse to carry out an order. In contrast, the mere threat of resignation is an acknowledgment of the duty of the military to carry out the orders received from the civil authority. The insubordinate officer says, "You have ordered me to do thus and so, but I won't obey." Gen. MacArthur says, "If you want this and that done, you can have your way, but you'll have to get somebody else to carry out your orders because, in good conscience, I can't."

Two issues appear at the moment to be dividing Gen. MacArthur and the state department.

The department is moving in the direction of an interallied authority in Japan comparable to the authority that is presently guilty of the criminal maladministration of Germany. If Gen. MacArthur were to accept responsibility for maintaining order in Japan under such an arrangement he would be mad. His position found an able defender in the London Economist, which recently observed:

". . . The example of Germany may cause one to wonder whether the undivided authority of one power is not a better solution of the problem of occupation than the establishment of four zones and four different and often competing authorities. The spectacle of the German people, disintegrated, leaderless, hopeless, and starving is a warning against similar experiments. The Japanese people will face some starvation this winter. But at least they are not on their way to becoming a vast, derelict, human slum."

The other issue concerns the emperor. When the Japanese surrendered we agreed to let them keep their emperor, provided he would take orders from the American general in command of the occupation. They have kept their part of the bargain. Gen. MacArthur, who accepted the surrender, is bound, in honor, to do as much.

If the state department persuades Mr. Truman to accept interallied control of Japan and to oust the emperor, Gen. MacArthur will resign, he has indicated. In truth, these are merely the symptoms of a much deeper conflict. Gen. MacArthur recognizes that when the Japanese surrendered they placed themselves wholly in our hands. That imposed a moral responsibility upon us, a kind of trusteeship which he means to carry out with as much decency and as little savagery as is possible.

It might be supposed that the state department would be of his mind, for obviously there is nothing to be gained in the long run or the short one, either, by promoting hatred of us. Unfortunately, the state department can't let the occupation of Japan proceed peaceably because, if the record there is good, the fact will only emphasize the horrible botch in Europe, for which our diplomats bear their full share of blame. Our noble allies, the Russians, want disorder in Japan as a prelude to the spread of communism, and, in any event, they want to loot Japan as they have already looted Germany, Austria, Romania, and a lot of other countries.

Gen. MacArthur has already proved himself to be one of the great captains of all time. He is now on the way to proving he is the only man in a position of power today who can lay claim to the title of statesman. That is why every brutal fool in every capital in the world is trying to destroy him and his influence.

THE M. T. S. IS STILL THERE

The three men named by the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference to investigate the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium prefaced their report to Mayor Kelly with the warning that: "It is not in any sense the report of a definitive survey, which, if made, would obviously require more time . . . and a much more detailed analysis than has been made."

The members of the committee, capable men in their field, spent two days at the sanatorium. The sanatorium is still there, and all of its problems and defects remain. They remain a problem to which the citizens of Chicago and the city administration must address themselves, in common decency.

The survey committee was compelled, naturally, to take promises of reforms at face value. Mr. Washam, director of public school lunchrooms, was sent to the sanatorium when a committee of restaurant men found the food served there to be atrocious. The committee took his appointment as an earnest that the food hereafter will be all right. Perhaps it will be. We hope so.

The committee, in recommending improvements in the sanatorium's professional department, took cognizance of charges that patients in the sanatorium are being shaken down for treatments which should be free. The committee didn't investigate the shake-down charges. In fairness to its members, it must be conceded that they did not have time to do so. But in fairness to the public, those charges should be investigated, and, if proved, the persons guilty of improper practices dismissed.

The committee recommended that from 500 to 800 beds be added to the existing 1,340 in the sanatorium. The sanatorium now has several hundred empty beds. In addition, the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital, which could very well accommodate several hundred tuberculosis cases, but doesn't, has some 400 beds and an average patient load of about 60. There no doubt is need for more facilities for the treatment of tuberculosis, but the greater need is for management of what we now have, with a view to the welfare of the patients rather than the politicians.

About the same time that the committee members were reporting to Mayor Kelly, Dr. Clarence Payne, an attending physician at the M. T. S. for the last 15 years, was telling representatives of civic organizations gathered at the Woman's City club that complaints about conditions at the hospital are valid, "and the city administration should do something about them." He indicated that the administration of the hospital began to deteriorate at least seven years ago.

THE TRIBUNE greeted Mayor Kelly's invitation to the Mississippi Valley group to investigate the sanatorium with approval because we thought that it meant a thorogoing survey of the hospital, with comprehensive recommendations for reform. Perhaps we were under a misapprehension, or perhaps the signals were changed. Anyway, the job still has not been done that has to be done. The members of the committee say that they did not have the time to make a complete survey. Such a survey is necessary.

And while it is going on, what is going to be done about those responsible for feeding rotten food to sick people? From here it looks like time for Mayor Kelly to put a burr under his sanatorium board.

THE HIGHER PANHANDLING

About a month ago the Socialist government of Britain sent a delegation of aristocrats here to talk to us about money. The gentlemen talked in riddles. They had to have the money, but it couldn't be a loan that created an obligation to pay back the principal and at regular intervals some interest. They wanted it as a handout. They said that the United States ought to make a big donation because Britain stood off the Germans until we got into the war. A prominent easterner said that we ought to pre-date lend-lease and pay at the rate we would have paid if the lend-lease law had been passed earlier.

The argument that we ought to pay the British for keeping the war going until Mr. Roosevelt could manage to get us into it has fallen flat. Stories from Washington this week indicate that the conferences have been devoted to finding a formula for giving the British what they came for while appearing to do something sound and orthodox. It is said that agreement has been made on a 5 billion dollar loan, but the borrower isn't going to be obliged to pay any interest for 5 years, and after 5 years at a lower rate than the United States government pays on its own borrowings. No principal payments are to be required, either, until some time well in the future. The full details are to be given the public after the next bond drive is out of the way. It is feared that bonds might not go well if it were known that the proceeds were to be passed along to a foreign country without interest until 1951.

Meanwhile the propaganda is taking a new line. The handing over of this money about the first of the year, if congress approves, is described as "a Christmas present to the American people from the state department." The money we are going to give the British, it is said, is to be used by them to buy "farm machinery and automobiles and cotton and tobacco and a thousand other things." These articles bought with American money will raise the standard of living of the British people and as a result, it is said, "everybody will be better off." If we fail to hand over the money to the British they will have to reduce their standard of living and we shall lose all this valuable business.

With five billion dollars the British could purchase quite a lot of the consumer goods of the sort mentioned. Rationed over a period of five years, all this would make many a household happier in London, Liverpool, Birmingham, and Coventry. The industries immediately affected here would enjoy quite a measure of prosperity while the 5 billions was being spent. The people employed in those industries could be expected to be favorably inclined.

But what is the future in this? Where is the money coming from to buy goods for the British after our original five billions have been spent? Unless we responded at that time to the pleas of another delegation of charming panhandlers from London we would lose all this profitable trade. If our wellbeing consists in taking money from the American people and handing it out to people who will spend it, why go outside the United States? Dr. F. E. Townsend worked out quite a plan for creating such synthetic prosperity, utilizing older citizens instead of the British as the spenders.

Raising the standard of living in Britain by putting that country on the bounty would not only do us great harm but would not do the British people any permanent good. Their standard of living is low because British productivity is low—for lack of modern productive equipment. Output per worker in the United States is, on the average, twice what it is in Britain. High taxes which made it impossible for industries in Britain to acquire from savings the capital needed to modernize and the cartels have agreed to keep out newer methods.

Funds to reëquip the industries of Britain could no doubt be obtained here if the approach were made by successful and financially sound companies engaged in export trade. If that were accompanied by a prohibition of cartels and a relaxation of corporate taxation the average Briton could look forward to a rising living standard. It is outrageous for the British to ask us to give them the money to enable them to live higher.

HEAD OF THE HOUSE

Chicago's most famous mansion, the Potter Palmer "castle," aged 63, appears to be in its last year of gazing at the fine marine view across Lake Shore drive. The other great houses between Oak st. and Lincoln park, forming this city's best bus-ride, are in a sense its children, for Mr. Palmer was the realtor of that stretch of millionaires' architecture. The land was swampy, and regarded as undesirable until he set the fashion, and then sold lots to other prosperous business men.

* * *

"It cost a million," say writers on this subject, but we doubt it. Such a sum would have gone farther at the cost of building material and labor in 1882. Still, with decorators' and furniture bills thru several decades, it may have come close to the million dollar mark. Mr. Palmer's profits, however, from supplementary real estate transactions may have canceled that expense.

* * *

The history of the house has been written as society news, and may be found in the cumbersome files of old newspapers, where this column has no desire to look. But we have often wondered what Mr. Palmer did while Mrs. Palmer, queen of Chicago's Quartier St. Germain, was presiding at the receptions, assemblies, dinners, cotillions, and miscellaneous routs. We have searched for enlightenment, and found it.

* * *

Observe the windows in the tower which suggests the donjon of a mediaeval castle. That is where you could find Mr. Palmer when there was a sound of revelry by night below. We quote from "Giants Gone," an excellent book of Chicago memories by Ernest Poole:

"Tho I went to young people's dances there, I only once caught a glimpse of our host. He had come in very late from his office and stood looking in from the hall. . . . I caught the gleam [of pride] in his wideset eyes as he stood for a moment watching his wife. Then he went on up to the small tower bedroom, where he liked to rest."

* * *

"Though he loved his small room up in the tower," continues Mr. Poole, "when she commanded he would come down. Late one evening, at a ball, I found him on a sofa in one of the quieter rooms; and when I asked him if he were tired, he gave me a weary little smile. 'No, but my feet hurt,' he said."

TO A MOUNTAIN

I gaze in awe upon the height of you,
Your massiveness a breathless curve of art,
The way your head and shoulders touch the blue,
A miracle with snow-corroded heart.

By day you feel the lash of flaming sun,
At night cool stars caress your rugged side,
Your years of reign have only just begun,
While mine are meted out in rushing stride.

You will remain when I am done and gone,
But truly, I am glad not to be you;
The way you stand uncombed, immune to dawn,
And gauntly watch your rigid years accrue.

My life is like a snowflake in the sun,
Your life is long and cold, but mine is fun!

A Poet Plans for Old Age

When we are old and wearied by the hurt of prayerless tears, we'll open wide the albums that we hoarded thru the years; we'll have the south wind turn each page so we might live once more the things we loved, the gleams we sought when Youth tapped on our door.

We'll linger long beside a field of undulating wheat, then follow far umbrageous paths festooned with bittersweet; we'll hunt the thrushes in the copse, the marsh-wrens in the fens; we'll laugh at shadows on the dial, and seek those in the glens.

We'll catch the magic of a slope, old friends will greet us there—the knowing oaks, the sighing elms, and ferns of maidenhair; we'll breathe the scent of dew-drenched nights, nights held in dreams far-flung, and bright with the sheen of lunar gold when all our world was young.

And when we've turned the final page we'll shred the faded leaves, and out of them we'll fashion sere and grainless sheaves; and then we'll seek a sodden hill, its summit we'll attain—and giving back their every worth, we'll fling them to the rain!

That Fella Down in Streator

REPRIMAND TO A HEART

I understand you're full of fun,
And quite important, too, and such,
But O, you shouldn't try to run
Our whole existence quite so much.
Sometimes you provoke me so,
Embroiling me in such affairs;
You could consult our head, you know,
And drop these independent airs,
For, tho it's fun adventuring
Let's get together now and then;
Consult me first before a fling
Or you'll be sorry, once again!

A. E. B. writes: "A man who recently was released from service did not have his honorable discharge certificate when he applied for reinstatement in his old job, but did produce an official statement of military service in the form of a letter. Is this the same as an honorable discharge? Was he entitled to his old job?"

The official statement was issued in lieu of a lost or destroyed discharge. The one lost or destroyed was blue, indicating neither honorable nor dishonorable. This type of discharge does not entitle the holder to reëmployment.

K. R. asks: "My husband was drafted in 1940 and served for a year before discharge. He died in 1942 and now I am told he was entitled to mustering out pay which as his widow I may collect. Where can I apply?"

If your husband was discharged prior to Dec. 7, 1941, he was not entitled to mustering out pay. If he served any time after Dec. 7, but still was discharged in 1941, he was entitled to $100. Because the mustering out pay law was not passed until Feb. 3, 1944, persons discharged earlier must make application for payment. If the date of his discharge shows entitlement apply to Finance Officer, United States Army, 801 Channing pl., N. E., Washington, D. C.

WHAT CAUSES CATARACTS?

A READER wrote to us recently concerning the different kinds of cataracts. She had heard that there were 26 and hardly believed it. This figure could probably be exceeded were we to list the number of conditions which are capable of bringing on the malady, as well as the forms that it assumes.

Ordinarily, the lens in the eye is crystal clear but, should it become opaque, a cataract is said to exist. The tendency toward this cloudiness may be present at birth or result from a nutritional failure, inflammation, or a group of factors leading to degeneration.

The commonest type is observed most frequently after the 50th year altho examples in the '40s have been noted. The cause is not known but the condition is probably a sign of senescence similar to the graying of hair, hardening of the arteries, and glandular atrophy. It has been estimated that at least 85 per cent of those who reach the age of 80 have evidence of the disorder. Fortunately, only a few of these are afflicted to such a degree that operation is necessary.

The process may begin either on the outer shell of the lens or in the very center. In either case, months to years may elapse before the entire organ is affected. Meanwhile, vision is impaired and becomes worse as the amount of opacity increases. Some find that they see more satisfactorily at dusk. Those who have worn glasses for nearsightedness may encounter temporary improvement and discard their spectacles. This is so-called second sight. Objects in the distance, however, become progressively more blurred and for a time the use of a concave lens is helpful.

After several years, with many changes in glasses—each stronger than its predecessor—the end is reached and relief is no longer possible. It is during this period that the cataract is "ripening"—that is, the organ has become completely involved. The skilled ophthalmologist has little difficulty in telling when this stage is reached.

Some complain of spots which occupy a fixed position. Others have double vision or symptoms resulting from associated ocular disturbances. Among these complications are glaucoma in which pressure in the eyeball is magnified, detachment of the retina, retinitis, or ulcers of the cornea.

Whether or not surgery is performed depends upon the degree of sight which is left in the better eye. If it is adequate, operation is usually postponed. The majority of specialists prefer to remove the lens on the bad side first for, in case the procedure is not successful, a certain amount of vision will remain. In addition, the general condition of the patient is taken into consideration. Age is no bar but, should high blood pressure or diabetes be exhibited, these abnormalities must be controled before proceeding.

Cataracts have occurred after accidents in which an eye has been injured. Those who have been struck by lightning or shocked by a high voltage electric current may likewise become victims. Long continued exposure to high temperatures may be responsible. Diabetes often predisposes to the senile variety. Poisons, such as naphthalene may be to blame; and dinitrophenol, which was so popular a few years ago for weight reduction, also has been linked to cataract.

PRESSURE BANDAGE

P. T. writes: What is a pressure bandage?

REPLY

This type of bandage is larger than usual and is bound down securely by gauze. It is useful in controling hemorrhage and swelling and is frequently employed in the treatment of burns.

CHOREA

L. M. writes: What is the cure of St. Vitus' dance?

REPLY

Time will cure most cases but improvement is encouraged by bed rest and sedatives. Some cases respond to fever therapy. Good nursing care is essential in feeding and in preventing self-inflicted body injury.

PIMPLES ON INSECTS?

D. S. writes: Will DDT be helpful in a long standing case of acne?

REPLY

Only on flies and mosquitoes but I doubt if they suffer from this disorder. Because of the possibility that this product will cause a skin rash, if applied locally, I would certainly not advise it for this purpose.

SAFE ENOUGH

G. R. T. writes: Is it harmful for a pregnant woman to bowl during the first few months?

REPLY

In moderation, it should be safe. Care must be taken not to fall.

Aftermath of War

ABOARD S. S. SHELTER BAY—The sturdy little paper boat, steaming up to the lip of the Gulf of St. Lawrence to pick up 2,300 tons of pulpwood, had put in an arduous day. A wild easterly wind had come up, and the ship had pitched and rolled. The wheelsman was the first to succumb. He clung to the wheel as long as his stomach permitted. Then, with a low moan, he asked for relief. Down below in the engine room the oiler followed suit. He is a man endowed with much weight, but seasickness does not differentiate between the lean and the stout. He, too, took to his bunk. The deckhands, who for four days had been busy replacing the dull gray paint of war with the yellow and black of peace, abandoned their work and took to cover. One of these also sought his bunk.

The sea boiled, but the little ship held steadily to her course. It passed Father point, where the Empress of Ireland went down with 1,000 lost in a collision in fog back in 1913. It passed Bic Island, where the long gray convoys used to form, an interminable silhouette at night, for the voyage across the sub-ridden Atlantic. It passed Egg Island, where the entire British fleet of 25 wooden ships went aground during the French-Indian war in another and stronger easterly wind. Because of that, uninhabited Egg Island was given a lighthouse and designated a postoffice.

It had been a long rough day, but uneventful as autumn days go down near the gulf. The only tense hour came around 9 p. m. when the dark young French captain began to ease the ship into the harbor of the little lumber town of Shelter Bay. The wharf was tiny, large enough for only one ship, and the anchorage was slim. Seventy-five feet away were rocks. It was a critical 15 minutes, but the ship went in and was tied up. The captain turned from the wheel. "Well," he observed, supremely pleased, "that's that."

At this point the second mate rushed in. He had been out on the wharf. "They found two mines at Pentecote this afternoon," he cried. The captain looked up from the ship's log. "Mines?" he repeated abstractedly. "What kind? Gold? Lead?", one of the two passengers inquired. The mate stared. "Explosive mines," he said pityingly. "Washed up." The captain uttered his favorite expletive. "Migosh. We passed by there at 3 o'clock this afternoon." Immediately the little pilot house became electric. Mines in that area? The captain had never heard of any during the war. The water was too deep, 185 fathoms [a fathom is six feet], for an anchored mine. A floating one, perhaps? If so, why had it not washed in long ago?

The second mate said ominously that the war wasn't over yet. The captain agreed. "Migosh," he said again, "and we just took off our degaussing equipment at Montreal this trip." [The degausser is a set of cables within the ship's hull to demagnetize mines.] No one felt too cheerful. The hot breath of war was back on the neck. Mines floating around the St. Lawrence five months after V-E day were no laughing matter. Joking a trifle, but serious with it all, the captain displayed the regulation life jacket of the Canadian navy. Orange and black, with a waterproof battery in one pocket to operate a lapel signal light. He showed the passengers how to fasten the jacket, how to flash the light. They flashed the Morse code V. "What would a mine do to this ship?" one asked. The captain made a nosedive with his hand. "She would go down like this. To the bottom. In two seconds."

Loading of the ship began at once. Great spruce logs, five feet long, were hurled down chutes into the ship's holds. They hit the steel hull with a terrific boom, battering and incessant. Like '88s, one of the passengers observed. It continued all night, an innocent peace time sound suddenly conjuring other images. The next day the manager of the lumbering operations dropped by. He was asked, in fine excitement, if there were any more news of the mines. "Yes," he replied quietly. "Much more. They were empty dynamite boxes marked 'explosive.' Nothing more."

C'est la paix.

SOME NOT-SO-NOBLE ALLIES

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9—Recently I received a letter from my brother in the China-Burma-India theater and thought some things should be brought to light. Here are a few excerpts from his letter: "Censorship here has just been lifted again, and I doubt it will be rescinded, as the order comes from Washington. The wheels here do not like to see the GIs have a chance to voice their opinion of China and the outfit—afraid the folks back home will get the true picture of the setup here. There have been so many shady deals pulled in this country, that I don't blame them.

"The peasants aren't bad—aren't interested in who the hell wins the war, but the chinks who are around GI bases were not only indifferent to the winning of the war but helped the Japs all they could. At every base I was at that was bombed, the Chinese would start huge bonfires to direct the Jap pilots. It was a most confusing war—one didn't know who the hell you were fighting—Chinese or Japs.

"The governor of this province only declared war on Japan a few months ago, because the Japs started to advance toward the tin mines, and this had not been in the agreement.

"The Chinese troops who were actually doing the fighting were pretty good considering their poor equipment and inefficient officers. Made us pretty sore to see their lack of equipment when we saw all the stuff the different provincial governors had stored in the hills for use in civil wars."

With such deplorable conditions over there, why not send our troops home, where they belong, instead of using them as tools for the brass and politics?

CHOW LINE BLOCKADE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 10—Last Sunday we visited our son at Chanute Field. Upon arrival we found all the men were restricted to the field.

Only one of three mess halls was in operation and there only two of 10 doors were open. Lines were four deep and several blocks long.

Some soldiers who waited in line three hours received cream gravy on half cooked potatoes instead of chicken a la king.

When our son was at home he received his meals regularly and it was good food. He enlisted before finishing school in order to fly. Now he's not even in school. Why?

THE COLONEL FORGOT

NEAR MARSEILLE, Sept. 16—Today we were called out, with our duffle bags, and waiting in the hot sun for the magic words, heard: "You are not going home today."

The reason? The commanding officer of this camp, Calas staging area, near Marseille, did not check as to whether the boat was in or not. As it was, the boat hadn't docked yet. S. F.

LESSON FROM THE FINNS

Chicago, Oct. 9—After reading Hal Foust's article on Finland, I was wishing we had more Americans now like the Karelians. We had them in 1776. They were willing to lose everything, but did not surrender personal freedom. Some Americans need to take a few lessons from the Karelians. C. T. G.

WHAT HE CAME HOME TO

Chicago, Oct. 10—One of the most talked of post-war problems was unemployment, but now the real problem is to induce people to work. In a democracy there must be labor unions, to obtain strength enough to oppose and balance with the power of capital, but why can they not arbitrate?

When men have fought, died, and become horribly disfigured in mind and body in a war to protect their people and make peace for the world, it is very difficult for them not to want to hoist up their arms again and fight those who, while making top wages during the war, refuse to unload and load ships that are to take supplies to men still overseas, and bring men home after spending years of horror fighting a war; or when they refuse to dig coal, endangering the health of thousands of families.

If one child should die because no coal was available, as a result of strikes, would not that make more than half a million people in these United States responsible for that child's death—the miners as well as their employers?

What is the man who comes home from the war to think when he sees this corruption? Is he going to think that it was worth it? Is he not going to want to rebel against those who stayed at home? GUY S. CARLISLE

MORE WARS?

Chicago, Oct. 10—Our government is faced with the dilemma of advancing England the stupendous sum of $5,000,000,000 for some unknown purpose, as far as our people know, and just writing it "on the cuff," and thereby incurring ill will somewhere else.

While England regards this country as the happy hunting ground for money, still they do not go to this extreme unless they think they have some justification for such action.

The truth is, England must remain armed to the teeth, because of present conditions on the political front in Europe and as she thinks the United States has quite a bit of interest in the situation, she is shifting the heavy end to Uncle Sam. The simple truth is we have not won any war yet, so that it is necessary that Europe remain an armed camp indefinitely. Dumbarton Oaks. Huh?

FREE RIDERS

Chicago, Oct. 11—I should like to know whether the driver of an automobile is legally responsible for injuries resulting from an accident suffered by a hitch-hiker he picked up, or to injuries to a passenger who is not paying for the transportation. A. H.

VANITY VERSUS SALES

In the lush war years of excess profits some advertisers could well afford to indulge in the luxury of seeing their ads appear in a wide variety of magazines. They had no merchandise to sell, anyhow, and they felt it enhanced their prestige.

But now that we are coming back to the good old days of plenty, and plenty of competition, vanity advertising becomes a little out of date. Salesmen, jobbers and retailers will want and demand advertising that will move goods off the dealers' shelves.

For advertising realists, we suggest considering SECRETS market of more than a million-a-month newsstand buyers with the highest concentration of young married women readers between the ages of 18 and 35 of any publication. It is these young women with their growing families who are America's biggest consumers.

Are you an advertising realist?

BODY OF MISSING WIFE FOUND BY MICHIGAN POSSE

Berrien Springs, Mich., Oct. 15 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Flossie McMurtrie, who, State Police Sgt. Earl Secrist said, disappeared simultaneously with her husband 10 days ago, was found under a brush heap late today on the farm on which both were employed.

Secrist said the husband, Ernest, 51, was being sought in Indiana.

A group of farmers organized as a posse came upon the body as they were combing the J. M. La Pointe farm, two miles north of here. It was lying in a shallow ditch and the facial features had been blackened by burning. The skull appeared to have been struck with a blunt weapon, state police said.

CIVILIAN JOINS NEW CABINET IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 15 (AP)—General Prosecutor Juan Alvarez, given a free hand by President Edelmiro Farrell to form a cabinet, sought today to solve Argentina's governmental crisis by offering vacant posts to civilians.

Gen. Avalos

The 67 year old Alvarez was given the job of organizing a "cabinet of notables" after he was reported to have agreed to take the interior ministry only if he could approve appointments to vacancies.

Farrell, who has only two cabinet members, Gen. Eduardo Avalos and Vice Adm. Vernengo Lima, gave Alvarez the go-ahead in an effort to straighten out the government tangle precipitated by the ouster of Vice President Juan Peron.

Alvarez' first effort met with failure when Tomas Lebreton, former ambassador to London, rejected the post of foreign minister. The ministry of finance was reported to have been offered to Alberto Hueyo, who held that position under President Augustin Justo, and the public works post to Antonio Vaquer, chairman of the Argentine center of engineers. However, neither reportedly had reached a decision.

A three block long frame building in which government machinery was being reconditioned by the R. Cooper Jr. company, 1823 W. 119th st., was badly damaged by fire which caused a loss of $100,000 yesterday.

ESTRANGED WIFE KEPT IN STATE BY COURT WRIT

Ne exeat writs are not a masculine perogative, Judge Frank M. Padden held yesterday in Superior court, when he placed Mrs. Mildred Bodkin, 33, of 7763 South Shore dr., under a $2,000 bond on a ne exeat writ obtained by her estranged husband, Paul Bodkin, 37, an employe of the Railway Express agency.

The writ was issued to prevent Mrs. Bodkin from leaving the state. Bodkin told Judge Padden that his wife had taken $2,400 from their joint bank account and $1,800 in war bonds, which also had been held jointly.

Issuance of the writ was opposed by Mrs. Bodkin's attorney, Norman Crawford. He told the court that he had never heard of a woman being named in a ne exeat writ.

"I see no reason why sex should make any difference in a case of this sort," the judge replied. Bodkin has a divorce bill, charging adultery, pending against his wife. They have a son, Robert, 10, a child of Mrs. Bodkin by a previous marriage who had been adopted.

DIES WHILE AT WORK

Louis Petronis, 60, of 2432 W. 46th pl., a laborer employed by Armour & Co., died of a heart attack while at work yesterday.

WOMAN HELD AS MENTAL CASE IS IDENTIFIED

A woman admitted to the Psychopathic hospital Oct. 6 under the name of Mary Doe, after police found her acting strangely in the Union station, was reported identified yesterday as Mrs. Irene Van Heusen Bihn Fereira, granddaughter of Charles Manning Van Heusen, collar manufacturer, and daughter of Mrs. Irene Van Heusen Garrett of New York City.

Dr. Bernard Skorodin, assistant superintendent, said her purse contained a ticket to Reno, Nev., and that she subsequently confided to hospital attendants that she was en route there to obtain a divorce from Norman Fereira, to whom she was married there two months ago, two days after she was divorced from Robert MacDonald Bihn.

Dr. Skorodin said Mrs. Garrett has been notified, but that no reply has been received from her.

200 NEW RADIO STATIONS WILL BE ON AIR SOON

FCC Has Applications for Nearly 1,000 Outlets

BY LARRY WOLTERS

A rash of new radio stations will break out soon. The federal communications commission, which has before it nearly 1,000 applications for new stations, has disclosed that within a few days it will release permits for the construction of upwards of 200 additional radio outlets. Other licenses will follow in quick order.

A backlog of 509 applications for frequency modulation stations, 267 for standard stations, 133 for commercial television, and 147 for changes in existing stations piled up in the war years. The nation now has 935 standard stations, 47 FM stations, and six television transmitters.

Construction Boom Predicted

A construction boom in radio is obviously ahead—chiefly in the FM field. FCC Chairman Paul Porter has expressed the opinion that between 2,000 and 3,000 FM stations will be built within a few years and that 187 cities will have television transmitters in five years.

When FM, the high fidelity, low-static technique in broadcasting, came in a few years ago many radio experts took the view that there would be radio stations for every one who cared to try running a broadcasting establishment. But already it appears that so many interests want to try it that there will be a shortage of channels.

Labor Seeks Stations

Labor unions apparently hope to get into broadcasting on a big scale. The CIO has applied for FM stations in Chicago, Detroit, Mich.; Los Angeles, Cal.; Newark, N. J., and Cleveland, O.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union applied last week for FM stations in New York City, Boston, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa., and Chattanooga, Tenn.

The FCC has just disclosed that it has received applications for FM stations from the following Chicago area organizations: Amalgamated Broadcasting System, Inc.; Knight Radio corporation; stations WAIT, WSBC, WGES, the Telair company, the North Shore Broadcasting Company, Inc., and Sentinel Radio corporation, the last two of Evanston.

PARK POLICEMEN PLAN SCHOOL ON YOUTH PROBLEM

A new school for park policemen, designed to train officers in methods of combating juvenile delinquency, will begin classes next month, Capt. Roger Shanahan, chief of the park police, said yesterday.

A youth bureau, to be organized in conjunction with the school, will be headed by Sgt. William Szarat. As soon as the first classes are graduated, Capt. Shanahan said, three policemen will be deputized as juvenile officers for the west, south, and north park police.

Deserted

MRS. MARGARET PARIS

Mrs. Margaret Paris, 19, of 1021 S. Claremont av., yesterday won a divorce before Judge Frank M. Padden in Superior court from her husband, Lloyd, 23, a private in the army, who returned recently from France. In response to questioning by Nicholas Caruso, her attorney, Mrs. Paris testified that her husband deserted her Aug. 2, 1944, and that he entered the army after that. She was awarded custody of the couple's daughter, Barbara, 18 months.

DEAD WOMAN'S FRIEND TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF

John Kacick, 37, of 1669 Milwaukee av., sought after the death of Mrs. Fritzie Wright, 36, of 2932 N. Francisco av., of an overdose of a sedative, staggered into a physician's office at 3958 Chicago av. last night.

He told Dr. Sidney W. Tauber that he had taken an overdose of the same sedative and wanted to die because the woman was dead. Police removed him to Bridewell hospital. Kacick, also known as Casey, later disclosed he had attempted to slash his wrists several days ago.

Kacick said he and Mrs. Wright planned to marry after she obtained a divorce. She was found unconscious in his gas filled apartment. Kacick said she was despondent because her husband, while he agreed to a divorce, refused to surrender custody of their daughter, Joan, 10.

CHICAGOAN ASKS TO PAY $500,000 TAX ARREARAGE

An unidentified Chicagoan has been dickering with tax authorities in Washington, D. C., to pay to the government approximately $500,000 in tax arrearage, Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., United States commissioner of internal revenue, disclosed yesterday.

Joseph D. Nunan Jr.

Nunan described the Chicagoan as prominent. The settlement, if materialized, would be on a voluntary basis and would exempt the tax delinquent from criminal prosecution, Nunan added.

Nunan described the case as an example of the internal revenue department's nation-wide drive against black market profiteers who sought to evade just tax payments. Already, he said, thousands of tax returns have been amended to bring in 50 million dollars more in taxes. Chicagoans alone corrected their returns to pay 8 to 10 millions of that total.

Nunan came to Chicago to check on the drive on delinquents, to speed refunds, and to engage new tax help.

VETERANS AID THRU GI BILL IS EXPLAINED

A Veterans administration spokesman said yesterday that war veterans desiring to enroll in private trade schools, or who accept employment under apprentice agreements in industry, may obtain financial aid from the administration under the GI bill of rights.

He said, for example, that a veteran getting $160 a month as a toolmaker's apprentice, to qualify for a toolmaker's job paying more, may obtain an additional $50 a month from the administration while in training. If married, he may obtain more. Different jobs and differing wage scales may vary the financial aid.

Aid furnished to veterans under this training program, however, will be deductible from the bonus that may be granted at a future date. Applications should be made thru the Veterans administration.

IT TAKES 4½ MILLION DOLLARS TO GET IN

The richest half of the agricultural counties in the United States are "Gold Counties." To get in this favored list, any county must have at least four and one half million dollars annual cash farm income.

And here is the point. The Gold Counties, although only half the number of total counties, account for 81.4 per cent of the cash farm income received by farmers last year. And here is where FARM JOURNAL has its entire leadership. 81.4 per cent of FARM JOURNAL's 2½ million circulation is in the Gold Counties—half a million more than any other farm magazine.

It is coincidence, of course, to hit it right on the nose like that. But it is no coincidence that the farm families that get the bulk of the income are readers of this alert, timely, edited-from-the-grass-roots farm magazine. Its two and one half million subscribers know what they are doing. And so do the nation's leading advertisers who use its pages as the main road to the richer farm market.

HELD PRISONER

Newcomb looked down at little Mr. Izenga and something like admiration softened his face for a moment. "I'm vulnerable already. It would be better to let me go alone." Toby went down off the stoop and began to inspect windows. "There's always one they've missed," he said. He went on around the house. Two minutes later the kitchen door opened softly from within.

The kitchen was quiet and dark. The blinds were down. In the sink was a heap of dishes. A coffee percolator, two plates with toast crumbs and marmalade smears, two cups and saucers, a cream jug, and some silver. There were a number of cigaret stubs on both plates.

Mr. Izenga pointed to the big refrigerator. It was run by gas! So this was not what was using that electric current.

The blinds were down in all the lower rooms. Newcomb radiated strength and determination. This prowling, wary stuff seemed natural to him.

They finished with the first floor and crept up the carpeted stairs without making a sound. In the upper hall, dark as a cave, they stood listening. For some time they heard nothing. Then there was a sort of thump and a muffled voice. These rooms were solidy built. It took some time to locate the voices.

When they did, Newcomb grasped the knob and turned it quietly. Then he put his mouth down to Mr. Izenga's ear.

"Locked!"

He stooped and looked into the keyhole. The key was in it. He stood up. Mr. Izenga took matters into his own hands then. He suddenly thumped with his fist on the door.

"Open up. Open this door at once!"

His voice was shrill and penetrating. They heard a scuffle inside. Newcomb found the switch and the hall became light. He was looking around frantically for something with which to break down the door. Mr. Izenga repeated his demand.

Then Erica began loudly, "Mr. Izenga tell . . ." the rest of it was lost in a mumble as if a hand was clapped over her mouth.

The sound of her voice drove Newcomb into a frenzy. He snatched up a chair in his right hand, swung it and banged against the door. Two legs snapped off the chair and flew past Mr. Izenga's face.

"Here, watch out, Newcomb," he cried. "No use trying that on doors like this." He pounded harder. "Huntley! Huntley! Are you in there? Open at once. This is Mr. Izenga!"

"Get away and leave us alone," Huntley shouted. "Go on. Scram. Both of you."

Erica must have broken away again. "Open the door! For heaven's sake open the door. Break it down if you have to."

"Huntley, you let us in this instant. How dare you keep me out!" Mr. Izenga raged. "Half the police in the county are outside. We have only to call and . . ."

"In fact, you don't even need to do that," said Lt. Bill French from the stairs.

Mr. Izenga spun about. They had company.

"I rather thought you were holding out on me, Mr. Izenga."

"It wasn't that, lieutenant. I wasn't sure this was worth your official trouble."

French accepted that stuffed olive branch. "Would you mind stepping away from that door?"

"Break it down. Break it down!" Erica was crying.

Very composedly, French stooped, took something from his pocket and fiddled with the keyhole while one of the troopers banged his huge fist on the door to distract attention. In a few seconds there was a little ping as the key fell out on the inside. With one quick twist French turned his own key in the lock. The door flew open.

The troopers drew their guns and stood on either side ready for anything.

Erica sat in a low rocker. She wore a crumpled yellow tailored dress and a long scratch down one cheek.

Huntley leaned against the wall, his hands in his pockets. His eyes were bloodshot and bright with terror. They flicked swiftly from Erica's face to French's, entreating leniency.

Newcomb was standing over Erica, brutal and lowering.

"Erica, if he has hurt you, I'll kill him."

"No, no. He didn't." She let Toby take her in his arms.

"Tell us what happened, Miss Pomeroy," French said.

Two troopers were edging closer to Huntley, their guns still in hand. Erica began to laugh. "O heavens, he's harmless. Don't rub it in!" Her contempt was like a whip.

"Miss Pomeroy, we must know what happened so we can charge Huntley Price properly," French repeated.

"Let him alone. There's no one to accuse him. I certainly won't."

"But we've been hunting you for hours. We find you here, shut in this house, a prisoner," French began angrily.

"I am sorry I made so much trouble," Erica said. "As far as any one knows I walked over here and stayed. I have said nothing to the contrary and I don't intend to."

Huntley took in a breath as if to say something. Mr. Izenga who had slid close to him, whispered fiercely, "Shut up."

French gave one quick jerk of the head. The troopers put back their guns and moved away from Huntley and out of the room.

"Very well, Miss Pomeroy, if that is your story."

French was far from thru with this farce, it was clear.

Then they heard his footsteps follow the troopers' down the stairs.

"O Erica . . . I . . . I don't know how to thank you," Huntley stammered, "I knew . . . for old times' sake . . . you . . . you . . ."

The rest of the words melted in the glance she flung him.

"Don't you ever come near me again, Huntley. Just the sight of you is going to make me violent."

"What happened?" Toby asked.

"I was walking in the garden this morning when Huntley came over. He said Aunt Imogene Galt had a new rose she'd sent home from Seattle. It was in bloom now. Well . . . I was willing to be friendly. So I came over to see it. When we went by the side door, Huntley clapped a hand over my mouth and dragged me into the house."

"The dirty louse."

"O, let him live. I've had enough clap-trap for one day. He said he wanted me to listen to his side. Well, I thought, if he says his say and gets it all out of his system, maybe he'll let me alone."

She gave Huntley's bowed head a bitter pitying glance. "We ate breakfast together here. And then he talked. He said everything he wanted to. He talked for two hours. Then I tried to answer and explain how I felt. But, he didn't want to hear."

Delays Return Home

PARIS, Oct. 15 (AP)—Lack of shipping space has retarded by nearly a month the army's redeployment program to remove from Europe all but occupation and liquidation troops, army headquarters said today. The announcement said that transportation for 221,900 men will have to be provided if the army's goal of only 707,000 to be left in Europe is to be reached by the previously announced date of Jan. 1. Shipping available since the British withdrew some of their vessels from American transport will not permit that goal to be reached before the end of January, the army said.

"You try correcting him! The more I scold him, the funnier he thinks it is."

ROOM FAMINE FOUND FACTOR IN DELINQUENCY

Young Women Declared Exposed to Perils

Chicago's inadequate housing facilities, for permanent or transient guests, rapidly is becoming a chief factor in making delinquents of decent young women who come to the city to work or to be near service men husbands, Mrs. Miette Cummings, director of the metropolitan service department of the Y. W. C. A., declared yesterday.

Her statement followed the disclosure that service men frequently sleep in the streets, in stations, and building lobbies because they are unable to obtain rooms and beds.

Turned Into Streets

"It is a tragic fact that, instead of being helped, girls are being turned out on the streets where they become potential delinquents," Mrs. Cummings said. "Nothing could be more demoralizing than for a young woman to arrive in a strange city and be unable to find a safe haven, and have to sleep in railway or bus stations."

The Y. W. C. A.'s room registry service, 59 E. Monroe st., handles approximately 500 requests for rooms weekly. About 150 of that number are for transient rooms, Mrs. Cummings added. She said the city's hotels, Travelers Aid, and various other groups and agencies have coöperated "magnificently" to ease the housing shortage, but it still is impossible to fill all requests for rooms.

Mother, Baby Sleep in Lobby

Mrs. Cummings cited the case of a young widow of a World War II. soldier who arrived here from a small town to find employment. She slept one night in Union station and another in a Salvation Army shelter before a room could be found.

One young woman with a sick baby was spending the night in a hotel lobby when the Y. W. C. A. heard about her and was able to find a room. The mother of a wounded soldier, en route to California to see her son on his arrival from the Pacific, spent two nights in a railroad station while awaiting transportation thru to the west coast.

Twenty Steinmetz High school organizations, made up of 450 students, yesterday presented a check for $248 to THE TRIBUNE to be turned over to the Chicago service men's center for the purchase of air mattresses and cots.

The students acted yesterday after reading in THE TRIBUNE that service men frequently are unable to find beds. They expect to be able to purchase 16 mattresses and two camp cots.

$196,700 RULING FOR E. J. O'HARE ESTATE UPHELD

The decision of Judge Julius H. Miner in the Circuit court last December denying a claim of George Remus, former Ohio bootlegger, for $196,700 against the estate of Edward J. O'Hare, race track owner, was upheld by the Appellate court in an opinion written by Justice Grover C. Niemeyer yesterday.

The claim was based on an alleged promissory note which Remus said O'Hare gave him in 1923 for 891 barrels of whisky. The Appellate court held that Judge Miner was correct in holding that Remus had not proved his case.

O'Hare was ambushed in his automobile on the west side in November, 1939, and shot to death by several gunmen. O'Hare was an official of Sportsman's Park race track. The estate of Edward O'Hare, his son and a navy hero who was killed in action in the Pacific in November, 1943, will benefit to the extent of one-third of the sum involved in the decision.

3 EDUCATORS GO TO GARY TO OPEN FROEBEL SURVEY

Three educators, two from Northwestern university and one from Ohio State university, arrived in Gary yesterday to begin a survey of conditions existing in Froebel High school, where several hundred white students recently went on a two week strike. The student body is both white and Negro.

The three educators who will conduct the survey are Dr. J. M. Hughes, dean of the school of education at Northwestern; Prof. Eugene F. Lawler of Northwestern, and Dr. Earl W. Anderson, professor of education at Ohio State.

They were requested to come to Gary to study the conditions by a group of civic organizations, parents of students, and the Gary board of education. They will be asked to determine whether Richard A. Musum, now on a two weeks leave of absence, should be retained as principal of the high school.

OK DISTRIBUTION IN FREE GARBAGE CAN EXPERIMENT

The city council finance committee, headed by Ald. Bowler [25th], yesterday authorized Lloyd M. Johnson, superintendent of streets and electricity, to proceed with the distribution of 30,000 garbage cans purchased by the city at a cost of $113,000. The cans will be distributed free thruout the area bounded by Pershing rd., Halsted st., Division st., and Lake Michigan in a municipal experiment to improve garbage collection.

Con Game Suspect Found to Be AWOL Soldier

Clarence Allard, 35, of 1646 Superior st., alleged to have cashed two bogus checks for $28 and $44.75, was turned over to military police in Felony court yesterday when Allard, appearing on charges of operating a confidence game, was disclosed to be an AWOL soldier.

PACIFIC VETERAN RETURNING HOME KILLED BY TRAIN

Pvt. 1st Class Lloyd D. Kellar of Luthersburg, Pa., en route home for discharge after service in the South Pacific, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a train under the viaduct at 15th and Laflin sts.

Military police who investigated the accident said Kellar, aboard a Pere Marquette troop train en route from Fort Lawton, Wash., to a separation center at Indiantown Gap, Pa., stepped off the train when it stopped to change engines. He was struck by another train traveling on an adjoining track.

He was pronounced dead by Lt. Col. H. M. Covell, medical officer aboard the train. The body was removed to the Gardiner General hospital where an inquest will be held at 10 a. m. today.

$5,500 IN HAND FOR REMOVAL OF PASTEUR STATUE

Work on moving the 276 ton Louis Pasteur statue from the west lawn of the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum to Convalescent park fronting County hospital may be started within two weeks, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer, president of the Pasteur Memorial association.

Approximately $5,500 has been subscribed to date toward a $25,000 fund needed for the removal, Dr. Kretschmer said after a meeting of a fund raising committee in the Chicago club. As soon as $15,000 is obtained by solicitation among physicians, dentists, and six categories of industries which profited from Pasteur's discoveries, a contract for the monument's relocation will be let, he stated.

In its new location, the statue will mark the entrance to the gateway of the 305 acre west side medical center district bordered by Ashland and Oakley blvds. and by Congress st. and Roosevelt rd.

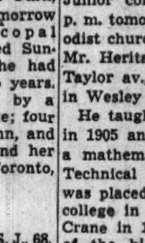
NOTRE DAME GETS GIFT OF $1,000,000; UNIVERSITY'S LARGEST

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—The University of Notre Dame has received a gift of one million dollars from Peter C. Reilly of Indianapolis, the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president, announced today.



Peter C. Reilly

Father O'Donnell said the gift was the largest in the history of the university. It will be known as the P. C. Reilly science fund. Its income will be used in the field of chemistry and chemical engineering.

Reilly has been a member of Notre Dame's board of lay trustees since 1934. He is head of a tar and chemical corporation.

INVESTIGATE DDT LABELS, HEALTH OFFICERS ADVISE

Buyers of DDT disinfectant should examine the labels to see what they are getting, officers of the United States Public Health service said yesterday at a meeting at 610 Canal st.

L. M. Fisher, health service engineer, said much of the DDT being sold contains so little of the insecticide that its killing powers are minor. Some commercial packages have been found to contain as little as 1 per cent of DDT, he asserted. Fisher said the labels should state the percentage contained, along with full instructions.

Meanwhile, Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of city streets and electricity, disclosed he has begun a survey to determine the use of the chemical on city operated dumps.

STATE TO SEEK MURDER CHARGE IN HOTEL KILLING

Assistant State's Atty. Richard Austin will ask the grand jury today to return a murder indictment against Donald Jay Cook, 16, former Senn High school pupil, who killed Morton Stein, 16, in their room in the Stevens hotel May 11 in a quarrel over the division of the loot from several burglaries.

Varied Events of Interest Fill Fall Calendar

BY JUDITH CASS

With each arrival of the mailman bringing additional announcements of coming events of interest to Chicagoans, hardly a day remains on the fall calendar that does not promise diversion. Members of the Chicago Historical society have received cards to a tea Sunday in the society's building to meet the new director, Paul M. Angle, and to preview an exhibition of court gowns worn by Chicago women to the Court of St. James's.

Guests will be welcomed between 4 and 6 p. m. by Joseph M. Cudahy, president of the society, and Mrs. Cudahy, and trustees of the society, whose wives will pour at tea. Among the handsome costumes on view will be a lavender velvet and chiffon gown worn to Buckingham palace by Mrs. Potter Palmer Sr.; Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick's court gown of gold brocade and blue tulle, lavishly embroidered in gold thread, pearls, and tiny gold beads, and the pearl crown and gown of iridescent sequins in which Mrs. John Crerar's daughter, the late Catherine Hatton Crerar, was presented at court in 1926. Another of the costumes, made in Delhi, India, and given by Mrs. Edward A. Leight, is a copy of a silvery rose gown embroidered in silver braid and rhinestones, which was worn at the durbar at which George V. was crowned emperor of India.

The 56th annual American exhibition of oil paintings at the Art institute of Chicago will open with a preview from 3 to 6 p. m. Oct. 24 for members and their guests. There will be music, and guests will have a chance to meet some of the exhibiting artists. Among the paintings will be Ivan Le Lorraine Albright's picture of Dorian Gray, commissioned for the movie of that name. The exhibit will be open to the public on Oct. 25.

Other Coming Events

The nearly 400 guests expected at a benefit tea, which the Junior group of the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare will sponsor Oct. 22 in the home of Mrs. Philip A. Watson will give Santa Claus a large boost by each bringing a new or used toy to be sold in the local Thrift shop, whose proceeds are shared by Infant Welfare. Invitations are being sent out to the 275 members of the Junior group as well as of the Senior group and the Infant Welfare Wings, which will collaborate on the party. Each member will be permitted to bring one guest. Mrs. Royal Place, who is in charge of Thrift shop activities for the Junior group, is general chairman of the benefit, which is called a "Tea for Toys."

The annual doll sale of the Evanston Senior auxiliary of the Cradle society will be held at 10 a. m. Nov. 15 in the Cradle. An added attraction at this year's event will be a gift table loaded with handmade baby things of which the Evanston junior auxiliary will be in charge. Mrs. Charles Wrigley heads the senior group and Mrs. Stanhope Adams the junior. Mrs. Harry A. Swigert and Mrs. David T. Adams head the doll sale, and Mrs. Carl Weidman is in charge of the gift table.

To celebrate the war's end and the return of so many husbands and brothers who were in service, the Kenilworth center of the Infant Welfare society will give a large cocktail party in the Saddle and Cycle club at 5:30 p. m. Nov. 9. The young women who have been center members less than a year will be in charge of the event. There will be music for singing and dancing, and a "mystery contest for men," the nature of which will not be revealed until the afternoon of the party. Mrs. Willard D. Cunningham is chairman of the gathering.

Circle 13 of the Oak Park Infant Welfare society is making plans for a Victory cocktail party from 5 to 8 p. m. Dec. 27 in the Electric club.

Wedding News

Lt. Janet Baisely Hole of the WAC, on leave from the Memphis army service forces depot in Memphis, Tenn., and Maj. Richard Charles Wells of the army, who has just returned from the European theater, will be married Thursday in Winnetka. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hole of Winnetka. Maj. Wells is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernard Wells of Baltimore, Md.

The ceremony will take place at 4:30 p. m. in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Becker, old friends of the Hole family. Miss Mardean Hole will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mary Swandale Allen of Kenilworth will be flower girl. Dr. John Wells of Baltimore, who will be here with his wife and mother, will serve as his brother's best man. Lt. Hole attended Connecticut college and Northwestern university's music school. Maj. Wells attended Johns Hopkins university. Both expect to be released from service soon.

When Miss Jean McLelland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David P. McLelland of Evanston, leaves Saturday for Miami, Fla., she will be en route to her new home in Brazil. Shortly after her arrival in Belem, Para, Brazil, she and Norman Sands, who is British consul in Belem, will be married there early next month. Mr. Sands and his bride will live in Bahia, Brazil, to which post he is being trans-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Sales Force

Jan Bark relays the incident of super-salesmanship in a State st. department store. It concerns a clerk who has made a career of selling hats with fervor sufficient to overcome any resistance. The other day, however, she drew a reluctant customer. One hat after another was brought out—not one was satisfactory. Yet the salesgirl's surging enthusiasm for each model was still wholehearted. The last hat she perched on the lady customer's head—now what was the matter with this one?—such charm—such smartness—such . . ." The customer interrupted the flow of words. "That," she said, "is my own hat!"

Personal to Personnel

What has become of the "in migrants," so carefully guarded and "processed?" Have they "out migrated?" The porter, metamorphosed into a "locally needed" trolley pilot; the dishwasher changed overnight to an "essential" machinist? "Referrals"—what of them?

Have "ceilings" collapsed, perhaps? The "30 hour" lads and lassies who worked 30 hours a week in two or three different places—now that the war is over, are they back to holding one job again? Ah me, those were the days when personnel managers and their staffs were streaming into the asylums and rest homes. It's over, now, but it was fun, wasn't it? SIR BUNNY

POOR RICHARD

If You're Going to Teach

"Five to ten million dollars is waiting around in the pockets of men who wish to invest in educational films. Motion pictures will become an integral part of every modern school system. . . . It follows there will be a need for teachers who know how to combine the use of motion pictures with the usual methods of teaching. Courses such as geography, science, art, civics, and history are particularly adapted to visual education. Subjects taught by film will offer all students in every part of the country a fairly uniform type of education."—From "Twenty Careers of Tomorrow."

Public Is Facing New Shortage in Choice Beef

BY BEN MARKLAND

Housewives who have been buying quality grades of beef roasts and steaks will find fewer choice cuts in their markets for the next few months, even tho the government's recent demands on packers for meat for overseas shipment do not include the good and choice cuts.

There are several reasons for the approaching shortage, aside from the government's set aside order which will route 500 to 600 million pounds of lower grade beef, veal, and mutton to foreign countries in the next 75 days. Among the reasons are farmers' and ranchers' income tax problems, the early midwestern frosts, and the heavy demands for frate car space from range states.

Officials of a Chicago packing house said yesterday that many retail markets which in normal times handle lower quality beef—commercial and utility grades—are unable to buy these grades now, and are buying larger amounts of choice and good cuts. This new demand reduces the amount of choice beef available for markets which usually handle only the better grades.

In normal years, 20 to 25 per cent of the beef handled by Chicago packers during September, October, November, and December is commercial and utility grade, mainly feeder animals shipped direct from western range states. One local packing house said that these range animals are not coming into market in their usual numbers this fall. There are three possible reasons for this shortage of lower quality carcasses, major one being the early frost in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa. Farmers in these three states who normally do not buy feeder stock have soft corn on hand because of the frosts, and are buying grass-fed steers to consume the unstorable corn, thereby saving feeders from immediate slaughter.

A packing house official said that farmers who have made unusually high profits during the first nine months of this year hesitate to add to their 1945 income if additional sales would put them in a higher income tax bracket. The shortage of frate car space from western states to Chicago also may be reducing shipments of feeders.

Of the reduced number of commercial and utility grade carcasses coming to market, 40 per cent of the beef and 40 per cent of the veal are being set aside as a result of governmental requistions for overseas shipment. Half of the lowest grade beef, usually processed into sausages, sandwich spreads, and tinned meat, is being set aside for the government and 20 per cent of all grades of mutton is being requisitioned.

Cadet Nurse Corps Closes Admissions; 179,000 on Its Rolls

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Today marked the beginning of the end for the United States cadet nurse corps, the organization which Surgeon Gen. Thomas Parran said "supplied nurse power to the military and prevented the collapse of nursing on the home front."

After this date, new admissions no longer will be made to the corps which enrolled 179,000 young women in the last two years. Thousands of these now have been graduated, and the present corps strength is 110,000.

Closing of admissions was set by the United States public health service to permit what President Truman designated as "an orderly termination of an important war time health activity." Cadets now in training or admitted today will complete their courses within the next two or three years.

Child Should Have Variety of Experiences in Daily Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Some years ago, when the so-called modern approach to child-rearing was in full swing and influencing many mothers, I knew a few parents who swallowed the theory "hook, line, and sinker."

One mother of my acquaintance in particular went in 100 per cent for the impersonal, detached, untouchable method, with unbreakable schedules. She had two tiny children and no one could pick them up. They were kept aloof in their nursery and they didn't see anyone or go anywhere, because "children needed calmness and quiet," also because of contamination and infections.

Now it so happened that a few times their schedules did, thru accidents, get broken, and each time the children were upset by the slight deviation. Also there were so few occasions when they were allowed among people or to take a journey, that each time the event was so unusual it had an abnormally exciting effect on the children.

Their lives were too monotonous, with the result that they were too easily thrown off balance by any irregularity. Also this day-by-day sameness provided little color and scant experience to feed their imaginations and play impulses.

Even babies around their first birthday occasionally need variety of sights and sounds. A trip to a big market where cans, jars, and other interesting objects are stacked at a child's eye level; a pause at the railroad station while the great locomotive puffs to a stop; a guided tho somewhat lurching walk along an unaccustomed street, and other small incidents, provide a mild variety and gentle excitement which children enjoy, and which often is followed by a deep easy sleep due to healthful tiredness.

Altho quiet and serenity should mark the tenor of little children's lives, monotony is not necessarily implied. In fact, even those little children, so young that they are only just leaving babyhood behind them, need color and variety in their day by day living.

Martinelli Talks to Italy and the Melchiors Report on Flying Trip to Denmark

The wheel of chance still turns on recovery of European property, and no one can predict in advance what will happen. Perhaps you remember an earlier story in which Raisa and Rimini discovered that their villa at Verona had been hopelessly looted, while the Trapp family's place at Salzburg had been extensively improved as the headquarters of Himmler. More recent luck was on Giovanni Martinelli's side when at least he was able to talk by telephone to his wife and daughter, Giovanna, in Italy. A mere five minutes, but it told him they are well and that his home is intact. Two mattresses had been taken, and inexplicably returned.

But the Melchiors, the picturesque Lauritz and Kleinchen, recently flew back from celebrating the Danish king's birthday, and they say, philosophically, "We guess we lost everything, as it is unfortunately in the Russian zone."

Probably you know that when in Chicago the Melchiors are invariably the guests of Frederic Chramer, and you may enjoy reading over his shoulder a part of Kleinchen's letter about reciprocation during that rush overseas and back in time for Melchior's San Francisco engagements at the opera. It says in part: "I write on the plane so please excuse. The trip was glorious so far as triumphs are concerned, horrible so far what we saw. Berlin is more ruined than a human can picture. Lauritz sang for the troops.

"Your mother [Fru Clara Chramer] looks just marvelous. On the king's birthday the biggest affair was the gala performance [where Melchior sang] but impossible to get tickets as only 200 bad seats were for the public, the rest of house invited by king, so I gave my seat to your mother. You should have seen your mother. She had the best seat in the house in the first orchestra row in the middle behind the conductor, surrounded by Denmark's greatest. She looked so elegant. At the end the house was photographed and I ordered a picture for you so you see her. Then I sent her ticket for Lauritz' big evening, the primiere of 'Thrill of a Romance.' This was a charity affair cashed over 10,000 kronen [Melchior gave the proceeds to the Danish needy]. Your mother had also there a place of honor."

Notes

That picturesque gentleman with the long hair who has been shouting "Bravo!" at some of our opera singers these nights is Creatore, once the celebrated bandmaster, more recently a vocal teacher. . . . Michelette Burani, of "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," is expecting her son back from duty in the Pacific. He is Lt. Jean Barrère, whose father was the late George Barrère, well known flutist and conductor. . . . Brock Pemberton is trying to cast two more "Harveys." . . . Hazel Scott plays in Orchestra hall the afternoon of Nov. 11, with the trio including the clarinetist, Eugene Sedric. . . . Marian Anderson will include a group of Hugo Wolf songs in her Oct. 28 recital. . . . When the Theater Guild puts "Sing Out, Sweet Land" on the air Sunday night, Burl Ives will have Josh White as co-feature. White is the Negro guitarist who appeared last winter with Libby Holman.

Lilting Lingerie Sings Heavenly Blue Rhapsody

BY REA SEEGER

This seems to be old home week for furthering the prewar flavor of drama and romance in such strictly feminine loot as lingerie. A clever designer, very much under the spell of the teasing titles of the late George Gershwin harmonies, launches an entire collection called "Rahpsody in Blue."

Of course, every piece is of heaven blue satin, net and lace, with the single exception of a bra and panty set of flesh colored satin to slide under the filmy blue net negligee, so aptly named "Plenty of Nothing."

This illustrates what the collection is . . . for each creation is named after a Gershwin song title. The "Somebody Loves Me, I Wonder Who" nightgown and chemise are of blue satin with appliqued hearts, each surrounded by a question mark. In the "Cuban Overture" set appliqued pineapples decorate gown, petticoat, and matching slip.

A most beguiling set of slip and nightgown is called "An American in Paris." On it are embroidered the Eiffel tower and the famous shop windows of Paris.

It was appropriate to name a gown, slip, and bed jacket set "Embraceable You," because the lace bands are inset in long curved bands that mold each piece of lingerie to the body. These are of the same blue satin, inset with ivory lace.

Last comes the trio of slip, gown, and chemise, made of satin and chiffon in a celestial blue shade, inspired by "Concerto in F." Giant grace and quarter notes and clefs in oyster white are appliqued against the blue. All this is sheer whimsey, exquisitely hand stitched on the loveliest of satin and chiffon and net, but we warn you, such whimsey comes with anything but ephemeral prices.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 15—You can trust Judy Garland to do the right thing by a fellow actress; therefore she's gone blonde to play Marilyn Miller in "Till the Clouds Roll By." . . . Joan Crawford's next is for Jerry Wald at Warners, and likely as not will be "One Man's Secret." . . . If Jean Arthur doesn't play "Anna and the King of Siam" it will be because Garson Kanin won't let her off the book. She signed for his new play before she got the bid to do Anna. . . . Paramount's pictures—"Kitty," for example—are held for ages before release, but not Hal Wallis'. Wallis has a clause in his contract which demands his pictures be released 90 days after they're finished and previewed. Hal still has a percentage coming up on "Saratoga Trunk" and "Night and Day" at Warners. . . . Jack Kirkwood's newest western ditty is "Take It Easy with the Razor, Mother, We Know You're a Cut-up." . . . Slim Aarons, one of the editors of Yank magazine, is being tested by Irving Pichel for "Up Front With Mauldin." . . . Carole Landis gave a party recently at which men outnumbered women four to one. One of her guests rang up to ask if he could bring his date along. His hostess replied, "Sorry, haven't room." She wasn't foolin'.

Belles of St. Murray Ring Out Again

Ken Murray, since his divorce, may never want to hear the tinkle of wedding bells again, but he's certainly taking an interest in pretty blonde Jacqueline White, who'll play Mrs. Jerome Kern in "Till the Clouds Roll By." . . . Part of the Metro deal for Frank Sinatra's services was letting RKO [where he had a commitment] have Laraine Day for one picture a year for four years. . . . Bonita Granville used to sing with Abe Lyman's band—he wants her back. . . . Letters are pouring in backing up my suggestion—let's do something for George Murphy. One from Molten, Ia., ended with "My husband is an Irishman whose counterpart I think Murphy is. You'd be surprised to know what these Irishmen are capable of." Another one wrote, "In 'For Me and My Gal' George gave a performance few actors could equal, so here's hoping he gets the breaks he deserves. I'll be looking forward to seeing him as a star in his own right—and soon I hope." . . . Notice how Mitch Leisen does so many things Cecil de Mille used to do? Mitch has taken his yacht Escapade out of drydock and he'll sponsor filmland's yacht races to Catalina Island come spring. . . . Albert Mannheim phoned to say he, too, was one of the authors of "Birds and the Bees." Picture will be made by Joe Pasternak with Elizabeth Taylor, Margaret O'Brien, and Jane Powell.

Happy Days

Jack Carson Jr., aged 4, spent his birthday last Sunday with all the kids in the neighborhood and all four grandparents. . . . Cedric Hardwicke buttonholed by a bore the other night. As he walked away he was asked why he lingered, "O, this was really worth while. We reached a definite misunderstanding—which I hope lasts forever." . . . Last week Ed Gardner turned to "Miss Duffy" [Sandra Berns] and said, "You've only signed with me for five years, haven't you? Let's make it 10." . . . "The cheapest binge in town," says Bob Christenberry of the Astor, "is to sit thru 'Duffy's Tavern' four times." . . . Thomas Gomez is a possibility for Enrico Caruso. Tommie's crazy about Caruso's records—who isn't? He doesn't look unlike the famous tenor. But there was a guy in "Winged Victory" who doesn't sing unlike Caruso. . . . Just as the Universal gates were clamped down by the strikers, William Ching, former lieutenant in the coast guard, was signed to assist Maria Montez either into "Tangiers" or out of it. He's a blond giant. . . . Metro has two stories they're getting ready for Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. One is a best seller with music. And the other is "Reunion in Vienna." But I don't suppose they'll get around to either before the end of next year. . . . Bill Gargan's going into "The Dark Corner" with Ida Lupino.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 spade	3 clubs	3 hearts
5 clubs	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead, 10 of hearts.

Maneuvers commonly known as "end plays" derive their name from the circumstance that they occur almost invariably near the end of the hand at which point a defender finds himself in a helpless position. Such an expression as "early end play" which on the surface would appear to be a contradiction in terms, is really not so, because by common usage a player is said to be "end played" when he finds it impossible to lead without sacrificing a trick. Such a condition may actually exist at the opening lead, as would be the case, for example, where the opening leader held all four kings and declarer held the major tenaces in every suit. In today's hand we have the phenomenon of West being "end played" as early as trick four and as tho that were not sufficient of a workout he finds himself in the grip of another squeeze and end play later in the deal.

West's over-call of one spade was somewhat irregular. I suppose he had in mind to compete once more with two diamonds should the adverse bidding cease at something like two clubs. North's jump to three clubs is a little short of the textbook high card requirements, but there was no other satisfactory call open to him. If partner has spades stopped North wished to induce him to try for three no trump with six club tricks apparently to be run. The other bids were more or less normal.

West opened the 10 of hearts and prospects were not bright for declarer with four losers in sight. At least one of these losers could be avoided by forcing West into making a favorable lead. In order to accomplish this, declarer won the first trick and immediately ruffed the remaining heart. He entered dummy with the ace of clubs and led the four of spades, playing the nine from his own hand. West won with the jack and at trick four was end played. There was no lead he could make without sacrificing a trick. He chose to lead a diamond in the hope that partner had the queen. This trick declarer took with the 10. He then ran down all the remaining trumps, retaining in dummy two spades and a diamond and in his own hand the lone king of spades and the ace-queen of diamonds, West holding two spades and two diamonds found himself in an impossible position. If he disposed of the queen of spades a spade lead would throw him in and compel a lead into the diamonds. If he let go the jack of diamonds, declarer's ace-queen would both be high.

Dietetic Convention Group to Be Guests at Reception Tonight

Following a two day conference of executive board members, the house of delegates of the American Dietetic association will attend a reception this evening in headquarters at 620 N. Michigan av. Representatives from member associations in the 48 states are gathered here for a meeting today and tomorrow which substitutes for the annual national convention. The house of delegates is the legislative body of the association.

Guest speaker at the reception will be Miss Frances MacKinnon of the United States children's bureau of the department of labor, who has just returned after a year in Lima, Peru, where she was sent at the Peruvian government's request to advise in nutrition problems.

Tomorrow night the delegates will have as a dinner speaker Dr. Charles Davidson of Boston, Mass., who was a member of the nutrition team sent by the surgeon general of the United States to study conditions in Austria and Bavaria.

Host groups for the reception tonight are the Illinois and the Chicago Dietetic association. The national organization is headed by Miss Maniza Moore of the Vanderbilt university hospital in Nashville, Tenn. Miss Moore has conducted the board session and will preside thruout the house of delegates' meeting.

Yellow cheddar cheese, aged or processed, is the basis of the genuine cheese rabbit, but addicts have found that varieties such as Swiss, Edam, and even cottage cheese may be used. The variety selected depends upon the intensity of flavor desired and the food with which it will be served.

Aged cheddar and processed cheese are the favorites of many because of their easy melting qualities, but a smooth sauce can be obtained with other varieties if a few precautions are taken. High temperatures and long cooking toughen the protein in cheese.

Avoid this by melting the cheese in a double boiler, first cutting it into small pieces to shorten the cooking time. As an added precaution against curdling and stringing, a white sauce base is preferred by some cooks.

Cheese Rabbit with White Sauce Base
[Serves four]
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
Cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Few drops Worcestershire sauce.
½ pound cheese, grated or cut fine

Melt butter in top of double boiler, add flour, and blend. Add milk and cook until smooth. Add salt, a speck of cayenne, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Add cheese and stir until melted. Serve immediately over toast as the sauce stiffens quickly. Broiled tomatoes, strips of crisp bacon, or sprigs of parsley, are good garnishes. If desired, chopped ripe olives or sliced, stuffed green olives may be added to the sauce.

If you want to add a sharp accent to the rabbit, spread the toast with anchovy paste, sardine paste, or smoked oyster spread. Here are several other variations for the same recipe:

Old English Beer Rabbit: Use a sharp processed cheese and substitute beer for milk.

Liederkranz Onion Rabbit: Use liederkranz cheese. After it has been blended remove from heat and add two well beaten eggs. Return to heat and cook until thickened, about two minutes more. Arrange sauted onion slices on toast and pour rabbit over all.

Creole Rabbit: Use tomato juice for liquid and add chopped onion and green pepper which have been browned in fat.

Mexican Rabbit: Omit mustard and Worcestershire sauce and add a half teaspoon of chili powder, one egg, and a half cup chopped green pepper which has been browned in fat.

Cheese Rabbit in Baked Potato: Scoop out inside of a baked potato, mash, and season with salt and pepper. Refill the potato shell and make a border at the top edge with the mashed potato. Pour a generous serving of cheese rabbit over the center of the potato and brown in oven just before serving.

Cheese-Mushroom Soup Rabbit
[Serves four]
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon catchup
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Heat milk and soup in upper part of a double boiler. Add remaining ingredients and heat until cheese has melted. Stir occasionally to blend. Serve immediately on toast triangle.

Cottage Cheese Rabbit
[Serves six]
2 cups canned tomatoes, sieved
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon grated onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup cottage cheese

Heat tomatoes with salt and pepper. Cook onion in butter for one minute and stir in flour. Add tomatoes and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cottage cheese and heat thru, keeping flame low. Pour over toast and serve with bacon and parsley as garnish.

PTA Rummage Sale

The Parent-Teacher association will hold a benefit rummage sale from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. today in the Gary school, 3000 S. Ridgeway av. Mrs. J. H. Bartels and Mrs. Myron Keel head the management committee.

Winter Modes

Two flattering blouses which may be cut from one pattern add interest to fall and winter suits. Style No. 3002 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material to make the blouse with three-quarter length sleeves. The long sleeved blouse requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material. This practical pattern, Style No. 2837, may be used to cut a flattering skirt from a pair of men's trousers. The pattern is available in waist sizes 24 to 32.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 8 cents for mailing. The fall and winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Plum Dumplings
[Serves six]
1 cup mashed potatoes
1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
12 plums
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup vanilla wafer crumbs
¼ cup butter, melted

Cut potatoes into sifted flour and salt with a pastry blender or two knives; add egg and mix well. Roll dough ¼ inch thick and cut into 12 3-inch squares. Remove pits from plums and place a plum in center of each square and pinch edges together. Roll in hand and form balls, covering fruit well. Drop into boiling water, cover pan tightly, and cook 10 minutes after boiling point is reached. Do not remove cover while cooking. Drain; arrange in serving dish and sprinkle with sugar and crumbs, and pour butter over all. Serve warm.

Give Clothes Shower for Returned GI

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Now that a point system determines not only what meat you'll have for dinner, but whether or not your favorite GI will be back in civies soon again, many of your long lost Oliver Drabs and Little Boy Blues will be coming home again. And these young characters who have spent the last months or years in khaki or bell bottom trousers will be a little short on the clothes line. So if you'd like to rate No. 1 on their hit parade, turn that welcome home party you're throwing into a "civilian shower."

on the SOLID side

To start the evening off in the right spirit, make your invitations in the form of "leave papers," granting each guest a "four hour pass" to come to the party. If you want to go all the way, inspect their "papers" as they arrive, vesting your authority in a blue MP or SP armband.

The refreshments will, of course, be "mess" and you'll eat in the "mess hall." Serving a buffet lunch, a pick-up-your-knives-and-forks, line-forms-to-the-right routine gives it that military touch. The food should be strictly GI, too — baked beans, ham [have your friends pool their red points for the party], brown bread, and coffee.

But the biggest part of the evening comes when the fellow receives his "decorations." Make the gifts small items of clothing, or pool your resources for one or two more expensive presents if you prefer. Plaid socks, bright ties, and hankies make ideal individual gifts, and a sweater or sport coat will fill the bill beautifully for larger presents. [And just think how beautifully Bill will fill them!] And when the party is over the fellow who came as just another GI will leave as a happy, well dressed civilian.

Crocheted Cap

BY ELLEN BRUCE

A crocheted helmet or cap is an ideal gift to make for the boys on your Christmas list who range from 3 to 10 years of age. The strap fits snugly under the chin, and the ears are well protected. The stitches are easy to execute. The cap may be tasseled or untrimmed.

For instructions in crocheting the boy's cap, No. E-1266, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's amazing, but even the most fastidious woman is apt to ask a friend to let her use a powder puff or a comb when she finds she's forgotten her own. It's definitely a dangerous practice, as unhygienic really as borrowing some one's toothbrush, and if you're inclined to be a borrower now and then remember that you're courting skin or scalp infections every time you do.

School girls and business women, especially, are likely to be offenders in this respect and we'd like to give them a little word of warning. No matter how stranded you are, manage to get along without asking to use your neighbor's grooming tools. You may wind up with a skin or a scalp infection, and it's foolish to run the risk. Besides, the idea of lending her comb or puff may be distasteful to the other person and putting her in an embarrassing situation won't increase your popularity.

If you have left a comb or a powder puff on the dresser at home or forgotten to switch them from one purse to another, contrive to get along without them until you can pick up the needed items. A piece of cleansing tissue or a clean hanky will suffice for applying powder and you can always manage to pat the hair into place with the hands. Unsatisfactory as this may be, the makeshift is far safer than any borrowed tool.

It's common sense, too, if you're forgetful, to keep a little box containing these items in a locker or desk drawer to fall back on when necessary.

And if you're asked to lend your personal effects, feel no compunction at refusing. Even your best friend can't feel offended because you prefer to play safe.

Swank Manila Club Made Into Service Center

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 16—A club which is believed to be the world's largest Red Cross recreation center will have its formal opening tomorrow in what once was the Jai Alai club, Manila's swankiest night spot.

The four story concrete building on Taft av., wrecked by Japanese demolition and American artillery, has been under repair since last May. The cost of putting it in usable condition is estimated at half a million dollars. The rent for the building is paid by the army, which allocated the structure for Red Cross use.

Miss Esther Haskins, MacKenney, Va., club director, will be aided by a staff of 26 other American Red Cross girls, a Red Cross man, and 400 Filipino employes who will be used in clerical work, barber shops, check rooms, coffee room, kitchen, and other places.

Three of the four floors of the center, known as the Roosevelt club, will be opened tomorrow, and the other floor and the roof are expected to be ready for use by Nov. 10.

The facilities include a coffee shop, where 10,000 soldiers now drink daily 600 gallons of coffee and 600 gallons of cold drinks and eat 17,000 cookies, 17,000 doughnuts, and 17,000 sandwiches. Among other features are showers, library, games room, card room, sun decks, craft shop, photo dark room, music room, broadcasting studio, writing rooms, barber shop, shoeshine parlor, valet, manicurist, and a kitchen where homesick GIs can don an apron and whip up a little fudge or taffy.

There will be movies five nights a week, dances, court games such as basketball and tennis, and other sports on the huge unroofed jai alai court in the center of the building.

The fourth floor will have a no man's land where weary WACs or nurses may rest, take a shower, or sun bathe in an exclusive feminine world.

It is also planned to provide a place where weddings may be held. Quite a number of officers and men plan to marry WACs, nurses, and, in fewer instances, Spanish or Filipino girls.

Plans call for a charge to the military guests of only a nominal fee for meals or personal services.

In addition to the main club building, a former monastery behind the Roosevelt club will soon be opened as a dormitory where over night billets may be provided for 800 to 1,000 men.

Among Red Cross girls on the staff are Edith Struthers, Marshall, Minn.; Betty Mason Stillians, Des Moines, Ia.; Lucille Stevens, McCausland, Ia.; Pauleta McLaughlin, Guysville, O., and Mary Helen Simpson, Elyria, O.

The area supervisor, under whose direction the club was rebuilt, is Luther G. Hester, who lived at 1205 Judson st., Evanston, Ill. Before the war he was superintendent of the Morton Grove school system.

Pvt. Arthur W. Bogard, 4804 N. Linder av., Chicago., has been helping to install the communications system in the club.

Soldiers line up outside the coffee room before the club opens at 9 a. m. and keep it crowded until 10:30 p. m.

Pvt. Elmer Mullins, an artillery man, today found a penciled notice on the club bulletin board. "You are on orders to go home," it said. "Report back to Clark field."

That's really service.

WACs Starting Home, GIs Take Over Their Jobs

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

MANILA, Oct. 15—The situation early in the war when women were trained to release men for combat is now reversed in the Pacific where low point GIs are being trained to relieve high point WACs who are due to go home.

There are still approximately 4,000 WACs in the west and southwest Pacific, many in essential jobs thruout the army establishment, and about 1,000 have been returned to the United States for discharge since the beginning of the redeployment program last July. An additional 700 have homeward orders and are awaiting transportation from the Philippines.

The present discharge point score for WACs is 34 for enlisted women and 39 for officers. Further point reductions are expected and WAC officers here believe that the last WAC will be homeward bound sometime in April.

The first WAC in this theater landed in Australia in April, 1944. Since then they have trekked northward behind the fighting men and some are now in Tokyo.

WACs have lived and worked on Pacific islands under the same rough conditions as their male fellow soldiers—except for combat—and the complexions of the high point girls show the same effects of the tropical sun and the constant taking of atabrine pills to prevent malaria.

There are sun wrinkles around their eyes and their legs are yellow as sulphur from atabrine. They are used to living in tents without floors and bathing out of helmets. Sometimes their tents leak in tropical rains—one lieutenant woke up here one morning to find she hadn't a stitch of dry clothes—but they still manage to look pretty and reasonably fresh in the world's toughest climate for women.

Where a large rear echelon base comes into being, as, for instance in Manila, the WACs look pretty good for then they have their own beauty parlors with experienced WAC operators.

A few WACs like the tropics, as do some of the men, and are looking for jobs, but the majority—like the male GIs—just want to go home—now.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Ed H., Chicago—I have found the custom of coating brass pieces with a film of paraffin an excellent insurance against tarnish. First I polish them, then dip them in hot water, dry, and apply a cloth which I have saturated in hot paraffin. A thin but thoro coat will keep brass from tarnishing for six or eight months.

Emma N., Ludington, Mich.—I had some embroidered pillow cases which were worn thru the center. I cut off 12 inches, opened them, and hemmed them. Shall use them this winter as radiator covers in my bedrooms.

Declares Education Lacks Objective in Citizenship Training

American education lacks objective in its training of children for responsible citizenship, the Rev. Dr. Carroll E. Simcox, Episcopal student chaplain at the University of Wisconsin, told the fifth annual religious conference last night at the National College of Education in Evanston.

"Any community gets what it deserves from its child development program, as the communities of Athens and Sparta demonstrated," Dr. Simcox asserted. "Each of these city-states had a definite objective in its educational program which attained a desired end. In lacking this sense of definite direction our education is open to criticism."

Dr. E. T. McSwain, professor of education at Northwestern university, was chairman of the program.

ALL-AMERICA TEAM LEASES EBBETS FIELD

New York Club Gets 12-Year Contract

New York, Oct. 15 [Special]—The New York team of the All-America Football conference will play its home games at Ebbets field in Brooklyn, it was announced by executives of the organization at the weekly meeting of the Touchdown club today.

Gerald K. Smith, who is president of the team, said a 12 year lease has been signed with the management of the Brooklyn Dodgers' baseball club. The team will be known as the Brooklyn Football Dodgers.

Smith, millionaire member of Street and Smith, publishing firm whose magazines include Pic, Charm, and Madamoiselle, will share ownership of the team with William Cox, president of Piling Associates, Inc., and Dr. Mal Stevens, former Yale and New York university football coach, who is on duty in the Pacific with the naval rank of lieutenant commander. Charles Grimes, New York attorney who was assistant to Gov. Dewey when the latter was a racket busting district attorney, will be chairman of the board.

Rickey Praises Venture

Cox, one time owner of the Philadelphia National league baseball team, will be vice president and general manager and Dr. Stevens will coach the team. Fred Fitzsimmons, one of Brooklyn's most celebrated baseball figures, will be business manager. Cox withdrew from baseball when the late Commissioner Landis accused him of betting on the Phillies in violation of baseball regulations.

Branch Rickey, general manager of the Dodgers baseball club, who negotiated the lease with the football tenant, predicts success for the new eleven.

"Smith and Cox are good business men," Rickey said today. "The All-America conference is a substantial addition to professional football. It's time the sport had some real competition. Brooklyn fans are loyal. Give them a team that's colorful and they'll support it."

Ebbets field became available as a site for the All-America conference team last spring when Rickey served notice on Dan Topping's National league club that he would extend a lease on the premises for only one year. Topping later bought an interest in the New York baseball Yankees and plans to move his football team to the Bronx next season.

Start Play Next Year

The Brooklyn All-America club has signed several widely known college players, including Lt. Glenn Dobbs, Tulsa university's famed forward passer, and Ensign Bill Daley, whose ball carrying record at Minnesota and Michigan has few equals.

Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the famous Yankee first baseman, who represented the All-America conference at today's luncheon, said the league has eight clubs and that operations will begin in 1946. Jim Crowley, the league's $25,000 a year commissioner, is out of the city on a tour of the conference. Mrs. Gehrig is secretary-treasurer of the organization, whose offices are in the Empire State building.

Besides New York, the conference membership includes Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Miami. The eighth franchise has been granted, according to Mrs. Gehrig, but its identity will be withheld a week or two until the lease for a stadium has been signed.

IRISH, WITHOUT COLELLA, DRILL FOR PITT GAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 15 [Special]—Notre Dame's eleven, which came thru the Dartmouth game in good physical shape, underwent a light workout this afternoon in preparation for the Pittsburgh game in Pitt Stadium Saturday. Two of the players reported slight injuries, but both will be ready for action this week-end. Full Back Frank Ruggerio has bruised ribs, and Guard Jack Fallon aggravated an earlier ankle injury.

Phil Colella, high scoring freshman left half back, will not work out with the team this week. He left today to attend the funeral of his grandmother in Rochester, Pa. He will rejoin the squad in Pittsburgh on Friday. Head Coach Hugh Devore indicated today, however, that he will start Colella against the Panthers.

They'll inhale a beer occasionally, however. . . . Ken Kavanaugh, Bears' end, who was Young Bussey's roomie in pre-war days, hasn't mentioned his buddy's name since returning to the ball club. . . . Bussey, a navy lieutenant, has been missing for nine months. . . . Ted McGrew, the Philly scout, who is a member of the Cubs' hunting party now in South Dakota, tells how he persuaded Pitcher Charley Schanz of the Phils to see the light. . . . "Do you always try to throw strikes?" asked Ted. . . . "I certainly do," replied Schanz. . . . "Well, don't," cautioned the scout, "I wouldn't give a nickel for a flinger who doesn't know how to waste a pitch." . . . Bing Crosby, who plays golf almost as well as he croons, is sponsoring junior tournaments in Southern California. . . . He hopes to find a state champion among the high school players.

Formula for Peace

Great minds concentrate these days
On the problem of world peace,
That a torn and shattered universe
From war's dread may find release.

Master minds meet here and there

The ways by which all men may live
In amity with his brother.

But wasn't this problem solved centuries ago

Nurses

Eileen and May were nurses, be it said,
Who when they tucked a patient into bed
Plied him with powders, laxatives, and pills
In an endeavor to assuage his ills;
The care they gave was diligent and good
But when the hungry patient asked for food
They brought him colored triturates to take
Instead of ham and eggs and chops and steak.
'Tis true, indeed, these nurses had their points
They put hot compresses on wounded joints,
They fetched electric pads for frigid feet,
But when somebody craved a bite to eat
They filled him up with Sulfanilamide
Till he felt like a haunted house inside.
O, they were vigilant, Eileen and May,
They took the patient's pulse four times a day,
They rubbed his back with alcohol each night,
But they were stone deaf to his appetite.
Three times each day these little maids would steal
Down to the kitchen for a hearty meal,
Gulping down scores of calories in haste
Which later bobbed up 'round their hips and waist.
But when a patient craved a little chow
They rubbed his head and said: "Not now! not now!"
Their motto was: Live horse and you'll get grass,
But mottoes are such futile things alas!
—T. E. B.

QUIZZLE TAKES SPORTSMAN'S FEATURE RACE

8,021 Bet $717,496 at Opening

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Sportsman's park, the bright and cozy half-mile race track in Cicero, opened its 30 day fall meeting yesterday with a crowd of 8,021 which wagered $717,496 and spent the Indian summer afternoon watching both favorites and long shots reach the winner's circle.

The high mark of the eight race program was Billy Nichols' victory aboard Joe Kohout's Ilefetchit in the fifth race. The mutuel return was $60.60. However, Jod Jessup, the sensational rider who rates among the nation's leading jockeys, accounted for the featured sixth event with A. S. Higgins' Quizzle.

Bushwacker Is Second

The 7-year-old son of Milkman took the $2,000 Salutation purse, a mile and one sixteenth affair, handily from Bryan Wise's Bushwhacker which just nosed out B. C. Kelley's Vanflag after a stirring three trips around the half mile oval.

The customers were treated to a pari-mutuel rarity in the daily double when, after Mrs. F. F. Burrel's Bagnell had scored in the first race, Little Hare and River Trade wound up in a dead heat in the second and separate pay-offs of $51.20 and $58 were necessary. Bagnell, ridden by Aullie Carr, paid $8.20 for a $2 straight bet while Little Hare, owned by Mrs. Glen Gorbet and piloted by Jessop, returned $9.80 and Happy Hour farm's River Trade with Jack Fliter up, paid $13.20.

After Willie Hawksworth had put over C. E. Lund's Paducah at $31.60 in the seventh, Nichols closed the day's festivities by scoring with another outsider, Angelo Cilio's Rodimic which paid $25.60.

Comfort Is Assured Fans

John L. Keeshin, president and general manager of Sportsman's, had the establishment all dolled up for the occasion—grand stand and club house glass-enclosed from the sides, a paddock entirely protected from the weather, and other improvements for the comfort of the spectators.

The day's mutuel handle was just $15,800 less than the opening day of last fall's meeting.

Kaleta Hurt; Hawks Ready to Quit Camp

Regina, Sask., Oct. 15 [Special]—Pre-season work for the Chicago Blackhawks near its close here today in a hard practice session was marred by an injury to Alex Kaleta. The Blackhawks will break camp Wednesday and head for Winnipeg, where they are booked for exhibition games Thursday and Saturday.

Alex Kaleta

Kaleta, left winger who will operate on the No. 3 forward line during the impending National Hockey league season, probably will miss the first two Winnipeg exhibitions as a result of a concussion and a gash requiring 20 stitches suffered in today's workout.

Collides with Horeck

Alex was injured during scrimmage when Pete Horeck ran him into the boards. He was taken to a hospital.

The Hawks will stop in Chicago next Monday for a single day before proceeding to Boston, where they will open their league season against the Bruins Oct. 24. The Chicagoans will play their home opener in Chicago Stadium Oct. 31 against the New York Rangers.

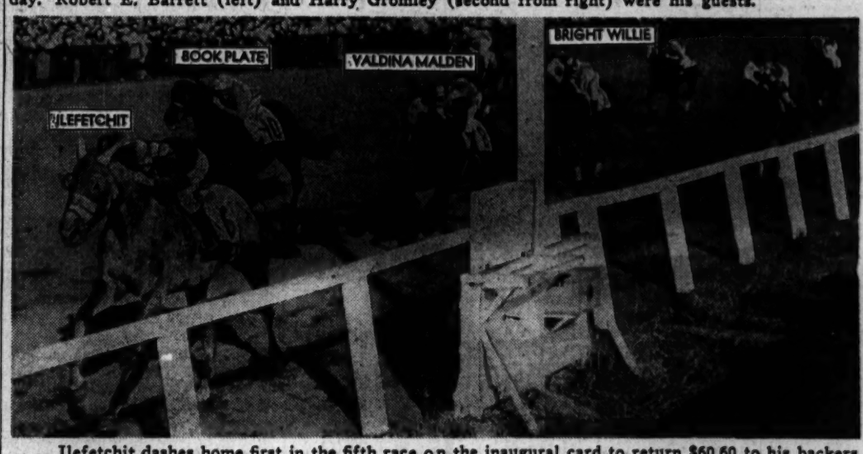
Making the trip into Winnipeg with Manager Johnny Gottselig will be two goalies, Mike Karakas and Doug Stevenson; five defense men, Joe Cooper, Johnny Mariucci, George Allen, Eddie Wares, and Reg Hamilton, and nine forwards, including Doug and Max Bentley, Bill Mosienko, Don Grosso, Red Hamill, Horeck, Clint Smith, Tom Fowler, and Bill Bensen.

Two Players Dropped

Butch MacDonald and Bob Carse have been dropped from the roster. MacDonald refused to play for the Hawks' Kansas City farm club and has returned to his home in Moosejaw and amateur hockey.

RACING SEASON ENTERS ITS FINAL PHASE

John L. Keeshin (center, standing), president and general manager of Sportsman's Park, surveys the half mile layout from windows of new solarium as the Cicero track opens its fall meeting yesterday. Robert E. Barrett (left) and Harry Gromley (second from right) were his guests.



Ilefetchit dashes home first in the fifth race on the inaugural card to return $60.60 to his backers. The crowd was 8,081, and the mutuels totaled $717,496. [TRIBUNE Photos]

LOUIS SIGNS FOR TITLE BOUT WITH CONN NEXT JUNE

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Joe Louis signed today for the champion's share of the receipts from a record breaking heavyweight title fight with Billy Conn next June and then hurried home to pack for a golfing vacation in Los Angeles.

As unconcerned as tho he had stopped in to change a dime for a subway ride to Harlem, Joe calmly posed with Promoter Mike Jacobs amidst a flurry of photographers' flash bulbs reminiscent of the good old days.

Jacobs said Conn would be in town Wednesday, when he hoped to arrange the other half of the contract that would set up the richest gate in the history of boxing.

Mike Sees Record Gate

"I expect it will do $3,000,000 at the gate, and I wouldn't want to try to guess what the figure might be if you counted in movies, radio, and television," Mike stated.

There will be no tuneup bouts for Louis before the Conn battle and there will be none for the popular Irish challenger from Pittsburgh if Jacobs has his way.

Separate exhibition tours of Europe may be arranged by Lew Burston, Jacobs' overseas representative, but it is considered more likely that the champion will be booked thru the best fight towns in the United States in a series of exhibition matches.

Out of the army only two weeks, Louis had just returned from watching his favorites, the Detroit Tigers, win the world series as he predicted. He hastened to put in a pitch for Briggs stadium as the site of the big bout.

New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Detroit had been mentioned by Jacobs as possibilities and he agreed with Louis that Briggs stadium with an enlarged seating capacity of 80,000 is attractive.

Promoter Leaves Loophole

There's a little joker in the legal document calling for Louis to fight Conn "or any other suitable opponent designated by Jacobs." The promoter slyly explained that he had added that clause "just in case Conn doesn't sign or something goes wrong."

"Joe will be in camp from March on," Jacobs declared and Louis nodded assent. The exhibition schedule all depends on how long he wants to play golf and rest in California. Everybody is asking for him, but where he'll go and when is up to him."

Major Leaguers Plan Draft, but Minor Cupboard Is Bare

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler's first draft party — the event in which the majors annually grab off whatever minor league talent might have possibilities — may not be much of a success, but not, however, thru any fault of the new $50,000 per annum boss.

The meeting has been called for Nov. 1 at baseball's present office in Chicago and most of the 16 clubs will be represented, but the pickings are expected to be slim, both because of limited demand and limited supply.

There wasn't much remaining in the minors when the war ended, thus leaving practically nothing to attract the majors' eyes, and on top of this the latter now face the possibility of being overburdened by spring with players back from service.

Quality Is Something Else

The players eligible for draft—the majors getting first pick—may run around 400 names, there being no scarcity except in quality, but the complete list is not ready. The data which are collected and put into tabulated form by Leslie O'Connor, present assistant to the commissioner and general manager of the White Sox come Dec. 15, have been slow in arriving from the Association of Minor League offices, but will be available for the drawing as scheduled.

At last year's meeting 21 players were selected by the majors, altho not all the clubs exercised their right to pick up an athlete for $7,500. The White Sox acquired Shortstop Dan Reynolds at that drawing.

Stars Are Flocking Back

Players are being turned back daily by the military services and in another month the major clubs may be so loaded with material that all will be in a jam they may not be able to relieve without an alteration in the rules governing disposal of service men. This same problem confronts many of the minor league clubs that operated thru the war period.

With reserve lists jammed, there may be more than a few big league bargains available during the winter but nobody, unless lucky, will be in a position to take advantage of the market.

A bulletin from the office of the commissioner shows that Burt Shotton has been released as coach with the Indians. Shotton sealed his fate with the Indians one day last summer when, while in the third base coaching box he caught a foul fly, thus rendering automatically out the man who hit the ball. Shotton also was coaching when the White Sox pulled the hidden ball trick on Manager Lou Boudreau at third base.

Catcher Clyde McCullough and Infielder Cy Bloch, both dischargees, have already signed their club contracts for the '46 season.

Martin Beats Droll in Bout at Marigold

Tony [Cianciola] Martin, veteran Milwaukee middleweight, was awarded an unpopular decision over Benny Droll of Peoria in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

The capacity crowd of 1,773, which paid a gross gate of $3,806.92, showed its displeasure by booing and throwing objects into the ring until long after the fighters had left their dressing rooms.

William Johnson, south side middleweight, knocked out Jack Hill of Bloomington, Ill., in the second round of a scheduled five round semi-windup. Hill was down for a nine count.

Roy Lewis, veteran Muncie, Ind., southpaw, won a five round decision over Jimmy Martin of Chicago, in a supporting bout. Robert Pryor of Chicago scored a technical knockout over Dick Czerniak, of Milwaukee in the first round of a scheduled four round bout. In the opener, LeRoy Scales of Chicago won on a technical knockout over George Sapolich of Johnston, Pa., in the fourth of a scheduled five rounder.

Larry McPhail's Hearing Postponed Indefinitely

Bel Air, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—Tomorrow's scheduled hearing for Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees, who was named in three warrants after he went to the Bel Air telephone office to lodge a complaint, was postponed today at the request of his attorney. Trial Magistrate Stanley Spencer said no new date had been set.

Georgia's Stock Skyrockets as Trippi Returns

Athens, Ga., Oct. 15 (AP)—Half Back Charley Trippi came back to the University of Georgia today after two and a half years in the air corps and the Bulldogs' hopes of receiving a bowl bid skyrocketed.

Trippi's discharge with 41 points last week created a stir in the south and brought statements from Georgia's Democratic senators W. F. George and R. B. Russell that they had talked to Secretary of War Patterson about a release for him. Trippi was declared surplus by the war department.

Star of the Rose Bowl in 1943 and listed on the Associated Press All-America service team last year, Trippi was registered in the school of commerce by Registrar Ralph Thaxton.

JACK GROUT'S 217 WINS ILLINOIS P. G. A. TOURNEY

Jack Grout of Butterfield chipped in for a last hole eagle and a score of 217 to win the Illinois P. G. A. golf tournament held yesterday at Skokie. Arie Ball of the Glenview Naval Air station fired 218 to finish second in the 36 hole meet.

Other prize winners were Johnny Revolta of Evanston and Jim Foulis of La Grange, tied for third with 221; George Smith of Onwentsia, fourth with 223; Johnny Gibson of Westmorland, fifth with 224; Charles Penna, of Beverly, Bob Stupple of Skokie and Sam Bernardi of Old Elm, tied for sixth with 226, and Jules Platt of Great Lakes, seventh with 228.

12 BALL CLUBS PICK FLORIDA SPRING BASES

Sox, 3 Other Teams to California

Training Sites

BIG league baseball teams will flock back to Florida and California for spring training in 1946. Following are the sites selected by the 16 clubs:

FLORIDA
Boston Braves—Fort Lauderdale.
Brooklyn Dodgers—Daytona Beach.
Cincinnati Reds—Tampa.
New York Giants—Miami.
Philadelphia Phillies—Miami Beach.
St. Louis Cards—St Petersburg.
New York Yankees—St. Petersburg.
Washington Senators—Orlando.
Philadelphia Athletics—West Palm Beach.
Detroit Tigers—Lakeland.
Cleveland Indians—Clearwater.
Boston Red Sox—Sarasota.

CALIFORNIA
Chicago Cubs—Catalina Island.
Chicago White Sox—Site to be selected.
Pittsburgh Pirates—San Bernardino.
St. Louis Browns—Anaheim.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The White Sox, temporarily in eclipse during the late and lamented world series, have no thought of withdrawing from the activities of the hot stove league.

Within a few days they will kindle the merry little furnace by announcing where the team is going to train. Then will come the draft of players, in Chicago Nov. 1, followed by the inauguration, about Dec. 10, of their new general manager, Leslie O'Connor, and perhaps some dope on the possible return of Taft Wright, Don Kolleway, Johnny Rigney, Ralph Hodgin, Thurman Tucker, and others now lingering in Uncle Sam's service.

Manager Jim Dykes has been doing a lot of scouting these last few weeks, but not for players. The White Sox, it is said, will go back to Pasadena, hard by Hollywood, if Skipper Jim can find a place for his hopefuls to reside, or they may train in Fullerton, Ontario or Pomona, all fine California cities in the so-called Orange empire.

Florida Remote Possibility

If Dykes and other real estate scouts decide, in a survey now being conducted, that living and practice facilities are inadequate or unobtainable in all these cities, the Sox may go to Florida, tho this last now is considered improbable.

Present activity anent training, with four months remaining before the take off to camp, grows out of the desire to make arrangements for an old time exhibition schedule. The 12 major league teams which will train in Florida got together in Detroit during the world series and outlined plans for a boom exhibition season to mark the end of the three year, war time northern training curtailment.

The four teams which will train in California will similarly get together on a schedule as soon as the Sox decide where their headquarters are going to be. The Cubs will go back on their former Catalina-Los Angeles program, the Pittsburgh Pirates will return to San Bernardino, and the St. Louis Browns at Anaheim, Cal.

Sox Loyal to Pasadena

The three towns the Sox are considering other than Pasadena are within easy bus hauls of the training bases of the Pirates and Browns, and the Cubs, after they move to Los Angeles from Mr. Wrigley's magic isle, Catalina. Fullerton, listed in the last census as a town of 10,000, is only four miles from the Anaheim base of the 1944 league champions, the Browns. It is south of Los Angeles. Ontario and Pomona are almost due east of Los Angeles. Pomona is listed as a city of almost 21,000 and Ontario 14,000. The Los Angeles Angels have done their training in Ontario a number of years and both Sox and Cubs formerly made exhibition stands there.

The Sox still claim Brookside park in Pasadena is the best of all training sites and there would be no scurrying around except for housing congestion in Pasadena. The Green hotel, headquarters of the Sox during their California stay, is bulging with guests who may not wish to vacate for ballplayers, come February.

Who'll Conduct Player Draft?

Vice President Harry Grabiner, who resigned several weeks ago after a life time in Comiskey service, will continue active in the organization until the major league meetings convene in Chicago on Dec. 10. During this time his appointed successor, Mr. O'Connor, will be kept busy with post-world series duties in connection with his present position as special assistant to Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

For many years O'Connor conducted the player draft for the late Commissioner Landis. There is nothing about the annual raffle that would prevent his again presiding at it and at the same time placing claims for players subject to the draft. The list of draft eligibles will be made known to Manager Dykes, and that doughty character will be behind the draw when it comes the turn of the White Sox, as sixth placers, to make their selections.

3 VICTORIES IN ROW PUT RAMS IN PRO SPOTLIGHT

Walsh's Hunt for Talent Pays Dividends

BY EDWARD PRELL

The Cleveland Rams are pro football's first shining post-war machine. It is a genuinely new one, even as to the coaches. An enthusiastic spirit is there. Of course, three straight victories will do wonders, especially when the Bears and Packers are included as victims.

This is the ball club which comes to Wrigley field Sunday to defend its lead against the Bears, with the unbelievable record of three defeats and no victories.

Charles [Chile] Walsh, general manager of the Cleveland Rams, is not the most popular fellow in the league, but the fact remains that he has done a remarkable job in a talent hunt which cost the team thousands of dollars and Walsh many hours of overtime toil. It is said that the Rams have the most complete information on college players in the land.

Advantage in Draft

At the last reckoning the Rams had 14 first year players. Only three of their 33 men had played professional football more than four seasons. Nine have played only two years. Of course, the Rams, as a pre-war tailend team, had an advantage in drafting top college players. One of these is Bob Waterfield, U. C. L. A. star, who is Cleveland's T formation quarter back. Bob has thrown at least one touchdown pass in the team's six exhibition or league games.

After assembling all this new talent, General Manager Walsh hired his brother, Adam, as head coach. Adam was captain and center of Notre Dame's Four Horseman team of 1924. The new coach, who had served at Santa Clara and Bowdoin as head coach and at Yale and Harvard as line coach, wisely selected two pro veterans as his aids. These are George Trafton, line coach, and Bob Snyder, back field coach. It perhaps is ironical to old Bears and fans that this pair is imbuing the Rams with a helping of the Bear winning spirit.

College Stars on Roster

Some of the Rams' first year finds, in addition to Waterfield are: Don Greenwood, Illinois half back; Rudy Sikich, Minnesota tackle; Gil Bouley, Boston college tackle; Milan Lazetich, Michigan guard; Ralph Ruthstrom, Southern Methodist full back; Steve Nemeth, Notre Dame half back, and Roger Eason, Oklahoma tackle.

The Rams, anticipating strong competition next year from Lt. Paul Brown's Cleveland All-Americas, are treating their players handsomely. Capt. Dan Reeves, an investment banker who recently was placed on inactive duty by the army, is the Rams' owner. Their victory over Green Bay cost him $1,800, divided into $50 lots among 33 players and three coaches as a bonus for the first triumph over the Packers in six years.

FARM MACHINE RISE TRACED BY INT. HARVESTER

Preview of Newest Models Given

BY JACK WEIL

International Harvester company yesterday presented a panoramic demonstration of its agricultural machinery and equipment tracing the development from Cyrus McCormick's first horse drawn reaper thru the modern self-propelled harvester-thresher. New units not yet in production were shown, including a "cub" tractor designed for farms smaller than 40 acres.

The showing was at Harvester's Hinsdale experimental farm. The audience consisted of about 200 newspaper men from all sections of the country and Canada, along with top Harvester officials.

Speakers, including Fowler McCormick, president, emphasized that farm machinery must do a more complete job than ever before in enabling farmers to produce more food with less effort and at lower cost.

Hitch in the Proceedings

A procession of 31 types of tractors—ranging from its biggest and most powerful machine designed for heavy work in the wheat lands to the orchard model, streamlined to prevent injury to branches of fruit trees—was slowed slightly when the engine of an early 1920s model sputtered and failed and the tractor had to be pushed from the field. The unrehearsed incident lent emphasis to the smooth performance of currently produced models.

The new "farmall cub" tractor pulling a 12 inch plow will work over 2½ to 3 acres per 10 hours in most soils, tho its four cylinder engine under maximum load will consume less than a gallon of gasoline per hour.

It will be produced at Harvester's proposed new 47 million dollar Wood River, Ill., plant. Land is being graded on the new site, and production of the new unit will not begin for at least a year, said officials.

Facilitates Operator's Work

Harvester's new "touch control" power actuating system was demonstrated. An integral part of the tractor, it enables the operator with a light touch on a small lever to raise or lower and regulate the attached implement without stopping work.

Several machines developed in the war and now in commercial production include the mechanical cotton picker, a one man operated hay baler, and a self-propelled combine. Not yet in production but expected to be by the end of 1946 are the cut-off corn picker and the sugar beet harvester.

Other units in various stages of experiment are a side delivery rake, highway mower, dry hay chopper, green hay chopper, small hay baler, power loader, a small type self-propelled combine, and a small type corn picker.

Two Types of Farm Freezers

Harvester expects to be producing two types of farm home freezers by the end of next year. Dairy equipment will include milk coolers, formerly produced, but incorporating refinements. It will continue to make milkers and cream separators.

McCormick, confirming reports the company had been discussing for several weeks with Reconstruction Finance corporation officials the purchase of the Melrose Park plant operated by Buick division of General Motors corporation during the war, said an announcement would be made soon regarding the matter. He said the price stage had been reached in the talks.

Steel Lag Hits Reconversion in Milwaukee

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15 — This city's two largest industries, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company and A. O. Smith corporation, have practically completed their shift from war to peace time output and expect to start mass production in a few weeks if materials and man power are available.

Walter Geist

Officials of the two companies told of their progress to newspaper men reporting on industrial reconversion thruout the country.

Walter Geist, Allis-Chalmers president, said his company needed immediately 3,000 skilled and unskilled workers and could use unlimited amounts of steel, which is in short supply because of the coal mine strikes. Anthony von Wening, vice president of A. O. Smith, said sufficient labor was available, but expressed concern over dwindling steel supplies.

Reconversion Not Sufficient

Allis-Chalmers' reconversion problems are relatively simple and the company is ready to start on a 65 million dollar backlog of heavy production machinery, including power generating equipment and mining machinery and an "unlimited" demand for farm machinery. This includes tractors and several new products which will appear early next year.

Among the new items is a mechanical sweet corn picker, a silage machine which cuts feed in the fields, and a hay rake and baler which requires for its operation one man instead of the customary five.

When reconversion is complete, Allis-Chalmers expects to employ a conservatively estimated 25,000 persons, compared with 17,000 before the war, and 40,000 in the war.

Will Top Pre-war Total

A. O. Smith's employment will be about 8,500 compared with 6,500 before the war and 18,000 at peak war production. This estimate is based on a present backlog of 25 million dollars of orders for large steel pipe, oil well casing, and other heavy industrial items. It does not include automobile frames, the company's principal line. Von Wening said ultimate requirements of the automobile industry appear to assure substantial business. The world's largest producer of auto frames, the company can turn out 10,000 a day.

The company will introduce several new products, including a clothes dryer and a domestic stoker.

The company plans expansion totaling between 5 and 10 million dollars and may buy one or more government owned plants.

ACCUSES ICKES OF 'DECEPTION OR IGNORANCE'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] told the senate today that Interior Secretary Ickes was guilty of "deception or ignorance."

The Oklahoman quoted Ickes as telling a news conference that he "knew nothing" about British regulations hindering United States petroleum interests within the British empire.

Moore read a letter which he said the London attache of the petroleum administration had written to Ickes. The letter said the British government would not change its policy.

This policy, Moore said, prevented United States oil companies from shipping in equipment necessary to repair damages. He said this equipment could not be bought from the British sources. As a result, he said, British petroleum plants in the empire were being rebuilt and those of United States companies were forced to remain closed.

People and Events

Transportation problems which railroads and shippers face will be discussed at the ninth annual meeting of the National Association of Shippers Advisory Boards Thursday in Hotel Sherman. Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, will address a joint luncheon of the shipping group with the Traffic Club of Chicago.

George W. Taylor, war labor board chairman, will discuss intelligent management of men at a dinner of the Society for the Advancement of Management Friday in the Drake hotel.

BUILDER KAISER FRONT MAN FOR SHIP CONCERNS

Supervised Yards by Telephone

(This is the third of a series of articles on Henry J. Kaiser's rise to an industrial giant.)

BY FRANK STURDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Portland, Ore., Oct. 15 — Henry Kaiser, who built ships fast when they were badly needed, had never built one until a little over a year before the United States entered the war. He still lapses into landlubber terminology around his own ship yards. To Kaiser, a ship's bow is the front end.

Altho ship building made him nationally famous, he was rarely in the ship yards when they were setting speed records. Since the first of his yards at Portland was established early in 1941, he has visited it less than a half dozen times.

Managed by Others

The yards and his multifarious other interests were managed by his two sons and a handful of employes, all surprisingly young for their responsibilities, who had been with him for years. Other members of the Six Companies, Inc., ran yards on the west coast that were credited to the "Kaiser group." Kaiser signed the contracts and made the promises, but they were carried out by his usually anonymous young men.

Officially, his headquarters was, and still is, in Oakland, Cal., but he spent a large part of his time in New York, where he established an office before the war, and in Washington, where he operated from the Shoreham hotel. His supervision over west coast production was principally by telephone. His personal attention was devoted mainly to political negotiations, the working out of loans and contracts, and the storming of government bureaus for materials priorities. As he became better acquainted with the New Deal and famous as the man who would try anything, he sometimes visited President Roosevelt in the White House, and took on fresh prestige.

Kaiser and the Six Companies actually started in the shipbuilding business before the war in partnership with John R. Reilly of New York, president of the Todd Shipyards. They formed Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding corporation to offer a successful 9 million dollar bid in September, 1939, for five cargo ships for the maritime commission. Reilly withdrew in 1942.

Traditional Methods Cast Out

Traditionally, ships were built by laying the keel, then adding plates, decks, and superstructure piece by piece. The Kaiser people had never built a ship. His managers studied textbooks, hired what experienced ship men could be had, then attacked shipbuilding as they would any heavy construction job. They reasoned that the speed Kaiser had promised could not be obtained with traditional methods.

To prevent crowding on the ways and to eliminate delay in one part because a slower component might not be ready, they decided to spread out production, make space contribute to speed, and prefabricated such parts as deckhouses to be lowered ready built to the hulls. The Liberty ship design was based on that of an old type British frater. It was chosen for its simplicity.

Soon after Liberty ships began operating, complaints piled up that they were unseaworthy and the yards were turning them out with critical faults in workmanship. Their British prototype was a riveted ship. The welding of hulls, tho not new, had not been extensively practiced. It was adopted to speed Liberty ship production.

Output Records Set

Production records were established by adopting speedy materials handling techniques and pouring on workmen. At the end of its program of 322 Liberty ships, Oregon yards, leading all yards in the country, was turning them out fully equipped for sea in an average of 28 days. As a spectacular demonstration, the yard completed a ship in 14 days in September, 1942.

Kaiser, as front man for the entire group and the most vocal, was credited with the accomplishments of all the yards by the public, in much the same way as in earlier years, the dam and bridge building achievements were stamped Kaiser, and the Six Companies partners were overshadowed.

Railroad Must Stand on Own, Says Johnston

Improvements in transportation methods are likely to continue for many years, well beyond the nation's ability to produce traffic that will keep all of them in profitable operation, Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central railroad, told the Western Railway club last night in Hotel Sherman.

The war time condition in which the public actually had to use the railroads will not continue, and railroads must stand or fall purely on their own merits as public carriers, he asserted.

Economy Not Always a Standby

Nor will the advantage of economy always remain a prime attraction of the railroad. Johnston mentioned as an example that some airplane fares compete or even undercut rail transportation rates.

"Consequently, we must look upon the road ahead for the railroads as a pathway that will be successfully followed only by those who create and deserve a public preference for railroading," he said. "That preference will come about only if the railroads enlist all their capabilities in the campaign."

Raps "Case-Hardened" Thinking

Unfortunately, too many railroad men have been inclined to respond to any suggestions strictly on the basis of preconceived opinions, he asserted.

"If a thing has always been done one way, some of us have felt, I am afraid, that that's the way it always ought to continue to be done. New public policies regarding rates and regulations, for example, have invariably brought about a concerted response from within the railroad industry itself to the general effect that, because this thing or that has never been done that particular way before, it must not now be done—or even tried experimentally—upon the suggested basis. Railroading in the future cannot be successful if based upon such case-hardened habits of thinking."

HALSEY BIDS WIN BIG BOND ISSUES OF RAIL, UTILITY

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and a group of associates were high bidders yesterday for $22,500,000 Public Service Company of Oklahoma first mortgage 2¾ per cent bonds due July 1, 1975, and $25,982,000 New York Connecting railroad first mortgage 2⅞ per cent bonds due 1975. There were two other bidders on each issue. The railroad bonds were reoffered immediately at 100. The group planned to reoffer the utility securities later this week at 99½.

Blyth & Co. offered 30,000 shares of Climax Molybdenum company stock as a secondary distribution at 40¼ a share. H. M. Byllesby & Co. offered 40,000 shares of F. L. Jacobs company common at 15⅛ a share. Montana Power company invited bids for the purchase of 40 million dollars first mortgage bonds due 1975.

Offering will be made today by a group headed by Harriman Ripley & Co. of 60,000 shares of Dresser Industries preferred stock, 3¾ per cent series, $100 par, at $103 and accrued dividends. The stock is convertible prior to Sept. 15, 1955, into common stock at the rate of 2½ shares of common for each of preferred.

COAL SHORTAGE CUTS STEEL PRODUCTION TO LOW SINCE MAY, 1940

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—A further sharp slash in steel production because of the shortage of coal will carry the operating rate this week to the lowest level since May 6, 1940.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated today mills would operate at 66.3 per cent of capacity and turn out 1,214,400 tons. A week ago mills operated at 73.5 per cent and a month ago the rate was 83.2. A year ago the figure was 97.0.

STOCK MARKET EDGES HIGHER, LED BY STEELS

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Assorted issues, led by steels, rose in the stock market today to new peaks since early 1937 altho many leaders stumbled on profit selling and many top gains running to about three points were reduced at the close.

Buying orders accumulating over the three-day recess caused a lively opening trade in which 20,000 share blocks appeared. Dealings tapered and many pivotals turned lower.

American Airlines dropped two points on word the Aviation corporation might have to sell some 236,000 shares of its holding of the former if the civil aeronautics board should order divestiture following a show-cause order issued last week.

BOND MARKET UNEVEN

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Rails and industrials rose unevenly in today's bond market. Leaders gained fractions to a point, tho the Peoria and Eastern railroad rose 5. Losers were scattered thru all groups and numerous issues were unchanged. Sales aggregated $6,540,000 against $6,300,000 last Thursday.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE

Prices rose on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in turnover of 58,000 shares. Active issues included Consolidated Biscuit, up ½; Asbestos Manufacturing, down ⅛; Standard Dredging, up ¼, and Wisconsin Bankshares, up ½. Nine issues reached new highs, including Chicago preferred, up 2, and Parker Pen and Dixie Cup, each up 1.

KIMBERLY-CLARK WILL BUILD NEW WISCONSIN UNIT

Niagara, Wis., Oct. 15 [Special]—Kimberly-Clark corporation will begin a 5 million dollar expansion program next week in the manufacture of book paper at its Quinnesec mill, Cola G. Parker, president, said today. It will include the erection of a new building adjacent to the present mill.

The building will accommodate two high speed machines for the manufacture of coated book paper and supplying straight line production. One machine will be installed at once. The facilities will be completed in 1947.

Besides the new construction, a complete mill modernization program will be carried out. New material handling facilities will be installed, and existing machinery will be modernized. The program will convert Quinnesec into a completely integrated mill able to consume all of its own pulp, Parker said.

ASKS DECISION ON ALUMINUM FIRMS' SUBSIDY

Would Sell Plants, Says Symington

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Surplus Property Administrator Symington asked congress today to determine whether subsidies may be granted new aluminum processors. Appearing before members of the senate military affairs, surplus property, and post-war planning committees, Symington said no one has offered to buy the government's scattered aluminum plants.

Sam Husbands, in charge of light metals plants for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said two companies have talked about lease proposals. These were Reynolds Metals company and Columbia Metals company. Both, however, required guarantees by the government, he said.

Seek Sale to Competitors

"We are trying to sell or lease these aluminum plants to competitors of Alcoa [Aluminum Company of America], believing it our duty under the [surplus property] act," Symington told the group.

Alcoa has been declared by a court decision to be a monopoly. The surplus property act requires the board to dispose of the plants so as to foster competition.

Symington proposed that congress say whether RFC may or may not subsidize new aluminum producers.

Would Aid in Decisions

"Such action would help by determining how far the government can go in its disposal contracts," he said.

Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.] has introduced a bill forbidding any subsidy arrangements with commercial operators.

The automobile industry offers the best possibility for absorbing aluminum at a war time rate, Symington said. He predicted that the auto industry will not turn to aluminum until it has a price based on aluminum and has at least two sources of supply.

General Electric Will Buy Stock of Cleaner Firm

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—General Electric company will acquire the outstanding stock of Electric Vacuum Cleaner company of East Cleveland, O., Ray Leubbe, General Electric vice president, said today. At a stockholders' meeting, 90 per cent of the Electric Vacuum stock was voted in favor of the acquisition. The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

30% Pay Hike Plea Assailed by G. M. Head

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 15 [Special]—Warning that the post-war problem could not be solved by juggling with the value of money, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors corporation, lashed out tonight at labor's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase in the automotive industry and called for "a sound national wage and price policy to stabilize and expand the economy."

Wilson, principal speaker at a dinner marking the dissolution of the automotive council for war production, also criticized those in Washington who ignored, two years ago, the warning of the automotive industry that the time had come to start preparations for reconversion.

Resume Negotiations Friday

Wilson's remarks took on added significance from the fact that, on Friday, General Motors is to resume wage negotiations with the CIO United Automobile Workers and on Oct. 24 the national labor relations board is to take a strike vote among General Motors employes.

Wilson asserted that large increases in wages without a corresponding increase in productivity were inflationary.

"The same pay for shorter hours without an equivalent increase in productivity has the same effect," he said. "If, in principle, this policy were sound, why not go the whole way—pay everybody five times as much and work 10 hours a week and, if the idea were sound, we would then have all the things we want and more than enough leisure to enjoy them.

Expects Higher Wages

"The automotive industry has always believed in paying high wages and expects to pay increasingly high wages if the people of our country are willing to work for the things they would like to have."

Referring to the deficit financing of the war, Wilson said American industry and business could not follow that example and spend twice as much as it took in.

VINSON HOPES FOR BALANCED BUDGET BY '48

Hinges on No More Tax Cuts, He Warns

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15—A balanced federal budget by 1948 is possible, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson told the senate finance committee today as hearings opened on the tax bill reducing 1948 taxes by more than 5 billion dollars.

Vinson's prediction, made under questioning by Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], a leading senate advocate of economy in government, was based, the treasury head warned, on a national income of 130 billion dollars and no tax cuts beyond those contemplated in the pending bill.

Asks Change in Tax Bill

Vinson told the committee the government will have a deficit of 30 billion 500 million dollars in the 1946 fiscal year ending next June 30, tapering off of war expenditures will reduce the deficit in the 1946 calendar year, he said.

Vinson asked the senate committee to rewrite the tax bill approved by the house last week and to adopt the three-point interim program for tax reduction he had asked the house to enact. His program would:

1. Repeal the excess profits tax effective Jan. 1, 1946.
2. Repeal the normal individual income tax effective Jan. 1, 1946.
3. Reduce excise taxes to their 1942 rates effective July 1, 1946.

Retains Profits Levy

The house bill would keep the excess profits tax on the books but would reduce its maximum 85⅓ per cent rate to 60 per cent. The tax would be repealed Dec. 31, 1946. The bill also would cut the corporate surtax rate from 25 to 21 per cent.

CATTLE PRICES CLIMB TO PEAK 26 YEAR LEVEL

Supplies 11 Pct. Below Week Ago Total

Competition among Chicago and eastern packers to maintain their beef volume in the face of an unseasonal decrease in market receipts of cattle yesterday raised the general level of prices in Chicago to the highest point in 26 years and the highest for October on record.

With the supply 11 per cent below a week ago and 16 per cent below a year earlier, buyers bid the ceiling price for best grades of steers and raised the market 25 cents a hundred pounds in most classes selling below the ceiling.

Sheep and lamb receipts of 9,500 were 28 per cent below a week earlier and abnormally small for an October Monday. Most prices were steady, altho a small lot rose 10 cents to $14.60, within 5 cents of the highest level since early August.

Hogs sold at ceiling prices, with the supply far below trade requirements.

MEAT STORAGE FALLS

Holdings of pork in cold storage on Oct. 1 were the smallest on record at 213,173,000 pounds, the department of agriculture said yesterday. Lard holdings of 56,753,000 pounds were the smallest since May and the second lowest on record for the date.

The total of all meats in storage was 450,777,000 pounds, the lowest level since Nov. 1, 1940. Beef stocks of 204,167,000 pounds were the largest for an Oct. 1 since 1918. Lamb and mutton holdings were 9,446,000 pounds, smallest since July, 1943.

Supplies of butter in storage made a large gain above a year ago altho they were slightly lower than on Sept. 1. Poultry stocks improved and cheese and egg holdings decreased slightly in the month.

Stocks of principal commodities on Oct. 1, compared with a month and a year earlier, in thousands of pounds, were:

	Oct. 1, 1945	Sept. 1, 1945	Oct. 1, 1944

GRAIN FUTURES TUMBLE; PROFIT SALE IS FACTOR

Heavy selling of grain futures in the late trading sent prices tumbling yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat broke 2¼ to 3⅜ cents a bushel from the early top and closed 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents lower. All deliveries of rye and May and September oats set new seasonal peaks early, but reacted with wheat. Rye closed off 1⅛ to 2⅝, oats ⅜ to 1¼, barley 1 to 1¾, and corn ⅛ to 1½.

Failure of outside buying to broaden on an early advance and profit taking after a steady rise for more than a week furnished the background for the selling.

Government buying of cash wheat continued in the northwest at ceiling prices. Little wheat was available for sale at Chicago.

Chicago Mail Order Issue Bought by Insurance Firm

Robert W. Jackson, president of Chicago Mail Order company, said yesterday a 3 million dollar issue of 3 per cent sinking fund debentures, due Oct. 15, 1960, had been sold to the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Proceeds will be added to working capital. He said 3½ per cent sinking fund debentures sold last year have been paid off in full.

CITY RAILWAYS LEADS PROTEST ON TRANSIT PLAN

Igoe Hears Stockholders Charge 'Freeze Out'

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Opposition to the plan under which the Chicago metropolitan transit authority would purchase and operate the surface and elevated lines, on the ground the proposed buying price is "grossly inadequate," was raised yesterday in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe. The court is in charge of the two companies in bankruptcy.

Atty. James A. Sproul, representing stockholders of an underlying surface lines company, the Chicago City railways, asserted his clients were being "frozen out" and he had never heard of a similar reorganization case in which this scheme prevailed.

Sproul contended that Chicago City railways was not insolvent, but that its first mortgage bondholders had grown tired and agreed to a plan that would give them a return of nearly all their principal. He said that with a proper valuation the stockholders would get a substantial return on their investment.

Wants "Cash on Barrel Head"

Atty. William R. Morgan, representing the series B bonds of Chicago railways, objected to any completion of the plan until the authority has "cash to lay on the barrel head." He also opposed any waiver of claims against the city of Chicago, as proposed by the authority and the investor groups who will get something out of the sale.

Atty. John E. Gavin asserted that under bankruptcy law only the trustees could make a plan—that the authority could not do so. The trustees, appointed by the court, should set a fair value and make certain the money is ready before the investors vote on acceptance of the proposed sale, he said.

"The bidder has no money," Gavin added. "Our funds have not been used for modernization, as they should have been. With a fair valuation there would be something for the B bondholders of Chicago Railways."

Retain Some Cash on Hand

The authority plan is to pay 75 million dollars for the surface lines and let the investors retain another 13 millions of cash. The authority, however, would take over 25 millions of renewal funds.

The offer to the L security holders is 12 millions plus retention of real estate estimated as worth 3 millions. Atty. Werner Schroeder, for the authority, told the court the L investors had followed the example of the surface lines' investing senior groups and signed agreements to accept the offer made them.

The surface lines heeded a request of the authority that 12 millions of the renewal funds be left intact when the authority takes over. They announced they would hold down spending for new equipment to meet that requirement.

"L" KILLS RAILWAY CLERK

William Annas, 43, of 460 N. Austin blvd., Oak Park, a chief clerk in the superintendent's office of the North Western railroad, was killed yesterday under an elevated train at the Halsted st. and North av. station.

G. W. BORG CORPORATION

Please provide a report on George W. Borg corporation—B. F.

The business of George W. Borg trically wound clocks for automobiles; the Bradley knitting mills, which makes sweaters and plans to add other knitted goods to its line, and Thomas B. Gibbs & Co., which produces mechanical and corporation is conducted in three divisions at its plant in Delavan, Wis. These are the Borg division, a leading manufacturer of elec- electronic devices, including watch timing apparatus and hair spring vibrating equipment.

In the last three years, nearly all the output of the Borg and Gibbs divisions has consisted of war products.

The company was incorporated in Delaware in 1935. George W. Borg is president. Outstanding are 345,000 shares of $10 par capital stock, of which 150,000 were recently offered to the public at $14 a share, including $1,875 underwriting discounts. The 150,000 shares represented half of Borg's holdings.

The company's profit in the fiscal year ended June 30 was equal to $1.29 a share, and in the six years ended on that date averaged $1.15, as adjusted to the present capitalization. In the three years ended June 30, 1939, the average was 84 cents. The company said it intended to pay dividends of 20 cents quarterly. Net working capital last June 30 was $2,270,703. There is no funded debt.

Borg is a director and former board chairman of Borg-Warner corporation. There is, however, no connection between the two companies.

HERCULES PLANT EXPANSION WILL COST 30 MILLION

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Hercules Powder company today announced a 30 million dollar three year construction program which will maintain employment at 10,000, compared with the 1939 total of 5,750.

The company will double its cellulose acetate production by purchase of facilities at Parlin, N. J., from the Defense Plants corporation. An addition to the Brunswick, Ga., plant, to be completed by April 1, will expand naval stores by 20 per cent.

Other additions and improvements are planned at its seven dynamite and blasting cap plants, the paper makers chemical plants, the naval stores plants at Hattiesburg, Miss., and the purified chemical cotton plant in Hopewell, Va.

Ice Cream Maker Fined for Exceeding Milk Quota

The Shedd company, ice cream manufacturer at 319 E. 117th st., was fined $1,500 yesterday by Federal Judge Barnes on a criminal charge of exceeding its quota of milk solids by 27,000 pounds in 1943 and 1944.

SEEK MORE DATA ON AIRPORT AT DOUGLAS SITE

BY ROBERT HOWARD

The Chicago airport selection board concentrated its attention yesterday on the Chicago and North Western railroad right of way along the west side of the Douglas airport. Additional information was requested on whether it would be necessary to move the tracks to get adequate acreage for an airport big enough to meet the city's future needs.

David L. Behncke, president of the Airlines Pilots association, said it would be short sighted to plan for an airport with runways less than 10,000 feet long. It would be possible to place tangential runways from 6,000 to 7,700 feet long at the Douglas site without moving the tracks, but future expansion would be impossible, he said.

Relative Merits Argued

Behncke recommended an airport with parallel runways on a square tract of 6,000 acres, which also would be impossible at the Douglas field without moving the railroad. The board then indulged in an argument on the relative merits of parallel runways against the tangential or pinwheel design.

Behncke said the Douglas airport, which would be located south and west of the intersection of Higgins and LaGrange rds., has superior visibility and drainage and would be subject to a minimum of interference in instrument landings. The Clearing site, also under consideration despite its proximity to the Chicago airport, was described as having a flatter terrain but more obstructions from surrounding industrial plants.

Hope for Progress

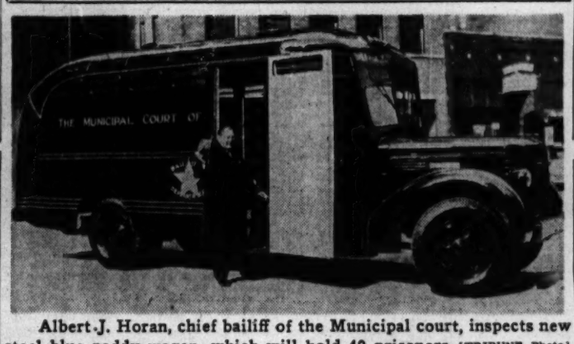
Chairman Merrill C. Meigs of the selection board expressed hope that definite progress toward recommending a site could be made Monday.

Meanwhile A. H. Mellinger was commissioned to sound out North Western railroad officials about moving the tracks, used chiefly by frate trains.

Some board members expressed the private opinion that only one or two runways of 10,000 feet would be needed. They held that the government will not permit great increases in landing speeds, even tho larger planes are built.

The 10,000 foot runways would be used only in periods of dead calm, when the direction of flight is not a consideration. At other times, it was held, landings against the wind would permit use of shorter runways.

City's New Black Maria Is Blue



Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, inspects new steel blue paddy wagon, which will hold 40 prisoners. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Bullet Proof

The municipal court's veteran "Black Maria," which in the last 23 years has transported an estimated 414,000 prisoners and traveled 150,000 miles, was retired from service yesterday.

Bailiff Albert Horan accepted the veteran's successor, a streamlined, up-to-the-minute paddy wagon which will provide soft seats for 40 prisoners.

The new wagon, as it is known in professional circles, differs in many ways from its predecessor. For one thing it is not black, but a lustrous, deep blue. It is escape and bullet proof and cost $7,600.

FLAHERTY FACES COURT TODAY IN VAULT ROBBERY

Patrick [Patsy] Flaherty will be arraigned before Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court today on a charge of robbery in connection with the $2,000,000 looting of the E. H. Rumbold Real Estate company safety deposit boxes last January.

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward yesterday transferred Flaherty's case to Judge Miner from Judge William J. Lindsay when Judge Lindsay was unable to hear it because of illness. Another defendant, Willie Niemoth, will be tried before Judge Miner after Flaherty's trial.

Thomas Leahy and Michael Kosar, who have pleaded guilty in the looting, will be arraigned before Judge Ward on Nov. 15, and the trial of a fifth defendant, Llewellyn Morgan, on robbery charges, is awaiting assignment to a judge.

MEDAL OF HONOR MARINE JOINS LEGION POST

Capt. Joseph McCarthy, 5715 S. May st., holder of the congressional medal of honor for valor on Iwo Island, last night became a member of the Marine post, American Legion, at a meeting in the Morrison hotel. Capt. McCarthy is a veteran of the 4th marine division. He received his membership card from Capt. Arthur J. Murphy, judge advocate, at a ceremony attended by Col. Chester L. Fordney, in charge of the marine central procurement division, and other officers.

RACE BARRIER HELD LEGAL IN REALTY SALES

Superior Court Judge John P. McGoorty yesterday ruled that restrictive covenants entered into by property owners not to sell to certain groups of people are legally binding in real estate sales and transactions.

He upheld the legality of an agreement by a group of property owners in the 400 block in W. 60th st. and in 60th pl. not to sell to Negroes. He ordered a trial on a suit to restrain one of the property owners from violating the covenants of the agreement.

High Courts Cited

The defendants, thru their attorneys, Irvin C. Mollison and Loring B. Moore, argued that the agreement was invalid and unconstitutional because it was discriminatory and against public policy. In denying this contention Judge McGoorty said:

"The Supreme courts of the United States and this state, besides many appellate courts, have held that such agreements are covenants running with the land and are legal and binding.

"The United States Supreme court held in the case of Corrigan V. Buckley that such restrictive covenants did not violate the Constitution or its amendments. This decision was recently reaffirmed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia."

He ordered the defendants to file an answer within 50 days.

Twenty Defendants Named

The suit was brought by George E. Tovey, 411 W. 60th st., and six other property owners thru the law firm of Hatkje, Hinckley, Kulp & Sabel. They named more than 20 defendants, including owners of the property at the time the restrictive agreement was made in 1928.

The property in question, a three story building at 417-421 W. 60th st., with 30 units, is now owned and operated by the Cadillac Hotel corporation and is occupied by Negroes.

One of the arguments raised by the defendants for dismissal of the injunction was that tenants could not be evicted without violating office of price administration regulations. Judge McGoorty ruled that the OPA regulations were not an issue.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A story in THE TRIBUNE last Friday stated erroneously that James Riley Jr., 5, of 2239 Roosevelt rd., was injured seriously on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad transfer tracks at 14th st. and Western av. The accident occurred on the North Western railroad tracks. The erroneous information was supplied by The City News bureau.

THE TRIBUNE attributed ownership of a plane which crashed at Rubinkam airport Sunday to Raymond Davis, described as an instructor at Tinley Park airport. The operator of an airport at Tinley Park says Davis never has been employed there. W. R. Jacobs, manager of Rubinkam airport, explains that Davis formerly owned the plane but that he, Jacobs, subsequently acquired it. Information on the ownership of the plane was supplied by the City News Bureau.

NEW ALDERMEN GET COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS

Committee appointments yesterday were given to three recently elected aldermen by the council committee on committees and rules, which met with a new member, Ald. Grealis [44th].

Grealis replaces on the committee its former chairman, James R. Quinn, who resigned as alderman of the 50th ward to become a member of the city's new transit commission.

Those given assignments are Ald. Huppert [50th], who was appointed to the labor and industrial relations committee and the committee on local transportation; Ald. Garippo [36th], appointed to the aviation committee, the building and zoning committee, housing committee, judiciary and local industry committees; Ald. Keane [31st], who was named to the license committee, committee on local transportation, and the schools, fire, and civil service committee.
